

"TAFT SHOULD USE MORE RESPECT," BRYAN

(By United Press Leased Wire) INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 30.—Expressing the belief that President Taft should speak more respectfully of democratic possibilities in past campaigns, William J. Bryan today discussed the president's letter on the issues of the coming congressional campaign.

"The president has written congressmen a letter in which he strives to bring together the factions of the republican party," said Mr. Bryan. "I do not believe he realizes how wide the breach is, and that such measures are insufficient to heal the wounds. The letter indicates that Taft now believes it is wise to reduce the tariff by separate bills and not by a general measure. When we tried to do this in 1892 the republicans ridiculed us. Probably hereafter they will speak more respectfully of this and other ideas of ours which they have adopted."

Mr. Bryan stopped here today en route to St. Louis.

"WE WERE PALS," SOBS MAN WHO DID SHOOTING

(By United Press Leased Wire) SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—Deputy Sheriff Walter Bryant died at the Central emergency hospital from a bullet wound in the abdomen, following his shooting by J. E. Hopkins, a city jailer, in the early morning hours at the Ferry building. Before his death Bryant made a statement exonerating Hopkins from all blame.

Hopkins, who was held at the city prison pending the result of Bryant's wound, collapsed and cried when told of Bryant's death. "We were pals," he sobbed. "I don't know how the gun was discharged. I would rather have died myself than have poor Walt go."

The men were stationed at the Ferry building looking for an escaped prisoner when the shooting occurred. Hopkins asserts he was showing Bryant a gun that he had just received from a fellow deputy when the weapon was discharged. He says that Bryant had just drawn his own revolver to make a comparison.

SEVERAL PARTIES OF FIRE FIGHTERS ARE RESCUED

Rains Check Many Fires in the Idaho Fire Belt.

(By United Press Leased Wire.) LEWISTON, Idaho, Aug. 30.—Two of the three parties of forest fire fighters recently surrounded by forest fires in the Clearwater reserve have been rescued, and the third party probably will be reached today by rescuers, according to a telephone message received at midnight by Major Fenn, the supervisor in charge of the reserve.

According to the message, the relief party was within three miles of Camp 62, the place where the third party of seven men sought refuge last week while Roger Watson started on his heroic ride through the blazing hills to Kootenai for aid.

The general conditions in the fire district are most encouraging. Rain fell in the fire zone last night, while in the high mountains there was a snow fall of four inches. As a result the fires have been materially checked, and it is believed that the fire fighters will have the conflagration under control before night.

BIG QUAKE!

REGGIO, Italy, Aug. 30.—A severe earthquake shock which did little damage, but which caused a panic, visited Southern Italy and Sicily today. The quake was felt at 3 a. m. and the shocks lasted for several seconds. The people fled from their homes, fearing a repetition of the terrors of former quakes.

County Auditor Butler today stated that the ballots for the superior judgeship race will be printed separately and apart from the regular party ballots.

The race for judge is on a non-partisan basis, the two high men being voted for at the polls in November.

HOW UNCLE SAM FIGHTS THE FOREST FIRES

BY HENRY S. GRAVES, CHIEF FORESTER OF THE UNITED STATES.

The principles of fighting forest fires are essentially the same as those recognized in fighting fires in cities. The following are of first importance: (1) quick arrival at the fire; (2) an adequate force; (3) proper equipment; (4) a thorough organization of the fighting crew; and (5) skill in attacking and fighting fires.

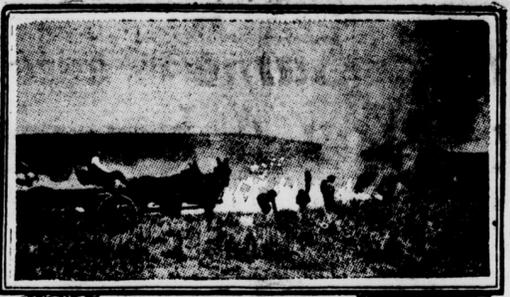

Quick access to fire is accomplished through the work of supervision and in discovering fires before they have gained much headway, and by a well developed system of communication through the forest by roads and trails.

A small fire may be put out by one man, but in extensive forests several hours may pass before the fire can be reached. In a well organized system of patrol the guard who discovers a fire communicates quickly to other guards and to headquarters by telephone, signal or other means, and indicates the number of men he needs. It is essential that there be definite arrangements for securing a force of men in case of fire. This may be accomplished by co-operation with lumber or sawmill operators, or in the case of small tracts, through the co-operation of neighboring owners. In some states there are fire wardens who may call upon residents to assist in fighting the fires.

Just as in a city the efficiency of a fire service depends in large part on the equipment, so also in forest work it is essential that fire fighters be furnished with the proper tools and other equipment. The implements needed for fighting fires differ under different conditions. Wherever dirt can be used the men should be provided with long-handled shovels. If water is available buckets, and where possible bucket pumps should be provided. Under most conditions it is desirable to have mattocks and iron rakes, and there should always be axes to aid in clearing brush or cutting through down timber and old tops.

Small surface fires may often be beaten out. Where there are tops or piles of brush, or the fire is burning through thick brush or undergrowth, beating is very difficult. There are various devices for beating. A blanket, coat or riding slicker is often used. A gunnysack is one of the best implements for beating particularly if it can be wet from time to time. A handful of green bush serves also very well for a beating device. In beating out a fire, one strikes the fire with a sideways sweep, driving the flames and burning material back upon the burned ground. A direct stroke scatters the fire.

