

S-S-TI-LAY FOR THE SUNDAY MORNING PRESS

FOR A WHOLE DAY'S SUPPLY OF SPICY ANECDOTE READING, BE SURE TO GET THE SUNDAY MORNING PRESS TOMORROW MORNING.

"Is Religion a Man's Job?"—It is in this subject that the Rev. A. Grier, pastor of the First Universalist church, has prepared an important Sunday sermonette for the special page of the Sunday Morning Press.

On the cable page, among the latest news from countries throughout the old continent, will appear a splendidly prepared and illustrated article telling of the travels of Theodore Roosevelt up the river Nile.

Read the new "East Side" page for news of what is going on in that bustling business district and for a peep into its future.

The society page of the Sunday Press contains a specially prepared article by Miss Para Dalton, special writer for this paper. It will be of especial interest to all women and contains notes of more than passing interest to all.

LOEB HAS KIDNAPED THE BIG T. R. RECEPTION NOW

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—General John A. Stewart, self-appointed drum major of the Roosevelt reception, has been bumped.

In the days of Roosevelt at the White House one William Loeb, private secretary, was the crafty citizen who "played opposite" the president.

One might say that Loeb was the catcher and T. R. the pitcher in the great national game.

If T. R. pitched a "wild one" Loeb stopped it. If anybody tried to steal a base, Loeb was on the job with a throw out.

Now Loeb is collector of customs of the port of New York, and is the political representative of Roosevelt during his absence.

Pinchot and Garfield represent "my politics," but Loeb represents "my politics."

So when the Stewart gentleman—who has offices on Wall street—announced that HE would manage the Roosevelt return, Loeb sat tight and listened.

When Stewart went to Washington and saw President Taft, Loeb watched.

When Stewart gave out that Roosevelt had told him that he would not be a candidate for mayor of New York, governor of New York, congressman, secretary or president, Loeb began to put on the war paint.

When Stewart began to tell how Taft would come over to New York to meet T. R.; would permit the mighty hunter to shake his hand; would go to a dinner in T. R.'s honor, and having said nice things about the ex-president, would hear nice things said by Roosevelt about him (Taft)—then, indeed, did Loeb get busy.

The Garfields and the Pinchots contented themselves with saying "Who is Stewart, that he makes such mighty plans? Colonel Roosevelt will not be bound to follow them."

But Loeb, custodian of "my politics," liked over to Washington and saw the president.

What was said was said, but in the end the word comes that a Stewart-controlled naval parade; nor yet a land parade; nor a public shaking of the Taft hand; nor, indeed, a post-prandial mutual admiration society.

No, Mr. Roosevelt will land on a pier on the Jersey side, and will cross on a ferry to New York.

In an open carriage he will drive across the city to a Long Island ferry.

The route of his drive will be announced in advance, and citizens who wish to greet him will have this opportunity, but there will be no handshaking, and the whole affair will be over within an hour.

Stewart and other men who first planned the reception find it taken entirely out of their hands and entirely in the hands of Loeb.

That New York will be boiling over with enthusiasm that day there is no doubt.

HE WALKS ALL DAY AROUND CARNEGIE'S BIG HOUSE

EDWARD McSHANE.

This is Edward McShane. He lives in New York and his daily duty is to start at 7 in the morning and walk round and round the block which is occupied by Andrew Carnegie's Fifth Avenue mansion.

McShane never talks to any one. He just walks and looks grim. It's almost a certain bet that he carries a regular revolver handy.

There are plenty of city policemen in blue and private policemen in gray in that district, but McShane is the extra touch that Carnegie can afford to put on for safety.

When McShane quits at 6 o'clock at night another watchman relieves him and walks all night.

DO NOT MAKE FUN OF THE FARMER

His Sensitive Sons Leave the Farm, Then Up Goes the Price of Food.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26.—The newspapers' comic Sunday supplements that picture hayseeds and birds' nests in farmers' beards and make fun of the horny handed agriculturist are responsible for the high prices of foodstuffs.

So John A. Stewart, a New York manufacturer and founder of the State Agricultural school, Morrisville, N. J., testified today before the legislative committee investigating food prices.

Mr. Stewart said the comic supplements ridicule the farmer and his work and so drive the farmer's sons to the cities. So few men are left to raise crops that many farms are being abandoned.

Only the older people remain on the farms, said Mr. Stewart, and little food in excess of what is needed there is being produced. So it is now comparatively easy to corner the market on many food commodities.

He declared the situation is alarming and should be changed by making farm life more attractive.

Jamaica, N. Y., Girl Gains Rich Husband Through An Ad.

WASHINGTON, Ga., Feb. 26.—After a correspondence covering a period of 12 months, an exchange of photos was made between Miss Louella Ackron of Jamaica, N. Y., and R. B. Aycock of this county a few weeks ago.

By agreement the two young people met in Augusta and were married.

Mrs. Aycock is only 19 years of age. Mr. Aycock is one of the wealthiest farmers in this region, residing eight miles west of Washington. The matrimonial match was made through the medium of advertisements in the newspapers.

The first time they had seen each other was when Miss Ackron stepped from the train at the Augusta station.

THE DAY IN THE MARKETS

It is reported from Mullan that a big slide has practically destroyed the surface of the copper of the soula Copper Co. and that several months' time will be required to replace the surface.

This information had a decided bearish effect on the stock and a great deal of it came out around 9 1/2 to 9 3/4 cents. Reindeer was also weaker and while there was a good deal of buying, purchasers were inclined to scan the list for bargains.

Taken together, this has been a satisfactory week, not only to brokers but to speculators. Fluctuations are becoming sufficiently large to enable traders to make good profits.

Minutes of New York's Council in Seventeenth Century Tell of Beginning

On October 13, 1675, the common council of the New York city adopted this measure:

"It being taken into consideration, whether it be not proper to have English weights and measures to be used according to the law: It is ordered that in three months after the publication thereof of the same shall be put in practice in this city, Long Island and parts adjacent: The time of proclamations prohibiting the exportation of corn; and also that of flour, etc., being expired, the same being taken into consideration, and the present scarcity, it is ordered that the prohibitions for the exporting of corn and flour do still continue in force for the term of six months after the date hereof.
