

WHAT INTERESTS THE FAMILY DURING THE EVENING HOURS

Social Events in Spokane

(Social news is a daily feature of The Press. Any one wishing to insert such news should send it, signed, to the society editor or telephone it before 10 o'clock in the morning.)

BANKERS' INSTITUTE WILL DANCE.

Announcement has been made of the next dance to be given by the members of the American Bankers' Institute on Thursday evening, April 14, at the Hall of the Loges.

This is the first dance to be given by this club since before Lent, and it is being anticipated with much pleasure.

The hall will be decorated for the occasion and special music will be furnished by Davenport's orchestra. The usual number will be included on the guest list.

Mrs. A. A. Morse of the Gardner apartments entertained a party at the Spokane theater Saturday afternoon. At the close of the performance the party journeyed to Davenport's, where a dainty luncheon was served.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE-TO-BE.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. M. S. Bentley and Mrs. Barrie James for a picture shower to be given Tuesday, April 12, complimentary to Miss Mary Strang, a bride-to-be of this month.

LUNCHEON FOR MISS WHITSON.

From present appearances Miss Clara Whitson will be the much feted bride-to-be of this season.

A charming affair of this week will be the luncheon to be given in her honor Friday afternoon by Mrs. R. L. Thompson at her residence, on Seventh avenue.

THEATER PARTY.

The Phi Alpha Epsilon sorority girls of Pullman, who have been guests in the city during the past week, were entertained Saturday afternoon at a theater party at the Ophium.

They were guests for the occasion of Miss Lulu Richardson. Ten girls were included in the party.

CONCERT BY SPOKANE SYMPHONY AND PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

There was only a fair sized audience which greeted the Spokane Symphony orchestra at its second appearance of the week yesterday at the Auditorium theater.

The program was in two parts. The first part consisted of the overture "If I Were King," by Adams; the Brahms Hungarian Dance in G minor, and the "American Rhapsody," by Mayo Evans of Spokane.

The second part consisted of the "Death of Minnehaha," sung by the Philharmonic society and played by the Symphony orchestra.

The Brahms Hungarian Dance, as usual, won most enthusiastic applause and proved again and again its excellence as a musical organization. The "American Rhapsody" was one of the favored selections and stood well the repetition of Friday's concert.

Mrs. Leonard Kerr sang the soprano solos and Mr. Theodore Lammer the baritone role in the choral part of the program. They were supported by 35 voices in the chorus.

DINNER PARTY AT WESTMINSTER.

Mrs. N. B. Walton was hostess Friday evening when she entertained at a dinner party at her apartments in the Westminster.

The occasion was the celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mr. Walton.

The appointments at the dinner table were attractively carried out with yellow, jonquils and tulips being used. Covers were laid for 14 guests.

CHILDREN'S PARTY.

Miss Gertrude and Master Charles Finucane were honor guests at a pretty party given Saturday afternoon by Miss Katherine and Mrs. Luhn.

The affair was in form of a luncheon. Six young people enjoyed the occasion.

WHIST PARTY.

The Degree of Honor will entertain their friends at a whist party this evening in the lower Pacific halls.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE MEETS TOMORROW.

The Spokane chapter of American Woman's league will hold its usual meeting in the public library at 7:45 o'clock tomorrow evening.

JONQUIL CLUB MEETS.

The members of the Jonquil club will be entertained at their regular meeting tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. W. Pynn, E401 Indiana avenue.

Luncheon will be served at 2 o'clock. A business and social session will follow.

BUCKETSHOPS CLOSED.

(By United Press Leased Wire) NEWCASTLE, Pa., April 4.—Bucketshops here were ordered closed by the district attorney Saturday. Although no arrests have been made it is expected that some will be made today if the shops attempt to open. One representative of a Baltimore house closed Wednesday on the order of the main office.

PLEASE TELL ME

WOMEN'S QUESTIONS ANSWERED BY Cynthia Grey

NEW-OLD POKE BONNET

Dear Miss Grey—(1) I have a breaking out on my head. The spots are red and itchy. What can I do for it? (2) What can I do for a child who wets the bed? A. B.

A.—(1) Shampoo every 10 days with castile soap. Be careful not to irritate the scalp with the comb or finger nails. Rub sulphur ointment into each spot every night.

(2) Do not let the child drink late in the evening, and see that the bladder is empty before he goes to bed. Keep the local parts well cleaned, giving the child a warm bath twice a week. Keep the air in the room cool, and do not cover the child too heavily with bedclothes. If these things do not help consult a physician.

Dear Miss Grey—(1) Are emerald skirts to be worn this year? (2) What would you advise for a commencement dress. (3) Would a panama skirt and light waist be suitable to wear to the baccalaureate sermon. (4) Are tan shoes to be much worn? (5) Would white slippers be all right for commencement? A. GRADUATE.

