

HERE'S UNCLE SAM'S NEW MONEY--- GREENBACKS THAT DRAW 3 PER CENT

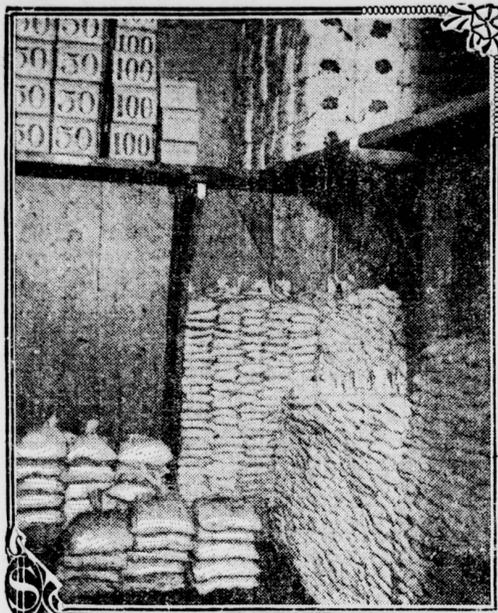

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—A greenback which bears interest at the rate of 3 per cent; that is Uncle Sam's new "certificate of indebtedness."

Ordinary paper money does not bear interest. It is good for its face value, but it does not "work." In order to make it earn, it has to be put out—lent, invested, changed into some other form of security, such as a bond, a mortgage, a note or a share of stock. But the new $50 certificates of indebtedness are going to be earning for their holders 3 per cent interest until they are called in.

These new bills will look like ordinary paper money. It has been decided that they shall be similar in size and design to the ordinary gold certificate, being varied only enough so they will not be confused with the current issues. These $50 bills will be different from ordinary $50 bills, however, because they will be worth $50 plus the interest at 3 per cent, dating from the 20th day of November, 1907. On the day of issue they are worth just $50. On the 20th of next May they will be worth $50.75, and on the 20th of November, 1908, they will be worth $51.50.

So for the man who has money in his stocking and wants to lend it to the government, the purchase of the new certificates of indebtedness is something like a snap. He gets 3 per cent, and he does not tie up his money. He can always exchange his certificate for gold, or he can use it to pay his grocery bills, for the certificates will pass as legal tender from hand to hand.

This issue of "certificates of indebtedness" is absolutely unique. Nothing like it ever has been seen in the history of the government. It is the sale of an interest-bearing government security at par. That is the thing that makes it different. It always has been the practice to sell government bonds—and anything of the government's that bears interest is regarded as a bond—at a premium. It is worth more than its face value; and such securities always have been sold, like the Panama canal bonds are to be, to the highest bidder. But there is an interest-bearing government security to be had for par—if you are lucky enough to have any allotted to you. Subscriptions to the issue closed last night as the offers registered and the promising condition of the financial situation make it improbable that further allotments than those now provided for will be necessary. Subscribers have been notified to refuse further subscriptions.

The present plan of the treasury is to call in part of the issue in six months in order to save interest charges, and it is believed that the condition of the money market will permit of this action. On a $50,000,000 issue, with half that amount called in at the expiration of half a year, the interest would not reach $3,000,000. The relaxation already noted prompts the belief that the spring season will loosen money all over the country, if the prevailing stringency is not entirely overcome before that time.

WHY CELEBRATED PEOPLE ARE THANKFUL

Can you tell in 19 words why you are thankful today?

Just try it. One—two—three—four. Oh, fine!

Now look below and see how many other Americans answer the question we just asked you.

The editor said to two score of the most celebrated Americans: "Why are you thankful? Write it in 10 words."

He took it for granted that they are thankful. A few did not reply. Maybe they are pessimists or perhaps they are like poor Caleb Powers of Kentucky, who has been in prison awaiting justice for eight years and has nothing to be thankful for.

Here are the answers: NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—I am thankful that we may still trust in God. Henry C. Potter, Bishop of New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Thankful that I've got $4.50 not in the Knickerbocker Trust. Virginia Harrod, Actress.

GHARD, Kan., Nov. 28.—For splendid popular awakening and inspiring outlook for social democracy. Eugene V. Debs, Socialist Leader.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—So glad to be allowed to live in this great old glorious world. Elsie Janis, Actress.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—That Wall st. has begun to purge itself of those wizards of high finance who move in spheres said by counsel to be beyond the reach of the penal code. Stuyvesant Fish, Former President Illinois Central Railroad.

THE TOMBS, NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Thankful for the loyalty of a devoted wife, the understanding sympathy of a thinking public and for sincere friendships. Harry Kendall Thaw.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Thankful for the joy of living in this beautiful world. Lillie Devereaux Blake.

OGUNQUIT, Me., Nov. 28.—I am thankful that I can't express my thank in 10 words. John Kendrick Bangs, Humorist.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Am thankful for President Roosevelt, my country, home and family. Mrs. David McLean, Regent D. A. R.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28.—I am thankful that God is using me to help Him save humanity. Carrie Nation.

For the revelation of God's love, Christ's redemption and humanity. Anthony Comstock, Famous Purist.

