Cast your blinkers about for that comet after sunset this evening. Maybe you'll see it, and then maybe it's according to what scientist you happen to be "swearing by." The comet is now only 14,300,000 miles away—a mere trifle for the tramps of space.

WATSEKA, Ill.—Investigation is being made concerning the burial of Delvina Nichols, a young girl, in a balled dress. It was low necked and reached the knees. Silk stockings and satin slippers covered legs and feet.

THE FIGHT AT FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Promoter Tex Rickard, following the announcement by District Attorney Fickert that the Jeffries-Johnson fight will be held in San Francisco without molestation from the authorities, announced that the promoters had definitely decided to stage the contest here. He said that he would announce some time tonight the location in San Francisco where the arena will be built.

CONSULATE IS GUARDED BY MARINES

(By United Press Leased Wire) BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, May 20.—The American consul at Bluefields is cordoned with American marines and blue-jackets from the gunboat Paducah. The sailors have mounted machine guns, which command the main street of Bluefields, anticipating the sacking of the city by the forces of President Madriz.

Three hundred soldiers were landed by the Nicaraguan gunboat Venus last night below the city, and the forces of Madriz, reinforced by these troops, are now within three miles of Bluefields.

TOO CLOUDY TO SEE COMET

"It was too cloudy last night to see the tail of Halley's comet," said Prof. Adams of Gonzaga college this morning. "It is possible that we did not even pass through the tail, as the appendages of many comets have broken up. We may have passed through one of the openings."
"Photographs taken of the Morehouse comet in 1909 show that the tail of that luminary was broken into sections not at all clearly defined. This may have been true of Halley's comet."

COLVILLE, Wash., May 20.—"Guilty as charged," was the verdict of the jury in the case of George Pepon, delivered shortly before 10 o'clock last night, just 47 minutes after the jurors had filed from the courtroom. The verdict convicts Pepon of murder in the first degree, a crime punishable by death or life imprisonment. The decision of the jury came as a complete surprise to the majority of those who have followed the case, it being supposed that the strong defense built up by Pepon's attorneys would at least create a disagreement and result in a lengthy session in the jury chambers. The strong closing argument of the prosecution, in which the motive for the crime was presented in a vivid light, is believed to be responsible for the quick decision of the jurors and the resulting verdict.

DROPS FROM WORLD'S CHAMPS TO BENCH WARMER ON LOSING TEAM

HILL ABSTEIN.
POOR PLAYING HAS PUT HIM ON BENCH FOR SEASON.

From first baseman with last year's world's champions to bench warmer on what appears to be about the weakest team in the American league this year, tells the tale of the downfall of Hill Abstein, who is now adorning the waiting list of the St. Louis Browns, while Jack O'Connor is striving mightily to make a first baseman out of Dode Criss, the celebrated pinch hitter. Inability to think for himself is generally held responsible for Abstein's failure to make good at the first corner for the Browns. He is not a brainy ball player, as Fred Clarke of the Pirates learned last year, and National league magnates also knew this, as every one of them—and some of them needed a few basemen—waited on the player when Clarke asked waivers for him. Abstein is a St. Louis product, and the St. Louis fans wanted him for the Browns, so O'Connor got him.

EVIL EFFECTS OF "JUGGLING"

At 5 o'clock yesterday evening the swans in the fountain at Coeur d'Alene park were spouting water to a distance of six or eight feet and some eight or 10 automatic sprinklers were irrigating the park lawn, while families on the North Monroe hill did not have sufficient water to drink or prepare the evening meal.
Coeur d'Alene park is the beauty spot for the millionaire's of Browne's addition, and must, of course, be kept green and attractive by the city officials, for fear of their jobs. The North Monroe hill is occupied largely by working people, whose needs are a secondary consideration with the water department, as contrasted with the wishes of the men of Browne's addition.
This is not the talk of a demagogue, a soap box orator or an "agitator"; it is but a recital of cold, hard, "dry" facts, as they were found to exist in Spokane last evening at 5 o'clock.
This was the condition last year, and promises were given that it would not be repeated. The city council set aside over half a million dollars and told Mayor Pratt and his subordinates to go ahead and give the people water. Mayor Pratt hit him, but had hardly finished saying the word when he called in his cabinet of political advisers and started to juggle or make political capiti out of an improve-

INDICTMENTS SET ASIDE.

(By United Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, May 20.—Indictments against Theodore H. Price, of New York, in connection with the alleged leakage of advance information on the federal cotton report, were set aside here today by Justice Gould of the supreme court of the district of Columbia.

"Hush, hush, my boy; you mustn't call your playmate a liar." "That's all right, mama. I don't really mean it. We're playing government, and I'm being investigated."