A.—(1) Yes. (2) Sheer white is prettiest, made simply. (3) If the skirt and waist are of the same color. (4) Yes, but not so much as last year. (5) Yes.

Dear Miss Grey—(1) Does sage tea make the hair grow or darken it, and how is it used? (2) Should the engagement ring be worn under or over the wedding ring? MARY.

A.—(1) It merely darkens the hair. Dip the brush in the tea and brush the hair with it. (2) Over.

Dear Miss Grey—What shall I wash a light blue satin waist in, so that it will not fade and lose its gloss? TOPSY.

A.—Have it dry cleaned. Don't try it at home.

Dear Miss Grey—(1) Is it proper for a girl to allow her escort to carry her coat in the street? (2) Which is the correct way to address a personal friend—"Dear Frank" or "Dear Friend"? JULIETTE.

A.—(1) Yes. (2) "Dear Frank."

FASHIONS

Of the many odd combinations in spring millinery, none is more attractive than the blendings of velvet and lace.

Real novelties are the handbags made of figured cotton and linen, and the ones made of embroidered linen and pique to wear or carry with tub suits.

Fine straw will be less popular for hats this year than it has been in season's past. Everything is coarse soft straw.

The urban and the toque seem to be having their own way, but the wide, round brimmed hat will come into its own later in the season.

Leighorn leads the fashion in hats, and it is a wise investment, as it improves with age.

Most of the frocks this spring are fastened down the side front. Linen and broadcloth is a new combination used in gowns.

Dutch necks, short sleeves and kimono shoulders are seen everywhere.

Hats for little girls are trimmed with tiny roses, and are poke bonnet and inverted bowl in shape.

FROM MARY'S COOK BOOK

Stuffed Peppers—Boil green peppers with a little soda until soft. Drain, remove stem and seeds, and fill with canned corn which has been well seasoned with pepper, salt and butter. Bake with cream sauce in shallow pan.

Jelly Roll—Beat well three eggs, add gradually one cup sugar, one-half tablespoon milk, one table-spoon butter melted, and one cup flour sifted with one-quarter cup spoon salt and one teaspoon baking powder. Cover the bottom of large pan with paper, butter the paper and sides of pan, pour the mixture in pan and bake 15 minutes in moderate oven. When done, turn out, remove paper and cut crust off sides. Spread with jelly and roll.

Spaghetti and Bacon—Cut one-half pound bacon into dice and fry crisp. Seed and shred six green peppers and fry in butter. Pour the bacon and fat and the peppers over cooked spaghetti, sprinkle with grated cheese and serve.

Dandelion Greens—Boil in salted water until tender, drain, chop and season with salt, pepper, butter and lemon juice.

Decorated china plates should be put away with round pieces of cotton flannel between them.

Put a mixture of two tablespoons vinegar and one of olive oil over a steak and let stand several hours before broiling. It's sure to be tender.

Mend broken articles with liquid court plaster.

Wash cocoa stains on linen first in cold water without soap before washing in the usual way.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Use discarded safety razor blades for removing buttons, hooks, eyes and snaps.

Sprinkle enough flour for gravy on the bottom of the pan after the roast is hot. Do not season nor put water in until it is heated through. Thus there will be a delicious brown gravy ready when roast is done.

Eat Rhubarb---It's Healthy

It is said that the homely old "pleplant" is one of the most purifying of spring medicines. It is not an attractive fruit to the eye, but with a little ingenuity, can be made most delicious to the palate.

Few like the old fashioned method of stewing rhubarb. Try this: Cook over a slow fire the juice of two oranges with one pound of sugar. Add two quarts rhubarb cut into small pieces, the grated peel of a lemon, six cloves and a half teaspoon cinnamon to the sirup and simmer gently until the rhubarb is tender. Serve plain or with whipped cream.

Rhubarb pies are improved by the addition of raisins. Peel the rhubarb and cut into small pieces. Pour boiling water over and let stand 15 minutes. Drain. Line pie pan with crust, fill with rhubarb, a cup of sugar, with which one tea-spoon flour has been mixed, and a half cup seeded raisins. Cover with crust and bake.

To make jam, scrape, slice and weigh rhubarb, allowing a pound of sugar, grated rind of a lemon and a half ounce chopped almonds to each pound and a half of rhubarb. Cook slowly for one-half hour, stirring constantly. Then add one lemon, sliced, and cook until thick.

