LET THE SKIRTS HERD BY THEMSELVES, SAYS FIGHTER WHO "CAME BACK" AT 40

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 15.—"There'll be skirts enough when you're through fighting. You can't trail petticoats under the lights and become a champion. If you don't believe it, look at me. I'm 39. It's taken me nearly 20 years to learn this truth."

It was a year ago when "Kid" Farmer handed this advice to Jack Redmond, then attracting attention around New Orleans. Farmer was getting a preliminary whenever he could and taking a beating for the loser's end. Healed up Redmond as a corner and tried to show the youngster the effect of dissipation. But Redmond wouldn't listen. He got a newspaper draw with Ad Wolgast and jumped into fame. The other night Frankie White trimmed him and the latest is that Redmond has fizzled.

Today "Kid" Farmer is fighting like a demon, because he took unto himself the advice Redmond passed up. He was arrested in New Orleans for slugging a woman, and went to prison. His friends permitted him to soak long enough for the lesson to sink in, and when he came out Farmer turned over a new leaf.

Before the change Farmer lost more fights to second raters within a year than he had in all of his previous 18 years in the ring. Frankie White beat him decisively in a fierce fight, for although a shell, Farmer fought viciously until stretched out.

Today a team of horses couldn't drag White into the ring with Farmer, who has had 310 battles. The "Florida Demon," as the veteran was known about the time Abe and Monte Attell released their holds on elevator grips, is fighting like the old Farmer. He took Danny Goodman's measure in three rounds, when Goodman was substituted for White, who ran out of the match. Goodman had beaten Farmer a year before and when knocked out he demanded a return.

In the last bout Farmer hammered Goodman at will, knocking him down six times in the third round. Goodman had to be helped from the ring. Farmer has helped bring out a number of good boxers, including

WELLMAN STARTS ACROSS ATLANTIC IN GREAT BALLOON

(By United Press Leased Wire.) ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 15.—The dirigible balloon "America," constructed through American ingenuity and manned mainly by American scientists and explorers, today started on a flight across the turbulent Atlantic, bound for Europe.

Should Walter Wellman, explorer, writer and aeronaut, who is piloting the giant craft, be successful in his venture, America will have, for the first time in history, linked the old and new world by an aerial route. "Headed northeast; all well aboard; machinery working fine. Goodby." This was the brief message flashed from the "America" wireless after the ship had disappeared from the crowds on Atlantic City's shores.

daybreak. Before cutting the balloon loose, Wellman said he was undecided whether to start on the trans-Atlantic flight or simply to make a trial trip.

In his balloon Wellman carries a wireless outfit and an operator, and soon after leaving the ground the wireless apparatus at the starting point caught this message. "Consider European trip started." A brisk wind carried the balloon seaward. The big sweeps of the start was made shortly after

RECORD OF W. B. DISHMAN

Wilton B. Dishman is the name of the man whom the court house ring nominated for county commissioner in the Second district. Dishman has a record that condemns him and should cause every thinking voter to cast his ballot for the grand old man running on the other ticket—Warner Cobb.

Dishman is a convicted blind pig operator, and has a record as a commissioner of Kootenai county, Idaho, that shows him to be the supporter of railroad corporations that try to bilk the people.

Yet a man of Dishman's type

A QUICK RESPONSE TO APPEAL

Andy Johnson is to have a chance.

Andy, you know, is the unfortunate young Norwegian the story of whose misfortune was told in The Press last night.

The Press asked the people of Spokane what they were going to do about it—were they going to send Andy home to die with his own people, or were they going to let him die friendless and alone among strangers?

The answers began to come in immediately after The Press was circulated. Last evening the telephone in The Press office started ringing, and it has been pretty busy ever since. People of all conditions and walks of life are telephoning to ask where Andy can be found. Some are coming to The Press office to inquire. All of them want to help the unfortunate boy.

And not only are the people interested in seeing that he gets a chance to go back to his folks in Norway before he dies, but an even better proposition has come forward, a doctor has come to the front who says that he can cure Andy. This doctor declares that drapery can be cured by his treatment even in advanced stages, and

KETCHEL UNCONSCIOUS; ASSASSIN SURROUNDED

(By United Press Leased Wire.) SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 15.—Stanley Ketchel of Grand Rapids, Mich., middleweight champion pugilist of the world, who was shot in the back by Walter Hartz, a ranch hand at the Dickerson ranch, near Conway, early today, lapsed into unconsciousness this afternoon while being carried here in a special train. His condition is reported extremely critical.

Ketchel will be rushed to a hospital with all speed and arrangements for his reception have already been completed. Instructions to prepare for an operation to remove the bullet were telegraphed ahead. The operation will be performed as soon as Ketchel arrives. A posse seeking Hartz has surrounded a patch of woods in the Osage river bottom where the fugitive is supposed to be hiding. His capture is believed to be imminent.

Stanley Ketchel, Middleweight Champion

(By United Press Leased Wire.) SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 15.—Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion of the world, was shot through the right lung at the ranch of R. P. Dickerson early today. His condition is reported critical. Dickerson's ranch is at Conway, near here.

Ketchel was shot by a man named Hurd, following a violent quarrel. Dispatches from Conway say that Hurd has fled to the hills, and that a posse of farmers are now seeking him.

Upon receipt of the news, Dickerson, who lives in Springfield, chartered a special train and at 9:35 o'clock left with several physicians and two bloodhounds for the ranch where the shooting occurred. Dickerson tried to get further details of the shooting before leaving, but was unable to do so.

Ketchel has been Dickerson's guest for several weeks. He recently assumed the presidency of a lumber company financed by Dickerson. He has been

ATHLETICS GET GAME AT LAST

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—The Athletics, champions of the American league, saved themselves from everlasting disgrace by taking the final game from the all-stars here this afternoon. Not only did the Athletics win but they shut out their opponents, 3 to 0.

The Athletics scored their first run in the opening inning on a couple of hits, aided and abetted by clever base running. That run was enough to win the game, as all three pitchers used by Manager Mack were invincible at all times, but for good measure they grabbed one more in both the sixth and seventh. Walsh pitched good ball. Two errors by his teammates helped in his downfall. The score:

Two hours he sat there all night. He used to eat his meals off the top of the old music box, and I've seen him open up the thing in the morning and take a clean shirt off the sounding board. THE SLOT PIANOETTE PUT DANNY OUT OF THE GAME

"Not so bad, eh?" said my friend, the proprietor, as he tapped his right foot almost in time with the strains of the restaurant orchestra. The orchestra was doing its best to make itself heard above the clatter of dishes and the hum of after theater talk. As the musicians switched into a sentimental song about the moon (a soft cadence with trills) the proprietor sipped his black coffee with a fr away look.
"You can say all you want to about 'Yachet' and all the other great operas, but I never want to bear anything better than Danny's 'Swan Song.'"
He paused, and The Press man obligingly asked, "Why, what was that?"
"Well," answered the proprietor, "I haven't always been what I am now. I used to be a waiter in a dance hall.

We called it a restaurant, but it only had that name by courtesy. The tables were all crowded up to the walls, and there was a dancing space in the center. The only music
