It is rumored that a new boat will be put on Snake river between Lewiston and Wild Goose. While this is needed, the dog in the manger will probably see present conditions continue until such time as local enterprise takes hold of the project.

The school election at Clarkston Saturday resulted in the election of Frank Young the poultryman, over W. Evans. Some ill feeling was shown over matters pertaining to district affairs. But all ended well and apparent satisfaction over the result is manifest.

It would be well for parents to keep their children away from the rivers, at least during the present stage of high water. A young son of Mr. Phillips, residing on east C. street had a narrow escape from drowning Wednesday. He was rescued by Eugene Bonhore.

Some of our exchanges advocate lynching those who slaughtered the sheep on Salmon river. While the act was deplorable, the law of Idaho properly enforced is sufficient. Mob law should be frowned down in every state. It is not justifiable upon any occasion.

Thomas Watts, a well-known printer, who worked in the offices here for a time, has been elected a delegate from the Nelson, B. C. union, to represent that union at the coming convention of the International Typographical Union, which meets at Birmingham, Alabama, in August.

The drift wood coming down with the flood in the Clearwater is being caught by various citizens. Several thousand cords are taken yearly by people living along that stream. It is worth the time spent when one has to put up at $6 per cord for the same class of wood during the winter season.

A party of Spokane capitalists were in the city Tuesday on the way to the mining districts headed by Wm. M. Ridpath, who made a million in the Leroli mine; A. R. Rutter, J. Grier Long, Isaac Baum, C. B. Dunning, B. M. Whiting, Ellis Soule and W. H. Young were the others in the party.

Judge Poe, Bob Schleicher and Councilman Wilkinson were along Clearwater joshing a lone fisherman who was struggling with drift, wood barbed wire and other things that cause profanity. But so fine catfish was the result of two hours hard work. The judge went after a rod and line and failed to return.

A Boise man, M. H. Goodwin, who owns a saw mill above the city and a lumber yard on the north side, has been sued by the government for $108,814.21. The plaintiff is the United States, and it demands that sum for timber cut illegally as charged, from the public domain by the defendant from 1892 until 1901.—Nampa Leader.

A daughter of Mrs. J. A. Miller was thrown from a horse on Main street last night, resulting in a fracture of the thigh bone in one of her limbs. She was dragged nearly 150 feet, and only good luck saved her life. Drs. Striling and Shaif reduced the fracture and the young lady is resting easily today, but it will be weeks before she entirely recovers.

W. H. Moore, representing the Minneapolis Journal, is in the city on business connected with that paper. The Journal is one of the best papers west of Chicago and enjoys the reputation of being up-to-date in both cleanliness and news. It has colored pictorial pages, ads by the hundreds of inches and reading matter in each issue sufficient to fill 500 pages of a magazine.

City Marshal Roos yesterday removed the iron porch over the sidewalk in front of John Vollmer's store. Vollmer has gone into the courts and wants $15,000 damages. Individual suit against Mayor Beach is one feature, and one against Mr. Beach as mayor of the city is another. G. W. Tannahill, James E. Babb and C. L. McDonald are attorneys for Vollmer.

Perhaps the neatest pamphlet yet issued advertising the resources of Idaho is that of the Elmore County Irrigated Farms Association. This company has its principal office in New York, with local branches at Chicago and Mountain home. It contains over 100 half tone cuts representing scenes in Boise valley and along Snake river, with much descriptive matter. The work is in two colors on calendared paper. Dan W. Greenburg is cashier for the new corporation.

The county commissioners are very busy men this week. They are completing the work of the adjourned April term. Road matters are chiefly engaging their attention. Auditor Stookey was granted $10 a month as extra salary for deputy clerk. Petition of A. Neagle for a change in road district boundary was denied. C. M. Fassett, analytical chemist of Spokane, through his attorneys presented a bill for $150 for analyzing the contents of the stomach of Frank Henderson, alleged to have been poisoned by Kitty Ross. An order was made to a Portland firm for a new steel record vault for auditor's office. The commissioners and Mr. Vanardal, engineer for the Northern Pacific will inspect some roads.

