QUIT MEAT IF YOUR KIDNEYS ACT BADLY

TAKE TABLESPOONFUL OF SALTS IF BACK HURTS OR BLADDER BOthers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you find dizziness, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

ROSES—

I have 10,000 roses ready for immediate delivery, all grown in the open ground, and grown in Heppner. All are on own roots comprising 170 varieties of the best ever blooming sorts; positive by guaranteed true to label. Many prefer that I make their selection giving their preference of colors. I will always give any rose of equal value in exchange for those that do not entirely please you. I will also donate, as a forfeit, ten choice ever blooming roses for every error I make in filling your order. I refer you to J. L. Vaughan, the electrician, as to the merits of my roses, Mr. Vaughan having over 50 of my roses growing in his yard. Address, HARRY CUMMING, Heppner, Oregon.

"European Civilization is at Stake" French Premier Reviews Crisis Our Cause, Cause of all: Clemenceau

(George Clemenceau in San Francisco Examiner.)

In the enormous issues now at stake it is not merely France or Russia or England we have to consider, but the destiny of European civilization, which will now be decided by the force of arms.

The result will be either the maintenance of a fine diversity of culture among the independent peoples, or the execrable unit of German manufacture. Thus our cause is the cause of all nations and all governments who do not separate the sentiment of national dignity from the conception of life based on national tradition.

We Frenchmen who are sending our sons to battle, who are traitorously menaced in the very roots of our life, are resolved to save all that we can save of our greatest contributions to civilization.

By defending ourselves we become the champions of all.

We march with England, who, herself, in the age of iron thought to dominate us. We had to fight for one hundred years to win back our independence; then Great Britain threw herself in the economic world contest and build up an immense empire of which civilization can only be proud. Now she is nobly drawing the sword for the liberty and dignity of the European peoples.

Formerly the enemy of Napoleonic hegemony and Bismarckian domination, she now seeks only that the people be free in Europe.

Italy remains neutral. I don't risk much in predicting that the Italian people will rapidly realize that short sighted governments were mad in over placing themselves at the service of Germanism, as against the Latin race.

Finally comes Russia, which only yesterday seemed the last European refuge of Asiatic despotism—Russia, which under the last Czar entered the path of liberty and set afoot an incomparable intellectual movement which places her in the front rank of cultured civilization. Russia, the magnificent home of idealism now renaissance, which brings up new springs of energy.

What feudal German bureaucracy fears is an intellectual revolt which will destroy the blind obedience on which the government reposes. The Kaiser's manifesto to his people is the shame of shames, and none will ever fully realize how these beasts of prey have allied vile hypocrisy with average brutality. Only yesterday Baron Von Schoen said to one of my friends:

"Tell the world we do not want war. Our misfortune is not to know the wishes of Austria, to whom we are as indissolubly attached as you are to Russia. We will do all we can to prevent war."

How do Germany's acts square with these words? She declared war on Russia because the latter mobilized on the Russo-Austrian frontier as a reply to Austrian mobilization, Germany's war declaration to Russia came at the very moment that Austria, her ally, accepted Sir Edward Grey's mediation proposal; that is to say, just when the primary causes of this great war were disappearing.

Who would ever sanely deny that the Kaiser declared war on Russia, violated Luxemburg and Belgian neutrality, in order to march against France?

The Kaiser talks to his people about "serious people forcing Germany to a just defense," and that he "will show his enemies what it means to provoke Germany."

This appears to be mad impudence, because Germany cannot cite a single act or even a word of provocation from its enemies.

In reality, coming from a pirate chief who wants to throw his hordes on France as his ancestors did on Rome, for the grandiose enterprise of pillage, crowned with the stupid joy of harsh domination, the Kaiser's words are a German formula for inflaming the appetites with pious savagery.

The Emperor calls upon the God of Evangelists to help him in the greatest crime against humanity in history. For the Emperor recommends his troops to go to church and pray for abundant rapine.

FORMER LOCAL MAN MAY HAVE BEEN MURDERED

That Gustav Lamaack, formerly of this city who met death at sea on Nov. 19, 1913, while enroute from Portland to San Francisco on board the steamship Bear, was murdered for money he had with him is the theory just being advanced by the Bay City authorities as the result of their failure to locate his trunk in compliance with a request from relatives in this city. It was formerly thought that he had committed suicide.

The deceased man was a brother of Mrs. C. H. Rosenberg of 595 West Alta street who is now at Lehman Springs, and a half brother of H. H. Wesel, retired merchant. A short time previous to his death he was a clerk for a period of five months in the Wesel store.

The following dispatch from San Francisco explains the new developments in the case:

"With all the elements of a mystery surrounding the case, but with only the most meager clues, detectives began today a probe of the death of Gustav Lamaack, a Portland tailor, who was believed to have committed suicide by leaping into the sea from the steamer Bear, but who, it is now believed, may have been murdered."

"Lamaack disappeared from the steamer Bear November 19, while the vessel was nearing this port after a voyage from Portland."

"A short time before he had drawn from the ship's purser $1000 of the $1700 he had deposited on leaving the north. Not long after withdrawing the $1000 he purchased from the store-keeper a picture of the vessel and was seen to place it carefully away in a wallet."

"Nevertheless, suicide was the belief of the authorities until last Wednesday, when Public Administrator Hynes asked the police to locate the trunk of the dead man.

