SERMON-PROVIDING AGENCIES FURNISH SERMONS TO CLERGY

New York.—While it is possible such things are known in this country as preachers having their sermons written for them by others, up to this time it has not become a regular recognized business undertaking as it has been in England.

There are on the other side special sermon-providing agencies which, for the sum of $1.25 will send a manuscript which has no duplicate; the usual terms for one written specially are $2.50. Generally the writers are clergymen, some of whom have agencies of their own, but recently a new class has sprung into being, constituted of ordinary journalists, who have turned to this branch of writing.

The better agencies have men in their employment who devote their attention to special branches of the trade. Thus, one firm claims to have specialists in the following branches: Foreign, home, mission, baptism, matrimony, funeral, flower, temperance, territorial, introductory and farewell. One advertisement reads: "Modern sermons. Original written by hand. All subjects 25¢ each. Special harvest 5¢. Confined to the clergy. Edited by M. A. Oxon."

Another is as follows: "Original sermons in clear MS. Lithography by benefited clergyman, late traveling fellow and chancellor's medalist of his university."

In many cases there is no false sentiment about the trade, the clerical authors attaching their names and addresses in full. These advertisements appeal to all, being specially prepared for use by clergymen of the high church, low church and so on.

REPRESENTATIVES OF MANY NATIONS WILL GATHER TO SPEAK A COMMON TONGUE

Washington.—Men and women from thirty-five countries will gather in Washington soon but there will be no babel of voices for the men and women will be the delegates to the Sixth International Esperanto congress which is to be in session August 14 to 20.

Though the delegates are coming here from the farthest points of the world yet there will be no confusion of mother tongues but a free conversation in a common language.

Approximately 1,500 delegates are expected, and a program, elaborate for a convention of such a nature has been prepared. Distinguished linguists of this and other countries will be present and these men will transact the business necessary to the dissemination of their idiom.

Aside from the serious meetings and discussions many interesting features have been prepared for the seven days of the congress. There will be an elaborate open presentation of Shakespeare's "As You Like It" by the Hickman players. The lines have been translated into Esperanto by Dr. Ivy Kellerman, of Washington, and with the players drilled until they are letter perfect. The spectacle of men and women from all sections of the globe easily following the performance will be witnessed.

Another of the features standing out from the program of the week is the ball game on the afternoon of Thursday, August 18. Space has been reserved at the ball park of the Washington American league team and the delegates to the Esperanto convention will attend the game in a body. Many of the delegates will be treated to their first exhibition of the American game but the play will be understood by all. The officers of the American association of Esperantists have had translated into Esperanto a baseball guide especially prepared for this day by one of the leading baseball writers of Washington.

It has also been rumored that Umpire Silk O'Laughlin has been drilled by an Esperantist and will give his decisions in the common language. Some trouble was experienced in translating the "strike tuh!" slogan of the famous umpire.

On the Sunday of the congress special morning meetings will be held in the Episcopal and Catholic churches where as much of the services as possible will be in Esperanto. It is expected that sermons in Esperanto will be delivered.

On the following day the congress will settle down to serious work. The Esperanto Academy—whose duty it is to preserve the language in its virgin purity—will meet, as will also the International Council and the International Scientific Association of Esperantists.

On Wednesday evening ten handsome premiums will be awarded to the winners in literary contests, each having presented a thesis on a certain assigned subject written in Esperanto.

Between the business sessions of the congress the delegates will enjoy many opportunities for sight-seeing offered by the capital city. Many business men of Washington will have advertisements printed in Esperanto. One of the largest sight-seeing auto companies has already secured a Washington guide book printed in Esperanto.

At the congress will be detailed policemen of the Metropolitan police department who have been especially instructed in Esperanto. These officers—a class instructed during the last several months by General Secretary Reed—are now experts and this too is looked upon as one of the expected triumphs of the congress.

On Friday the "grand international ball" will be held and this promises to be one of the most attractive social features of the convention. The dance cards will be engraved in Esperanto and the delegates will appear in their national uniforms.

No attempt is being made on the part of the Esperantists to substitute their language for the mother tongues of the world but they are trying to convince the world that the universal language is invaluable from many standpoints. If successfully forced forward it will mean a revolution in business methods and make international trading, the Esperantists claim, a simple work.

In a commercial way, they claim, it is of practical advantage to all doing business beyond their national borders; scientifically by offering opportunity for an international version of all the great scientific works of the world. For travelers, they state, it is an immeasurable blessing, eliminating the inconveniences of having to contend with so many foreign tongues. Last year Secretary Reed traveled from Northern France to Barcelona, Spain, speaking nothing but Esperanto.

With the full establishment of this international language, it is claimed, will come a greater amount of international communication and a consequent fuller understanding of the true "brotherhood of man."

BEARD IS BRIGHT BLUE.
Aged Immigrant Uses Dye to Fool Officers, Picks Wrong Color.
New York.—There is now on exhibition at the Federal detention station on Ellis island a true bluebeard, nationality Russian, aged 70 years, beard long, curly and a bright blue. Moses Labowsky heard on his trip across the ocean that it was difficult for the aged and infirm to get into the United States, so when he was turned aside at Ellis island to await the action of a board of special inquiry, he brewed a dye from the lead of an indelible pencil and soaked his long beard in it.

