

PRESIDENT HIS ADVISORS

OMO'S PLAN OF COMMISSION TO CONSULT SIMPLY INEXPENSIVE APPLICATION OF RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT THEORY.

"It gives me great pleasure to note this kindly feeling and demonstration of loyalty on the part of men whom I have known and worked with in politics for 20 years," said J. T. Omo, republican candidate for mayor, in addressing the large gathering at city headquarters last night. Mr. Omo referred to the two score or more of old timers, men who were in Spokane before the big fire, who had assembled to lend their assistance toward his election to the mayoralty.

"I am waging a clean fight, and, win or lose, the people of this city will never have it to say that J. T. Omo tried to advance himself by wrecking the character of others. I have never waded politics of this kind and am too old now to begin.

"The platform on which I made the race in the primaries still stands as my guarantee to the people. If elected, I will aim to give a fair hearing to all matters coming up from the people, and anything that appears reasonable and calculated to aid in the public good will have my support.

"You can rest assured, friends, that if I am elected mayor of this city I will be the mayor, and that I will not run to the Spokesman-Review for counsel. Yet, in fairness to the diversified interests of this growing city I am willing to counsel with men representing different ideas and interests and thereby determine what will result in the greatest good to the greatest number.

"For this reason I have announced my intention of appointing an advisory committee of 10 men, representative of the different phases of municipal life, with whom I will confer on all matters of importance. The president of the United States finds such a cabinet of service, likewise the heads of the great corporations find it useful to have their boards of directors for advisory purposes when matters of importance are under consideration."

Mr. Omo was given an ovation when he arose to speak, and liberally applauded at the close of his remarks. The plan of the advisory committee announced by Mr. Omo is meeting with general endorsement, except in the camp of his opponent.

PLUCKY GIRL GETS BROTHER FREE

(By United Press)
 NE WYORK, April 21.—Following a struggle of two years to liberate her brother from a prison at Vera Cruz, Mexico, during which she studied Spanish to aid her in her efforts, which were finally successful, Josephine Schilling, a 15 year old girl who arrived here on the Ward liner Merida, today is preparing to aid him in presenting a claim for damages for false imprisonment against the Mexican government.

The girl studied hard and mastered the Spanish language sufficiently to enable her to plead with the judge who committed her brother to prison. The American ambassador at the Mexican capital became interested in the case and finally secured Schilling's release.

BREAKFAST MUSH PANS OUT GOLD

(By United Press)
 DAYTON, April 21.—While preparing breakfast Mrs. L. M. Parke found a $5 gold piece in a package of meal purchased at a local grocery store. Mrs. Parke had been using meal from the package for several days. While making mush she felt some heavy article shake in the box, and having read of persons finding anonymous notes in packages, she began an investigation with a tablespoon. Finding nothing, she poured the meal into a dish and a bright $5 gold piece fell from the package.

HERE'S WHERE TAFT FAMILY CAMP

THE EVANS HOME, NEAR MANCHESTER, MASS., WHICH WILL BE THE SUMMER CAPITAL OF THE UNITED STATES

Special Correspondence to The Press
 MANCHESTER, Mass., April 21.—After all, the Edward Robinson home at Manchester is not to be the Oyster Bay of the Taft administration. The president has decided on another summer house near this city, one owned by Robert D. Evans.

Real estate men who announced the choice of the Robinson house the other day and made the announcement so positive that all the newspapers printed pictures of the place, are now agreed that in the Evans place the president will find even more convenient quarters.

The Evans house is a big, spacious place, large enough to hold a reception if the president—or Mrs. Taft—wants to go in for that. It looks out on Massachusetts bay and Marblehead Neck, so that President Taft can sit in as judge of the Beverly Yacht club regatta this summer from his front porch hammock. Of course there are splendid golf links there. The roads of this part of the country are ideal for horseback riding.

The living room of the president's summer home is lighted by glass doors looking out onto the veranda which faces the ocean, and by four stained glass windows. The panels of the living room are finished in sycamore, with tapestry paper running to the ceiling molding. A staircase leads from the living room to a balcony, around which are six chambers on the second floor. On the right of the living room is the music room, which is decorated in white, and off the entrance hall is a small room also in white.

On the left of the living room is the large dining room, the windows of which open on the ocean. The whole of the dining room suite is in mahogany.

IDAHO POET PROPOSES TO A SPOKANE LADY

In silent hours I try to guess
 The words that will the best express
 My choicest thought, for an address;
 For my only wish is to impress
 And bring to me the best success,
 For my desire is to possess;
 And all through life to caress;
 Furnish all to eat and dress
 And keep the purse from emptiness.

