NEWS OF FARM AND RANGE

WASHINGTON WOOL SOLD SAYS BURKE

GROWERS SCAMBLED TO SELL. BUYERS EAGER TO BUY. THAT'S ALL.

Prices Paid for Central Oregon Clip Similar to 1913 Prices—Pendleton Scouring Mill to Start Early This Spring.

There has been a million pounds of wool sold in central Washington already this spring and the prices have ranged very close to those paid last year, says E. J. Burke, well known buyer for H. C. Judd & Root and superintendent of the local scouring mill who was here for a short time today. This was Mr. Burke's first visit to Pendleton this spring and he but recently returned from the east.

Washington growers, unlike eastern Oregon growers, have been very anxious to sell their wool this spring, declares Mr. Burke. He believes they would have sold at prices several cents below what was offered them. The Washington growers are usually quick sellers as they are not as well organized as are the growers here and no sales days are held in Washington.

The eagerness of the Washington growers to sell has been fully matched by the eagerness of the buyers to gather in their wool and hence the central Washington clip has been virtually sold already. Shearing has been early in that district this spring but much of the wool has been sold before being shorn. In some instances says Mr. Burke, wool has been sold for a fraction of a cent under last year's prices. In other cases the clips have brought slightly more than the 1913 price. Therefore he estimates the prices as very similar to those given a year ago.

Thus far Mr. Burke is the only buyer to descend upon Pendleton, save R. F. Bicknell, who was here some time ago. C. H. Greene is now in the Yakima country.

The Pendleton scouring mill is to start its run unusually early this spring, according to Mr. Burke. Some wool has already been shipped here for scouring and sorting will commence within a few days.

The scouring mill will be running regularly by April 15. Wool for scouring and some for baling will be shipped in from eastern Washington.

Lamb Crop Is Good.

K. G. Warner of the upper Butter creek country, was in Pendleton several days the first of this week attending to matters of business and visiting relatives. On his return, Mrs. Frank Hoffman, Mrs. Warner's sister, will accompany him for an extended visit on the ranch. Mr. Warner is one of the prominent sheep breeders of that country, running sheep over a large territory. He says that lambing in his flocks is well under way, reporting 1000 lambs and will probably have 2500 more. He will start shearing 7000 head about the first of May. He has 40 acres of the beaver dam bottom land in alfalfa and 700 acres of the bench land above in wheat hay this year.

Less Snow Than Usual.

John S. Barker, an old timer in the Meacham country, was in Pendleton several days the first of this week visiting with friends. Mr. Barker says that the country around there has experienced one of the mildest winters that he can remember of. The snow has been very light and disappeared quickly. For these reasons a considerable portion of the crop has been put in earlier than usual.

Manages Ione Warehouse.

E. L. Padberg, manager of the Farmers' Warehouse of Ione, was in Pendleton over Sunday and Monday visiting with friends and transacting business. ### PROPRIETOR OF LODGING HOUSE IS UNDER ARREST

CHARGE OF SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT LICENSE MADE AGAINST C. H. BROWN.

Indications that the law and order league, recently organized, is still on the job was given this morning in the arrest of C. H. Brown, proprietor of the Palace lodging house upon a charge of selling liquor without a license. The arrest was made by the police upon a warrant sworn to by D. C. Connel who, it will be remembered, was one of the men who originally furnished Evangelist E. J. Bulgina with some of the evidence upon which the public charges of immorality and law violation were made. The case has been set for trial in the police court for next Tuesday.

Fair Surf Bathers Frolic.

SEASIDE, Ore., March 24.—Surf bathing in March is not yet a generally accepted diversion but three courageous women have inaugurated the 1914 season here. The fair ones first to defy Pacific's early spring breezes were Mrs. Bell Byron, of Portland, Mrs. Mabel Brandenburg, of the Pleckwick, Seaside, and Mrs. Jameson Peterson, also of this city. They declared the water was "awfully" fine. A large party had arranged to bathe in the surf today, but the weather became threatening.

Mr. Marshall did not awaken. He decided, however, he needed another pistol and bought one. He has not decided whether he will buy a fourth gun.

TWO MILLION TO PROTECT VISITORS AT PANAMA FAIR

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—More money and men were asked by Police Chief White to protect visitors to the Panama Pacific Exposition here in 1915 from crooks. "A much larger force of police," said White, "will be required during the exposition and the department generally will have to be strengthened. I intend to ask for nearly $500,000 increase in my appropriation for 1915. The amount allowed me this year was $1,518,128. I shall need $2,015,148 next year."