"A communication from Lamaack's relatives in Pendleton, Ore., to Hynes asking for the delivery of the trunk and contents brought to light the fact that the trunk ordered sent to a local warehouse by the public administrator on December 3 never reached its destination."

"In the communication from the Oregon relatives much stress is placed on the loss of a packet of photographs and important papers known to have been in the trunk, but while they hint at the possibility of Lamaack having been done away with that these might be secured, they make no explanation as to the nature of the documents."

Not So Strange After All. You may think it strange that so many people are cured of stomach trouble by Chamberlain's Tablets. You would not, however, if you should give them a trial. They strengthen and invigorate the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Mrs. Rosie Rish, Wabash, Ind., writes, "Nothing did me the least good until I began using Chamberlain's Tablets. It is decidedly the best medicine for stomach trouble I ever used." Car Upsets, Hurting Two.

ROSEBURG, Ore., Aug. 10.—Losing control of his brakes while backing down a steep grade on the Roseburg-Myrtle Point stage road late Saturday, an automobile driven by P. A. Livesley, mayor of Woodburn, crashed into an abutting embankment and overturned.

Mrs. Livesley, who was blocking the wheels of the car, was knocked violently to the ground and had her shoulder fractured.

Mr. Livesley was thrown 20 feet, but escaped serious injury. Mr. and Mrs. Livesley arrived here about midnight Saturday in quest of medical attention. The car was badly wrecked.

The Hill system will resume operation of the big Kalamia ferry and take traffic right through to Astoria.

3600 Sheep Shipped from Morton. MORTON, Wash., Aug. 10.—The biggest single shipment of livestock that ever went out of eastern Lewis county was made when 3600 sheep were started for Chicago markets. The sheep were driven here from the forest reserve feeding grounds in the Cascade mountains in the extreme eastern part of the county. Fourteen double-deck stock cars were required.

Data of Ancients Found.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The London Society of Antiquaries will soon hold at Burlington House, an interesting exhibition of the papyrus and other fragments discovered by the Egypt Exploration Fund at Antioch, Oxyrhynchus and other sites of ancient civilization on the upper reaches of the Nile, hundreds of miles south of Cairo.

That human nature has not altered much is shown by an order for an inquest on a slave who had fallen off the roof of a house in his anxiety to secure a good view of some dancing girls; an announcement of some athletic sports; allusions to horse racing; and a curious indictment by a wife of a cross-grained husband who refused to give her the household keys and bolted the door when she had gone out to church.

The preparations common in modern villages on the occasion of the visit of a member of parliament have an interesting prototype in a letter ordering certain civil officials to have everything ready for the visit of a Roman senator, including the bun which he was to throw to the sacred crocodiles. These vivid historical snapshots seem to bring the dead past of Graeco-Roman Egypt very near.

French Tell of Bravery.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—Here is one of the stories that Frenchmen of the capital are telling in justification of their pride in the French cavalry. It is claimed that during an engagement south of the Meuse a German patrol, composed of an officer and 22 Uhlans, met a French patrol of one officer and seven men. The Germans hesitated to attack and the French officer, advancing, shot and killed the German officer and put his companions to flight.

VINCENT ASTOR GIVES LAND WORTH $25,000

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Vincent Astor has presented to the village of Rhinecliff a strip of land to be used by the village as a highway leading to the New York Central station.

The village tried to buy this property several months ago for highway purposes, but the owner refused to sell for less than $25,000. The village could not afford to pay this and the project was given up.

The much famed land extends through what is known as the Holiday Farm. When Astor learned that the village sought the land so as to open a new approach to the railroad he opened negotiations for the purchase. He finally closed a deal and it was announced that he had offered the land to the village without price.

The gift was accepted, and with the aid of Astor, the village officials will begin at once the work of laying out a highway.

Lunch Is Bar to Divorce.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Sentencing them to eat lunch together after they had appeared before him to have their marital difficulties settled, Supreme Court Justice Morschauer reconciled Robert A. Casper of Portland Washington, N. Y., and his wife, of Lloyds, N. Y., after they had been separated for a week. Mrs. Casper appeared to regain the custody of her 3-year-old boy, Robert Lits, whom Casper kidnaped.

The court instructed the couple to go out and have lunch together and said he would hear their case when they returned.

Smilingly Mrs. Casper, holding her little boy by one hand and the father by the other, returned to the courtroom after lunch and informed the court that they had been reconciled. After thanking the judge and receiving his blessing they departed for home.

BIRDIE CREE DOES WONDERS WITH THE BAT

Birdie Cree.

After a month's playing with the Yankees, Birdie Cree, who had been farming out with the Baltimore Internationals, has skipped to the top of the American league batting average list. Seldom has fandom witnessed such a remarkable record as that set by Cree during the past month. He compares favorably with Lajoie in his hey day and there are few other players in the American league who can hold a candle to him with the stick.

STAGE LURES YOUNG GIRL INTO POVERTY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—Bessie Wells, aged 15, was taken in charge by the police and will be sent to her home in Los Angeles. Several weeks ago she left her mother's home, 641 West Forty-first street, Los Angeles, and joined a theatrical troupe.

When Detectives Mitchell and Matheson found her yesterday she said she had been destitute for more than a week. She said the troupe had broken up at Fresno.

The detectives also brought to police headquarters Felix Triville, a theatrical man, and his wife, whom the Wells girl had accompanied from Los Angeles. They were not detained.