The next application was intended for the hair of the head, but when the dye had well set, he discovered too late that it was blue, not black, and quite as indelible as it had been advertised. With a snow white head and an imposing ultra marine blue beard, Labowsky probably will be deported.

Life on Panama Canal.

The germs cause chills fever and ague, biliousness, jaundice, lassitude, weakness and general debility. But Electric Bitters never fail to destroy them and cure malaria troubles. ### SEEK WRITER OF SEDITIOUS POEMS

Cairo.—The Egyptian authorities are searching for a certain shiek, All el Ghayati, who is alleged to be the author of a collection of poems in which the crime of Warden is condoned and the judges who passed sentence of death upon him are violently abused.

The collection, which comprises 129 pages, incites Egyptians to revolt against the occupation, and is supplemented by a translation of the "Marsellaise" adapted to the occasion. Some copies of this seditious collection of poems have been seized by the police in public streets and steps are being taken for the trial of the author. The latter, however, has disappeared from Cairo, and is believed to have gone to his native town of Damietta, whither instructions have been sent to effect his arrest.

Meanwhile search is being made in Cairo for further copies of the seditious poems. A copy discovered in the possession of a servant in the employ of the principal nationalist newspaper has led to the discovery of about 40 in the house of a member of the staff of that paper, who, however, admitted having received the copies from the author himself.

Many requests from catarrh sufferers who use atomizers have caused us to put up Liquid Cream Balm, a new and convenient form of Ely's Cream Balm, the only remedy for catarrh which can always be depended on, to cleanse the clogged air-passages, to remove free, natural breathing, the two forms of Cream Balm are alike. ### SIGNAL AIRSHIPS.

U. S. May Add Zeppelins Before Aeroplanes for Military Defense.

Washington.—Military experts of the war department have under consideration a plan to add the dirigible balloon or airship to the equipment of the signal corps. A strong plea will be made to congress during the coming session for an appropriation sufficient to enable the department to purchase one or two airships of the Zeppelin type and to build a plant necessary for the maintenance of these aerial monsters.

This means that the army is not as yet ready to adopt the aeroplane as a part of the military equipment for national defense. The experts are of the opinion that the dirigible has been perfected, while the aeroplane is still in the experimental stage. Recent accidents to aeroplane operators have accentuated this point of view. The dirigible, they say, is making trips with a high degree of certainty and has demonstrated its usefulness as a war machine not only for scouting purposes, but for carrying materials and men and weapons which could be used to great advantage.

This pronouncement on the merits of the dirigible by the officers of the general staff is the present decision on the controversy which has been maintained by the partisans of the two types since the aeroplane came into the aeronautic field. The army has faith in the dirigibles, despite the accidents to the Zeppelin ships, and has not faith in the aeroplane whatever hope there is of its further development.

It is the ultimate purpose of the signal corps, according to the general plan which has been adopted, to establish the aerial corps as subsidiary to the coast artillery corps. Stations will be established for the big airships at forts along the coast so that they may be ready for service either in connection with rival engagements or in case of attack by a foreign navy or in connection with land maneuvers. As a part of their practice work the big ships will sail up and down the coast in order to train themselves for their work as a sort of aerial scouting line running the entire country.

If congress, which has shown much opposition to such innovations as flying machines, can be persuaded to adopt the point of view of the general staff it would not be an unusual sight within a year or two, to see a huge cigar-shaped dirigible sailing over any coast city.

It is expected, at least, that the interest in dirigibles which has waned in the United States since the Wright brothers demonstrated the possibilities of the aeroplanes will revive again and it is hoped that further improvements over the Zeppelin type, making them still more valuable for air navigation, will be brought about.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

FORMER PENDLETON BALL PLAYER IS HEARD FROM

Pendleton baseball fans will remember Ralph Hayes who pitched for this city's star baseball team of a few years ago which cleaned up all of the independent teams in the northwest. Many of them also knew that since he was attending an eastern school at the time he played here under an assumed name in order that he might not be deterred from intercollegiate athletic contests, on the grounds of being a professional. They will therefore recognize in the Ralph Glaze of the following article the star twirler of the Pendleton baseball team:

Waco, Texas, Aug. 4.—Baylor grid-iron fans are elated over the prospect of having Ralph Glaze of Dartmouth as football coach for the 1910 season. Athletics all over the state will be interested in this announcement, and no doubt many of them will come to Waco next year to benefit by the experience and inside knowledge of football of two such veterans as Glaze and Mills.

Enoch J. Mills will coach his third football squad in Baylor next year. Besides being an all-southwestern quarterback he is the man who coached the Baylor team that beat Tulane in 1908, the only game Tulane lost that year, and the Haskell Indians in 1909, Baylor's most glorious victories.

Glaze is an all-American and an old Dartmouth star and a football and baseball coach with a national reputation.

The East Oregonian is Eastern Oregon's representative paper. It leads, and the people appreciate it and show it by their liberal patronage. It is the advertising medium of the section.