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 28.—Because my Father's goodness crowns the year. Fannie Crosby, Blind Hymn Writer.

PORT RICHMOND, S. I., Nov. 28.—For new-born Oklahoma, first state to adopt a truly democratic constitution. Edwin Markham, Author of "The Man With the Hoe."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—Thankful for the many blessings we as a nation enjoy. George Dewey, Admiral U. S. N.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Thankful for bond that joins union working-women. Mary Dreier, President Woman's Trade Union League.

JAIL, GEORGETOWN, Ky., Nov. 28.—Sorry not to be able to comply with your request. Caleb Powers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Thankful that God's mercies and blessings will yet eliminate jails. George C. Houghton, Pastor "Little Church Around the Corner."

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Thankful to be living in this grand and glorious world. Oscar Hammerstein, Theatrical Magnate.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Thankful that this is the day the Lord made. Thomas P. Slicer, Pastor All Souls' Church.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Thankful for season that has been a continuous curtain call. Margaret Livingston, Actress.

MURDERS HER BABY JUNCTION CITY, Ore., Nov. 28.—Mrs. Ira Lemon left a dishpan of hot water on the floor and went into another room, leaving her baby, age two years. She returned just in time to see the babe fall into the pan. The little one died in fearful agony.

HOT GRIDIRON FIGHT TODAY

SPOKANE AND SEATTLE TEAMS ON FIELD FOR BATTLE OF THEIR LIVES HERE THIS AFTERNOON.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the fiercest football game ever seen on local grounds begun, if the intentions of the teams from Seattle and the S. A. C. were carried out. The dissatisfaction of Seattle men at their treatment in the boxing and wrestling bouts last night has intensified the rivalry to so great an extent that this afternoon's game will be fought, not only from a standpoint of athletic superiority but in personal fighting spirit engendered last night.

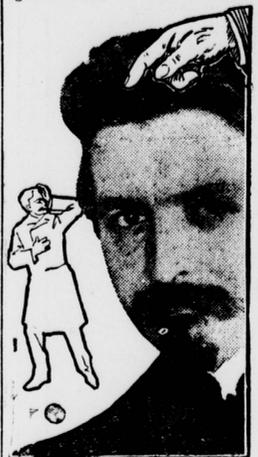

Capt. Kunzig, of Spokane, says his men are in fine condition to withstand Seattle's onslaughts. He predicts victory for his men. Coach Varnell, of Spokane, is also strutting like a turkey not far enough for this Thanksgiving, and saying that he expects to keep Seattle from scoring.

The grounds at Natatorium park are muddy. This is an advantage for Seattle, say the wise ones. However, Spokane defeated Multnomah in a sea of mud and demonstrated considerable ability on a slippery ground.

The lineup: Spokane—Sweedt, 165, c.; Fancy, 187, r. g.; Reeve, 191, l. g.; Edmiston, 189, r. t.; Kunzig, 185, l. t.; Findlay, 176, r. e.; Malcolmson, 150, l. e.; Slater, 164, q.; Tiley, 152, r. h.; Varnell, 166, l. h.; Fotheringham, 178, f. Seattle—Woodland, 192, c.; V. Smith, 185, r. g.; Sample, 220, l. g.; O'Brien, 185, l. t.; Wells, 195, r. t.; Dowd, 170, l. e.; Whiting, 165, r. e.; Brinker, 170, q.; Kern, 165, r. h.; Johnson, 150, l. h.; Robbins, 165, f. Other games today: Idaho vs. Washington, at Seattle. Whitman vs. W. S. C., at Walla Walla. O. A. C. vs. Vincents, at Los Angeles. Oregon vs. Multnomah, at Portland. Spokane High vs. Tacoma High, at Tacoma. Butte High at Billings High, at Billings. West Portland vs. Baker City, at Baker City. Nebraska vs. St. Louis, at St. Louis. Kansas vs. Missouri, at Kansas City. Ames vs. Drake, at Des Moines. Ohio State vs. Ohio Wesleyan, at Columbus. Pennsylvania vs. Cornell.

The Accuser of Prince Von Buelow

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—Another trial will soon take place, similar to that of Maximilian Harden, the editor who was accused of having made false charges of gross immoralities against Count von Moltke. Adolf Brand, another Berlin journalist, is accused of having slandered Prince von Buelow, chancellor of the German empire, by publishing concerning him practically the same charges that Harden made against von Moltke. Brand confidently expects to be acquitted, as was Harden, by proving that his charges are true.

STOUT LADIES NOW PERFECTLY CORSETED

Mme. McRae, the famous Chicago corsetier, now in Spokane in the interests of the Crosby corset, and at present a guest of the Hotel Spokane, suite 308-9, has for a number of years devoted a great deal of time to the study of corseting stout women. This is one of the most difficult problems confronting not only the corsetier but the manufacturer, as a corset must be a perfect fit, or it will prove a source of great discomfort to the wearer, and not infrequently be the cause of much sickness.

The Crosby corset is built upon scientific lines especially adapted to further deep breathing and retain the abdomen in its proper place. Mme. McRae has been most successful in this branch of her profession, and for a short time will remain in the city to give expert opinion on corseting of not only stout, but thin ladies, and in fact women of any size.
