KINGS OF UMATILLA

FARMERS WHOSE INCOME IS OVER $10,000.

Oregon Sunday Journal Issues Creditable Umatilla County and Pendleton Edition—Valuable Statistics Collected and the Matchless Resources of the County Exploited by Portland's Leading Daily—Should Be Sent East by Friends of the State and County.

The statistical edition of the Oregon Sunday Journal which appeared yesterday, was a creditable number and contains a world of information concerning the county and city, and in fact, of all Oregon.

Extensive write-ups of Pendleton business firms appear in the edition, and tabulated statistics on the resources of the county are given. It is a creditable collection of facts on Umatilla county, and Pendleton, and should be sent East by all those interested in the advertisement of the county.

Among the novel features of the write-up of Umatilla county is a list of 100 wheat farmers whose income from wheat crops is over $100,000 annually. The Journal says concerning the Umatilla county "wheat kings:"

Of more than 100 farmers in Umatilla county, each raised not less than $10,000 worth of wheat during 1904. The average of the 100 persons was $14,000.

These 100 farmers, therefore, raise $1,400,000 worth of wheat, or nearly one-half of the value of the crop of the entire county, which was $3,500,000—the yield being an average of 25 bushels on 200,000 acres cropped this year, or $5,000,000 in all. The average price received was 65c per bushel.

The 10 leading growers were as follows: John Crow, George Perringer, W. M. Pierce, T. J. Kirk, T. J. Tweedy, William Reeder, W. P. Temple, John Hagen, Louis Hagen, David Nelson, Molstrom Brothers, W. J. Ferguson, J. M. P. Snyder, W. J. Furnish, T. K. Beard, Louis Miller, Benjamin Ogle, John Bannister, Gross Brothers, Purl Bowman, M. and C. Woodard, Dr. John A. HELD KANGAROO COURT.

The Victim Nearly Died From Fright. Then From Joy.

The spirit of Yuletide took possession of the city officials around the recorder's office Saturday afternoon and they showered their good will upon Sam Osborne, the janitor, by presenting the knight of the dustpan and broom with a long bottle.

Marshal M. J. Carney arrested the surprised janitor and led him before the recorder, who quickly resolved himself into a kangaroo court. The judge read a lengthy indictment charging the scared Sam with about all the offenses covered by city ordinances.

"It is my painful duty, Sam," remarked the judge, "but I must pass sentence."

"But, I'm not—"

"Silence," roared the marshal. "And the sentence of this court is," continued the justice, pulling the bottle from his pocket, "that you drink all of this Christmas day."

Sam, who was by this time in a fainting condition, rapidly revived upon being administered to with a draught from his "sentence."

Taxes in Columbia County.

County Treasurer Alcorn reports that the state and county taxes for 1903 are collected up closer than probably ever before. The taxes that remained unpaid on December 1, have become delinquent, but the total amount is only $1500.38, including both personal and real. The total levy for that year was $101,548.32, of which $99,945.94 has been paid in, leaving the sum of 1600.38 delinquent. This makes a splendid showing as to the financial condition of the taxpayers of this county, and it is probably not exceeded by any county in the state.—Dayton Courier Press.

Christmas at Riverside.

The residents of the Riverside settlement east of the city, assembled at the home of Rev. J. Diven on Christmas eve and enjoyed an elaborate and well rendered program of songs, recitations and music, after which a well filled Christmas tree was divested of its load of presents. About 60 people were present and it was a most enjoyable event. Miss Stella Marple trained the children in the Christmas songs and exercises and the program was delightful. It is a regular custom of the residents of Riverside to hold Christmas exercises and each year witnesses an increasing interest in the event.

Christmas Exercises.

Christmas exercises at all the churches were well attended yesterday. And the programs were carried out as published in the East Oregonian Saturday evening.

The new Methodist church at Sunnyside, Wash. is entirely out of debt since $2005 was raised for that purpose December 18.

TRAIN CRASHES INTO TEAM.

Wagon Demolished, Horses Killed But Occupants Escape Death.

The passenger train from Spokane yesterday morning crashed into a team and wagon near Farmington, Wash., killed both horses and seriously injured a 16-year-old girl. A farmer named Ellis was driving and the other occupants of the vehicle consisted of his wife and three children.

The engineer declares he whistled for the crossing but the people in the vehicle were bundled up to protect themselves from the cold and did not hear the train. The wagon was demolished and the horses and people hurled several feet. How any of them escaped death is hard to explain.

The train was stopped immediately after the accident and members of the crew carried the injured girl to a nearby house and a physician was summoned. She received a long gash in her scalp and it is thought one of her legs is fractured. One of the horses was instantly killed and the other expired a few minutes after the engine struck it.