While the surface fires are dead, driven through the forests. On these fire lines trees, underbrush, and even leaves, weeds and grass are removed, so that not only will the fire fighters find there a vantage point from which to fight the fire, but it will in large measure help check the oncoming mountain of flame and smoke by taking from them the food they feed upon.

ly enough, and undoubtedly are the sources of vast losses, the crown fire, when the trees themselves are ablaze, is the more spectacular, and at the same time more dangerous to life and property, and a hundred times more difficult to fight.

It is that crown fires may be more successfully fought that wide fire lines many miles in length are

T. R. PRAISES FOREST FIRE FIGHTERS

But Jolts the Constitution Makers of New States.

(By United Press Leased Wire) PUEBLO, Co., Aug. 30.—Colonel Roosevelt paid a flying visit to Pueblo today, laid the cornerstone of the new Y. M. C. A. building, went back to his train and departed for Ossawatimie, Ark., where he will arrive at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. He was accompanied from Denver by a committee of Pueblo citizens, who went to Denver to meet him. The train left Denver a little after 8 o'clock and arrived in Pueblo shortly before noon. The train was stopped at Mineral Place park and the Roosevelt party descended and went to the new building. The remarks of the "contributing editor" at the cornerstone laying were very brief.

Roosevelt jolted the constitution makers of New Mexico and Arizona who want "iron bound" constitutions and incidentally his respects to Postmaster General Hitchcock.

"I wish I could go to New Mexico and Arizona," said the colonel, "but this is the nearest point I will reach on my trip. Many friends have asked my advice regarding their constitutions. There is one point I would like to advise them on, and that is that they leave their constitutions easy of amendment, so that any time the people feel that they ought to be, they may be amended. Experience shows not only that doctrinaire but designing corporation attorneys often put into constitutions matters which are not thoroughly understood by the people at the time.

"I want to call your attention to the admirable work of the forest service in connection with the great forest fires. Not only has the forestry bureau done everything humanly possible, but in fighting the fires the man of the forest service has shown just the same ability, endurance, courage and indifference to their own lives as is shown by the best fire department of the large cities. There is no body of public servants of which the public has a right to feel more proud than the men of the forest service."

the wall and forced me to this cowardly act.

"Then, too, I hate the insincerity, the softness, and the disillusionment of life. This is all I met with for the past two years and now I seek an unknown grave.

CAN'T GET ALONG HONORABLY.
"I can hear you say, 'Dear heart, you are wrong to take your own life, whatever the motive.' Yet it is just as deplorable that a girl can't get along honorably in New York."

"In some things I might have succeeded had I acceded to the wishes of men. They were cultured, yes, usually; with money—yes, but never moral. I couldn't submit to such things. Death is preferable to the ill fortune that has pursued me through this 'brief' of life. To advance is better than to stand still. To go forward better than to retreat."

The letter appeared to have been signed "Norah," but the signature evidently blurred with tears, is undecipherable.

The girl apparently is not more than 25 years of age. She had removed every mark of identification from the blue silk opera cloak, the tasteful clothing and dainty lingerie. As she finished the shot she cried: "I've shot myself. I did it myself, and now I want to die."

The girl refused absolutely to tell her name at the hospital and wept over her failure to end her life.

The letters "To sister" and "To Blanche" were not made public by the police. They seem to refer to a family disagreement and through the authorities hope to establish the identity of the would-be suicide.

HAD WRITTEN NOVEL.
A manuscript entitled "Thesalia," closely written on seven pages, was found in the girl's handbag. With it was a penciled note reading, "This is my pet story. I want to have it buried with me. I would like to take my books with me as companions on my long journey 'whenever bound whence.' A purse containing $1.75 was found, but it had no cards, or handkerchief or objects likely to throw light on the girl's identity.

GIRL'S CONDITION WORSE.
Later the girl's condition took a turn for the worse, symptoms of peritonitis having developed.

The police gave out the letter addressed "To Blanche." It reads as follows:

"You may think me foolish, but I had made up my mind to do it at the time dear daddy died. I have not had many happy moments, but I am accountable for what I intend to do and am willing to take the consequences."

"Women writers in the newspapers print foolish stories about

CITIZENS WANT THE RED LIGHT DISTRICT REMOVED

Requesting that all of Front street from Monroe to Division be purged of the red light houses, and the various accommodations of a restricted district, and threatening to take legal action against not only the lessees but the owners of the property in question, a delegation of Front street property holders called on Mayor Pratt yesterday afternoon for a conference. Among those owning property on Front street were J. S. Hays, Garibaldi Alb, Joe Plastino and K. Wilbert.

It was pointed out to the mayor that, aside from the question of the legality of their existence, these houses will be more than ever undesirable when the new union station is built. It was not contended that the restricted district must be eliminated entirely from the city, but it was suggested that Front street east of Division would suit many people much better.

The mayor said that he would have to talk with Chief Sullivan about it and that the chief was at present out of town. The members of the delegation informed the mayor of a large and pretentious parlor house which is to open up in charge of the Stafford woman in a few days, and he professed profound surprise.