The U. S. Court.

The May term of the U. S. federal court convened in Moscow Monday. The federal grand jury was called at 10, empaneled at 11, and had made two indictments by 12 o'clock and completed six in the afternoon. The indictments made thus far are for whisky cases on the Nez Perce and Coeur d'Alene Indian reservations. Of the offenders from Nez Perce the following have been indicted: J. E. Warren, W. Ragan, Louis Arnold, Henrietta Harbour, Annie Harvey, Nick Gilman. C. T. Stranahan, of the Nez Perce agency, and Geo. F. Steele, of Coeur d'Alene, are both present and on duty before the grand jury with their hosts of Indian witnesses.

An indictment was drawn against Phillip Weskus, a young Nez Perce Indian, who is charged with mailing an obscene letter to a pupil of the Indian school on the Umatilla reservation. Young Weskus was arrested by the deputy marshal at Lapwai Tuesday evening and was arraigned Wednesday morning. The first case brought to trial will be the case of the United States vs. Lee West. It is alleged that West robbed the postoffice at Florence two years ago, taking a watch which had been sent to Charles Fidek by Thomas Lammason, a jeweler at Colfax. West sent the watch to Chicago to have the works put in a new case. The postoffice inspectors, in ferreting out the theft, discovered the case in the Chicago establishment and the jeweler there is present to testify against West. West was brought from Salt Lake, where he is serving a term for a similar offense. The case against him is a strong one and this, coupled with his reputation, will probably give him a long term at McNeill's island.

The grand jury convened Monday and completed its work yesterday. J. M. Pearce was foreman, and W. P. Hunt and F. J. Boston were the other members from Nez Perce. The trial jury was called today and the West case is the first to be heard. Besides the whisky cases there will be several timber cases come to an issue. Fred N. Hallet and Len Chapman are present and the cases against them will be heard some time during the term.

Bertha E. Bowly and husband to Roy W. Adams and Thomas F. Martin, lot 25x18 feet, town of Nesperce; consideration, $50.

Can't Saw Out.

Brockway, the man held for burglary in the county jail, had a real good saw with which he intended to make port holes in the county jail, so in case that structure was carried out by the flood, he could steer the floating prison clear of the rocks in the river. But Sheriff Kroutinger made up his mind that the jail should remain without port holes. Brockway had the saw and said he was proud of it. The sheriff destroyed that pride by prescribing a dark cell and very dry bread and Clearwater sand, mica, diluted in water. Brockway gave up his saw which was in his bunk.

Enterprising Business Men.

In two days in Spokane the fruit fair committee raised the magnificent sum of $13,080 of $25,000 needed for a permanent home for the annual fruit fair. It is this liberality of Spokane's business men that has made that place the city it is. Its business men are never too poor nor too busy to do something to advance the general welfare of the community in which they reside. When all about them is made prosperous they prosper. This is a law of business.

Normal Ball Club at Spokane.

Tomorrow, says the Spokane Chronicle, at the Natatorium grounds the Lewiston Normal baseball team will do battle with the Spokane high school boys. The normal students are said to be good ball tossers and have already defeated the University of Idaho and the Lewiston Athletic club. They will come to Spokane accompanied by many of the students of their institution, who will have one section of the grand stand reserved for them.

The high school team, under Captain Granger, has made a splendid record this year. Out of the four games they have played, three have been victories. Heretofore baseball has been neglected by the school, but this year there has been a decided effort to bring that department up to the football standard, and the trial has been a success.

THE SPOKANE PLAYERS.

Captain Granger, at second base, is the oldest player on the team. He began baseball at the Tekausha high school, which team he captained for two years. In Spokane he first played with the Owls and then played left field for Pullman college.