Then not one word would I suppress,
 By word and deed would oft confess

To you the greatest tenderness,
 But never would go to excess
 Except in words of cheerfulness,
 Then every hour your name would bless
 If in my love I have success.

My name is Stout; I must confess
 Athol, Idaho, is my address.
 This style of writing you possess
 Is the only way I can express;
 So if that rhyme is a success
 We'll see it in the Spokane Press;
 For at my home while reading there
 I see you have a Public Square.
 —Idaho Poet.

HIS IDEA OF BOOSTING

Editor, The Press—The best way to boost for a greater Spokane and Inland Empire is to encourage industry and thrift in every possible way, and discourage monopoly and consequent enforced idleness. Our present system of taxation discourages industry by taxing people in proportion to their thrift, and encourages the speculator, who does nothing toward furthering the best interests of the community but is a very strenuous worker in blocking all progress. He who builds a home, paints and beautifies it, makes a lawn and plants shrubbery is punished annually by an additional tax. He who builds a block, mill or factory, employs labor and patronizes a thousand and one industries in the community, we persist in fining, by way of taxation, in proportion as he does just what every community most desires. The other fellow takes the same amount of capital, invests it in natural opportunities, by way of a piece of land, with no intention whatever of using it, and we like the process so well we practically exempt him from taxation.

The land speculator boosts the price of realty, raises rents, amasses wealth without rendering any service in exchange, clogs the wheels of progress, and yet we encourage his nefarious business by our present system of taxation. We must remove all taxes from labor and industry and place the entire burden of public revenues upon site values, if we desire a wholesome and continuous growth. Why? Because taxation of personal property is public confiscation; is taking for public use that which rightfully belongs to the individual producer. But the taxation of land values is taking for public use that fund which is wholly created by the general public, and is merely restoration. Free all industry and the products of labor from taxation, concentrate all taxes upon land values, which is a social fund, and watch the effects on land monopoly and social progress.

Our home, for all who so desire could own one, would become more commodious and attractive, lawns and gardens would double and quadruple in size, more modern blocks and flats would be erected, the demand for all kinds of commodities would increase, new factories and mills appear, rents and the price of all the necessities of life would fall, while wages would greatly raise in response to the stronger demand and easier access to natural opportunities.

I will join with the greater Spokane committee, or any other committee, to the full extent of my means, to start a boosting campaign thus demanding equal rights to all, including our humblest citizen, and the abolition of privileges, even to the most lordly; but I haven't one penny for a boosting campaign, the material benefits of which will but go to enrich those of us who collect ground rents and profit by the fictitious advance in land values in and around our city. William Mathews.

BROAD ENOUGH FOR ALL

HAM DEFINES OMO ADMINISTRATION AS ONE TO COMMAND SUPPORT OF EVERY CLASS OF PEOPLE MAKING UP CITY.

A significant thing occurred last night during the progress of the republican meeting at city headquarters when a delegation of 40 members of the Equal Rights club, composed largely of democrats, marched into the meeting and announced their determination to stand by J. T. Omo for mayor. The Equal Rights club is said to have about 1500 members, all of whom are for J. T. Omo to a man.

E. F. Waggoner presided over the meeting at headquarters last night and the room was packed to the door. He said the city has a normal republican majority of 4500 and that it was only a question of getting out the vote and every man doing his duty to secure victory at the polls on May 4.

D. T. Ham followed with a spirited address on the outlook, and said that Omo wanted the support of every class of citizens—that his administration would be broad enough to embrace labor and capital, the high and the low, the reform worker and the man of less restrictive views. He endorsed Omo's plan of having an advisory board or cabinet of 10, and said that while no money could induce him to accept a place on the board, yet if Mr. Omo requested it he would give his time freely toward such work in order to assure the voters whose support he sought that their confidence in Mr. Omo was not misplaced.

Senator Harry Rosenhaupt figured that during the primary fight hostile newspapers had said mean and untrue things about Omo in 38,000 copies of the combined papers daily, or in 10 days, 300,000 unkind things, and yet Omo triumphed at the polls by a majority of over 1000. At the present rate of speed, Mr. Rosenhaupt estimated that Omo should have at least 4000 majority on election day.

Other speakers were Sam Edelstein, Mr. Ansell, Ed Cullen, L. B. Cornell, candidate for councilman from the Second ward; Fred Curtis, T. D. Gamble, W. C. Hinman, J. Oscar Peterson, candidate for treasurer; W. F. Wood and J. Harry Harris.
