

COPS KEEPING EYE ON NEW CAPTAIN JOB

There's an energetic little scramble on in the police department for the captainship vacancy made by the elevation of John Sullivan to the chief's desk. The police commission is expected to interest itself in the creation of a new captain within the next few days, and the wires are working from all directions.

Martin Burns, Chester Edwards, Detective Tom Lister, George Miles and several others are sticking around where they think the lightning might strike. Chief Sullivan is not making recommendations, although if he took any part in it, he would urge that civil service rules and seniority govern the choice of a captain.

Sullivan considers that he is only holding the chief job until a man is selected to take the place permanently, but if Mayor Pratt is able to find a better man than Sullivan for that job he is able to see further than anybody else. "Long John," as those who know him well enough call him, is gifted with the idea that as a police officer his duty is to enforce the law, not to attempt to interpret it or find ways in which it can be applied to the little fellow and made to miss the man with the pull. The choice of a captain to fill Sullivan's former position will mean that he will stick at the head of the force. There may be some opposition to that, however, as Chief Sullivan has already laid down the law to agents who found the process novel as well as annoying. It is an astonishing fact that all saloonkeepers, for instance, look alike to Chief Sullivan.

The police commission has the naming of the new captain and will have to decide early in July at the latest. Commissioner O'Brien will possibly have something to do with saying who gets the job. The mayor is understood to be keeping out of the muss. He is understood to be. It is likely that he will be interested enough to inquire who was appointed.

NURSERY STOCK TIED UP

H. C. Rice, J. H. Munn and E. L. Rice, members of the board of directors of the Inland Nursery & Floral Co., were this morning enjoined by Judge J. Stanley Webster in the superior court from selling or disposing of any of the stock held in their name or any other asset of the company.

The company, through a number of stockholders, applied to the court for a temporary injunction against the defendants named and alleged that they had committed fraud in acquiring some of the stock and were unlawfully interfering with the proper management of the company. The defendants can still serve on the board and transact any legitimate business, but cannot sell their stock until the case is determined on its merits.

ANOTHER DAN ARRIVES.

A new policeman, not quite up to specifications for girth, height and age at present, but who may wear a star and twirl a club on two fingers some day, is in the city. The gray old stork unloaded him over at 2109 College avenue, where Dan Phelan, an arm of the law by profession and a footracer by birth, resides.

SOLDIER'S PECULIAR ACCIDENT

HAD HEAD OUT OF CAR WINDOW AND SUSTAINED FRACTURED SKULL—BOUND TOWARD HOME.

Struck in the head by some object near the tracks while his train, which was bearing him home from the army to see his old mother, was speeding through the Spokane yards, Noah Parks, age 34, received injuries that may prevent him ever continuing the long trip alive. What Parks collided with as he sat with his head out of the window has not yet been learned. It may have been a switch stand.

His skull was fractured about the right temporal bone and a deep gash that severed the arteries and all but drained his body of blood was inflicted across the right side of his head. The accident occurred this morning about 9:30 o'clock as Parks was coming in through the Northern Pacific yards from the west.

He was discharged only a few days ago from the Ninety-fourth coast artillery and was going home to Parsons, Kas., where his mother resides at 1620 Gabriel street. So far, he has not regained consciousness sufficiently to tell his physicians just what happened to him.

The patrol wagon hurried him to the emergency hospital, where after hard work Dr. O'Shea, the hospital physician, stopped the blood and dressed his wounds. Later he was taken to the Sacred Heart hospital, where his life is all but despaired of.

OLD VET LIKES THE ROAD

On his pedestrian tour of 900 miles from Salt Lake to the old soldiers' home at Orting, Wash., Daniel M. Eisenhower, age 72, and a veteran of the civil war, has reached Spokane. He was discharged as a corporal from the Forty-sixth Pennsylvania volunteers in 1865, after serving the north throughout the rebellion.

The old veteran is resting about the city today, stopping occasionally at the police station and reviewing old days in the army with Captain of Police Coverly. In one conversation between these two, it was developed that Eisenhower's outfit saved Coverly's brigade from annihilation at Resaca, Ga., when they were charged by an overpowering force of their own men from the rear by mistake and by the enemy from its intrenchments in front.

ORCHARDS COMPANY IN RECEIVERSHIP

In the superior court this morning the matter of the appointment of a permanent receiver for the Spokane Orchards Land Co. came up before Judge Hinkle and he appointed B. H. Kizer, the attorney, to manage the affairs of the company.

The Northwestern Engineering Co., a creditor, was responsible for the proceedings and asked for a temporary receiver on June 12. At that time Attorney Kenneth E. Higby was appointed, but Mr. Kizer will now take charge.

SLUMBERED TOO WELL

Determined to outwit any burglar who might call on him to disturb him in his slumbers, Oscar Johnson went to sleep with his trousers under his head at the Grand Hotel last night. Oscar slumbered peacefully enough but when he rose up to stretch and yawn a little this morning, he found his trousers on the floor. The door was unlocked and his purse and all his available cash was gone. His money amounted to about $15 in all.

WHO LANDED ON WOOD?

Kicked and beaten almost into insensibility by unknown parties, Stuart Wood, age 23, rooming at the Spokane hotel, was taken by the police to the emergency hospital last night for treatment. His face, head and abdomen was completely covered with ugly contusions and there was an odor that indicated that he had associated a little too freely with John Barleycorn.

The police are of the belief that Wood is the unlucky party to a drunken brawl, but he seems to be unable to enlighten them to any great extent, consequently little search is being made for his assailants.

A common danger produces unanimity.