SEATTLE.—Agatha Ford, a pretty stenographer, went bathing yesterday. She was going to a dance last night, but found that the coloring in the blue bathing suit had made a blue ring around her throat, so she couldn't wear a low neck gown. Now she threatens to sue the bathing house proprietor.

"THEN IT HAPPENED"

They were now a mile from shore. Juliet and Clarence, and he took a respite from rowing.
"Are you fatigued, Clarence?" asked Juliet sympathetically.
"Oh, no, not at all," grinned Clarence, a wild light in his orbs. He was SUCH a cutup, was Clarence. "Look, how I can rock the boat."
THE END.

STATELY FUNERAL OF A MONARCH

(By United Press Leased Wire)

LONDON, May 20.—The body of King Edward VII of England was laid to rest today in St. George's chapel at Windsor, where seven other British kings are buried. The funeral was one of the most impressive in the history of the world.

The procession left Westminster at 9:50 a. m. Probably two and a half million people saw the pageant pass. Hundreds of spectators fainted in the dense throngs that lined the route over which the procession moved and 40 ambulances were busy.

Spectators began arriving at midnight and at dawn the streets were jammed.

Tremendous Gathering.
A great throng had gathered before Westminster's gate long before the portals were thrown open for the procession to move out. Sombre black was the keynote of the color scheme, occasionally enhanced by the royal purple decorations. In bright relief against this somber background were the gay colored uniforms of royalty and of the officers of the royal army and royal navy.

At the head of the column marched the royal life guards, the pick of military Britain. In glittering array marched the advance guard, knights, marshals, footguards, drummers, royal Scots fusiliers, the Irish guards, royal dragoons and detachments of practically every military body in England with bands and gorgeous uniforms.

Officers and men from the home fleet of the royal navy, natty blue-jackets and marines, were in the column marched military detachments from nearly every European country, the Slav, the Teuton, the Frank, the Latin, in their variegated uniforms, presenting a brilliant spectacle.

"Lord of Long Ago."
The slow procession of the car marked time for the entire cortege. Hedging the pallbearers came detachments commemorative of England of long ago, men at arms, halberdiers and musketeers, yeomen of the guard in magnificent scarlet and gold uniforms of the Tudor days.

Following the royal catafalque came Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg, allied to the English royal house by marriage with one of the granddaughters of Queen Victoria. King Edward's favorite charger, decked in full state trappings with purple and crepe rosettes under its forehead band, followed Prince Louis. In the stirrups were the big spurred Wellington boots of an English field marshal, reversed to denote the death of their owner.

Eight Kings in One Bunch.
Preceded by the royal standards of England rode King George V with his aide and squerry, attended by the Duke of Connaught, King Edward's brother, and Kaiser Wilhelm, Edward's nephew, who rode on either side and slightly behind the English monarch.

The English royal division was closed with the Earl of Granard, field officer in waiting and master of the horse.

Then followed seven European monarchs: King George of Greece, King Alfonso of Spain, King Manuel of Portugal, King Haakon of Norway, King Frederick of Denmark, King Albert of Belgium, and King Ferdinand of Bulgaria.

Small Fry Royalty.
Grouped behind them, riding three abreast, was a display of lesser royalty.

DUCHESS OF MANCHESTER.
The visit home of the Duchess of Manchester, who was Miss Helen Zimmerman, of Cincinnati, was cut short by the death of King Edward. The duke and his American wife attended the king's funeral today.

SECRET JUNKETS WITH COUNCIL WON'T DO, RAILROAD MEN!

A little junket around town was conducted yesterday afternoon by Milwaukee road representatives "for councilmen only." No reporters were allowed to make the trip. No gossiping about details discussed was to leak out. It was just a quiet little junket to fix up the grade separation worry—and other things—apparently. The Milwaukee people evidently want to show the councilmen that very little grade separation is needed, and that, of course—oh, yes, of course—the great Milwaukee system will provide grade crossings wherever IT THINKS NECESSARY.
The Milwaukee railroad and the city council of Spokane may as well make up their minds now that the PEOPLE of Spokane will never consent to the granting of a franchise for entrance into this city until the grade separation proposition has been settled satisfactorily TO THE PEOPLE, and NOT to the railroads.
There may be a lot of quibbling and dispute about terminal rates, but there is absolutely no argument against a complete grade separation system for the new roads. Spokane is enduring enough with Northern Pacific conditions, here, and she will not stand for any more nonsense.
Quit your bluffing, and your "soft-soaping," and your private junketing, gentlemen of the Milwaukee, and agree to satisfactory grade separation, OR YOU GET NO FRANCHISE, AND THAT GOES.
