CAPTAIN HELLESATH RELEASED.

Testimony Against Him Insufficient and of Poor Quality.

Owing to the fact that there is not sufficient evidence to hold Olaf Hellesath upon the charge recently made against him, the Salvation Army captain was released today. This evening he will leave for Seattle to take up his work in a new field.

According to District Attorney Phelps he decided to dismiss the case against Hellesath after having fully investigated it. After careful inquiry he came to the conclusion that should the case be tried out a conviction could not be secured. The only evidence against him was the statement of the Sibley girl and this was found to be of little value as evidence, because of the fact that the girl freely admits immorality on other occasions, and has a reputation for untruthfulness. She will in all probability be sent to the Boys' and Girls' Aid society, a petition to that effect having been filed with the county court today by District Attorney Phelps.

Brigadier W. T. Jenkins, in command of the Salvation Army work in the northwest, has also made an investigation of the affair for the benefit of the army. His conclusions vindicated Hellesath of the accusations against him.

Every government irrigation project in the 12 western states and territories will be described in the magazine and it will be highly illustrated with irrigation scenes and will be distributed in large numbers in the east.
