

ACTION RESULTING FROM THE PRESS' EXPOSE OF SEWER CONDITIONS

A complete private sewer all the way from the Stanton slaughterhouse to the river must be built by the E. H. Stanton Packing Co. and its sewer line connecting with the city's trunk line at the corner of Riverside avenue and Napa street must be shut off completely, before complete relief from the sickening stench of putrid refuse and decaying meat scraps can be given the Union Park residence district centered about the McKinley school.

which members of the health department had ignored despite repeated complaints, a number of means are being exercised now to give the sickened neighborhood relief. According to a statement made today by Health Officer M. E. Grieve he has ordered Stanton to discontinue throwing refuse into the sewer and to use sulphuric acid to kill the germs and stench of the corrupt flushings and refuse from the slaughter house running into the Union Park trunk sewer. He further states that he has ordered the E. H. Stanton Packing company to build flush basins that will keep the eight-inch sewer filled with water all the while the same is in use and that if this does not give relief the packing company will be compelled to build a filter of gravel and carbonate to remove the fat and refuse from the sewerage before it enters the sewer at the abattoir.

COLORED PASTOR WILL RETIRE WITH DIGNITY

Rev. J. Gordon McPherson, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, who was summarily dismissed by the official board of the church last Monday night because of his connection with Ollie Williams, will be given an opportunity to "walk the plank" in a more dignified manner.

He will preach his farewell sermon next Sunday and will back off the boards at the Calvary church with all the grace and dignity available under such circumstances. McPherson was a business partner of Ollie Williams in the Ranch restaurant on Wall street near Post. After Williams was arrested McPherson ran the restaurant for nearly three weeks, during which liquor was sold there, it is charged, the same as during the management of Williams.

POLICE TO HONOR TAFT

Spokane's policemen will be all bedecked in brass buttons, white gloves, shining shoes and belts, their best helmets and carrying clubs with white ropes tied around the neck of 'em and—well, in fact, they will be spruced up in their holiday rags when President Taft comes to town. That will be September 28, and Riverside avenue from Monroe street to Bernard street will be roped off so that the big, jovial leader of the nation will have the whole middle of the street to himself when he comes.

against him, and his natural humor and clever acting are pleasing everybody. He is an old friend of Manager Charles York of the Spokane, and they have been recalling old times here this week. Both friends were with a company at Salt Lake City not so many years ago. The company "stranded," and Pitkin and York didn't know just where to find breakfast, not to mention lunch and dinner. Pitkin, however, thought of his diamond ring, and after holding hands with a pawnbroker for a few minutes he emerged from the shop in triumph and the couple lived like lords until new jobs were secured. They can recall such times with considerable pleasure now, from the altitude of three square meals a day and "then some," from stranded actors they have become leading man and theater manager.
