A LAWYER WORKS

GRADUATE OF YALE BLISTERING HIS HANDS WITH SHOVEL.

Leaves Fine Law Practice in Connecticut to Make a Fortune in the West—Not Satisfied With Colorado, Came to Oregon and Begins at the Ground—Sends His Money Home and Starts in Earning a Fortune at $1 With a Shovel—Expects to Open Law Offices Here After He Has Earned Some Money.

A graduate of the Yale law school, and a man who carries in his pockets recommendations signed by the governor of Connecticut and other prominent men, this morning donned a pair of blue overalls and went to work shoveling dirt. "I must make a living," he said, "and I'm going to do it right here in Pendleton."

The young lawyer after graduating from the law department of the great Eastern university, practiced for two years in the courts of Connecticut. Then fire of the west stirred his veins and he came toward the coast. In Colorado the young attorney secured a position in a cyanide plant and for over a year was its superintendent with a salary of $150 per month.

"But Colorado was not the West," he said, "and superintending a cyanide plant was not practicing law, and I came on to Oregon and finally, three weeks ago, to Pendleton. I have up until last night been in a local law office, but there is nothing in the practice of my profession here."

"I saw my little bank roll slowly dwindling away and realized that it would be but a few weeks until I would be penniless. Yesterday I counted my savings and found I had a few dollars over $180."

"I must find something to do," I remarked to the attorney in whose office I had desk room. "It doesn't make any difference to me what it is."

"You may shovel dirt in my yard," smiled my friend. "And I took him at his word. Then I drew my money from the bank and sent every cent of it back to my old home. If I'm to earn my living with a pick and shovel I intend to start like the rest who make their bread that way."

With a merry whistle the former attorney picked up the shovel in his white, gloveless hands and began his first day's work.

Standard Oil Company Gets Control of Many Railroads.

New York, Oct. 17.—Wall street is watching while Standard Oil gradually but surely dominates the railroad systems of the country. Changes in directorates of various trunk lines foreshadow complete ascendancy of Standard Oil interests in the most important railroad systems of the country and the elimination of the traditional power of the Vanderbilt-Morgan party.

Within the last three years the Rockefellers have gradually obtained a foothold in the New York Central; New York, New Haven & Hartford, Chicago & Northwestern and other lines usually known as Vanderbilt-Morgan railroads.

New methods of doing business will be introduced in the New York Central railroad. One of the most important changes, it is said, will be the retirement of Senator Depew, chairman of the board of directors.

Passenger Agents' Convention.

Old Point Comfort, Va., Oct. 18.—Nearly every railroad of importance in the United States, Canada and Mexico, is represented at the forty-ninth annual convention begun at the Hotel Chamberlain today by the American Association of General Passenger and Ticket Agents. The general abolishment of Sunday excursions, uniformity in dealing with tickets lost by passengers, and the effect on regular traffic by reduced rates to large conventions are some of the topics that will be discussed. Governor Montague, Secretary of the Navy Morton and other men of note have accepted invitations to be present and speak at the annual convention banquet.

Bankers Meet at Fair.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 18.—A large attendance of prominent bankers and financiers was present today at the opening of the fourteenth annual convention of the Illinois State Bankers' Association. Hopkins, William George of Aurora, William B. Ridgely, comptroller of the currency, and Hartman Baker of Philadelphia.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?

If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Cantharides, Vasoline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots. It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co.
