The Rice Musical.

Notwithstanding the very inclement weather, both inside and outside the opera house last evening, the violin recital was well attended and was thoroughly appreciated by the audience. Mr. Elmore Rice is an artist with the violin and his recital offers a rare treat to all lovers of good music. The program was given as published and contained gems from Beethoven, Handel, Renard, Godard and Schubert. The selection from Schubert was Remenyi's Serenade which was received with very flattering applause. Mr. Rice was a pupil of Remenyi's one of the very few whom the great artist instructed and there was in the technique and impression given some touches of the master artist. The program will be repeated at the normal auditorium tonight.

Remenyi's Pupil.

Mr. Elmore Rice, the violin artist, who gave the recital last evening at the opera house, was one of the few pupils ever instructed by the master artist, Remenyi. Mr. Rice studied with him while in New York several years ago, and tells many interesting things about his master. Remenyi was a master of technique and a born lover of the violin with the soul and temperament of a great artist. All the proceeds of his concert tours were invested in a collection of violins which were valued at $100,000. His favorite instrument was a Guarnerius, which cost him $7,000, but Mr. Rice saw him a few months before his death, when he was getting a new purchase, a Stradivarius, for which he had just paid $4,500, and which for the time was dividing honors with the old favorite.

The violin used by Mr. Rice is one of the famous Amati instruments. It is over 200 years old and is worth twice its age in coin of the realm. Mr. Rice is a young artist of great promise. He is a San Francisco boy by birth, spent five years in New York studying under the best masters and has been now five years touring the country giving recitals. Next year he will again go to study under the great Belgian violinist, Ovide Musin. He hopes to spend two years in Europe rounding out his musical studies.