A good pudding is made with dried bread crumbs and rhubarb. Butter a bake dish and put into it a layer of bread crumbs, which have been soaked in a pint of water, the juice of a lemon and one-half cup sugar. Sprinkle crumbs with bits of butter, put over them a layer of well sweetened stewed rhubarb. Add more crumbs, then more rhubarb, until dish is full. Cover top with dry breadcrumbs and bits of butter. Bake covered for one-half hour. Uncover and bake 15 minutes longer. Serve hot, with hard sauce.

(2) Bloodstone, violet, courage.

(3) First clean the fur thoroughly with fuller's earth, and the best sun and air well. Then seal in a stout paper bag. As a further precaution you might put a few pieces of camphor gum inside the bag.

Dear Miss Grey: (1) Will you please give me a recipe for coffee cake? (2) What is the birthstone, flower and meaning for March? (3) How shall I pack fur to keep out moths? TINA S. R.

A.—(1) Mix one-half cup of butter, one cup sugar, two eggs beaten separately, one tablespoon molasses, one-half cup cold coffee, two scant cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, spice to taste. Add three-quarters cup of seeded chopped raisins and a little citron cut fine.

Dear Miss Grey: What would you do if you loved your husband dearly, felt as if you couldn't live without him, and he would flirt and correspond with young girls, although he mistreated you in no other way? DOUBTFUL

A.—I would ask myself these questions: Have I exaggerated my husband's attentions to others? Isn't it perhaps only hurt vanity on my part? Am I attentive enough to him? Am I considerate enough of him? Is not this "This-

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Love much. Earth has enough of bitter in it; Cast sweets into its cup whenever you can. No love so hard but love at last may win it. Love is the grand primeval cause of man; All hate is foreign to the first great plan. Love much. There is no waste in freely giving; More blessed it is, even, than to receive. Who loves much, alone finds life worth living; Love on through doubt and darkness, and believe There is no thing which love may not achieve. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Flowers

Headquarters for violets. We are receiving daily shipments of California's choicest violets in their original large bunches 25c

Patronize those who give you your money's worth.

CHOICE LINE PLANTS AND TREES

The Rose Floral Co.

Spokane's Cut-Rate Up-to-date Florist, Opposite Paulsen Bldg. Phone Main 4378.

$25 Buys Fine Men's Suits

AND since they are made by A. B. Kirschbaum & Company, they will continue to be as fine suits as they are at first appearance. If any one of them should fail in any respect, we would give you your money back!

Any color or pattern you are likely to want is in this Kirschbaum $25 line—

Blue Serges and Gray Serges. Cassimeres in effects of tans, grays and browns.

Worsteds, grayish, greenish and brown. And plain dark grays. And worsteds woven like panamas—light of weight, but hard of finish, so they will hold their shape.

You can't buy Kirschbaum clothes in any other store in Spokane. Your eyes will open wide when you see this line at

$25

THE WONDER

319-21-23 Riverside Avenue 820-22-24 Sprague Avenue

The STORY CLUB

BY EDMUND VANCE COOKE

THE PULLMAN PIRATE.

(Copyright, 1910, by the Author.)

"Pshaw," said Williebill, "that one about the Christmas tree's a stinky story. Why don't you tell a story with a tack in it?"

"As for 'instance,'" suggested Angelimp.

"Like this. One dark terrible night, when the good car 'Red Revenge' was plying between Pittsburg and Chicago, the passengers were startled by a fearsome cry which seemed to pierce the darkness like a knife cutting into the quivering vitals of a—"

"Nickel library," jeered the Angelimp. "Volume 27, page 16."

"The shriek came from the lips of Lady Somersault, in lower 12, the fair young daughter of the earl of Snooksborough. Before she had time to repeat the cry, a huge hand, black, hairy and horrible, thrust a gag between her pearly teeth and she heard no more. Just then—"

"Suddenly—I mean, while this was happening—"

"The continuation of this interesting story will be found in next week's issue—for sale by all news-dealers," giggled Gablehoff.

"Anyway, the rest of the passengers awoke to find themselves bound hand and foot, as well as tightly gagged. Only a single 'Ha! Ha!' broke the silence of the night. 'Ha! Ha!' said the voice again, and it was the voice of Bwana Gumbo, formerly the death-dealing despot of the jungle, and now the Pullman Pirate.

"At that moment there was a pounding upon the front door of the car and a nose was pressed against the glass.

"Who's there?" asked the Pullman Pirate.

"'Tis I, the train boy, and I wish to sell my papers," said the nose against the glass.

"Get along, Everybody's in bed," said the Pullman Pirate.

"But there are tomorrow's sporting extras, with a full account of the fight."

"Come along in quick," said the Pullman Pirate.

"So the train boy came in, and after giving one paper to the Pirate, he went to each berth, turned on the electric light, pinned a paper up before the eyes of the gagged and bound occupant and collected payment from the purses under the

The Daily and Sunday Spokane Press, 10 Cents a week.