NEWS FROM THE COUNTIES

Wilson county farmers seem to favor Southdown Sheep.

In April dogs visited three farms near Lebanon, Wilson county, killed three lambs and injured about fifty others.

J. C. and H. B. Young, of Giles county, measured one of their crimson clover stalks and found it to be 28 inches high. It had 67 blossoms.

White county has not had enough seed corn to go around this year. The farmers believe in getting seed corn at home, but had to go away for some of it on account of the shortage.

J. H. Stribling, of Lawrence county, put in two pieces of alfalfa, one with and the other without lime. The difference in favor of the limed area is marked. Mr. Stribling is very outspoken in favor of lime for alfalfa.

Tom M. Carter, of Giles county, bought fifty hogs weighing 4,900 pounds, fed them for 35 days on damaged corn while the hogs were running on rye and blue grass, and then weighed them out at 8,900 pounds.

Farmers in Haywood county are finding it unsatisfactory to use too light a team when plowing. Some used but one mule when plowing for corn. They are finding that plowing one and a half to three inches deep is not enough.

Trenton county is showing a tendency to improve the conveniences about the farm. The gasoline engine equipped and attached to emery wheel, washing machine, feed grinder, churn, wood cutter, and well pump is becoming more common.

An implement dealer in Sevier county reports a decrease in the sale of double-shovel cultivators and an increase in the sale of other kinds. This would indicate that the farmers believe in shallow cultivation for that part of the state.

Ed. Maurer, of Franklin county, farms a place of this, barren, white land. Last year he cleared $45 an acre. Twenty years ago his father paid three dollars an acre for the land. The raising of crimson clover and red clover and the application of business principles to all farm operations brought these results.

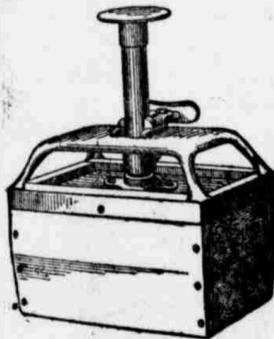

pastures. Fine pastures have brought forth fine sheep. One shipment the last of May brought $10.50 to $11.50 per hundredweight for the lambs, and from $7.50 to $8.25 for the sheep. The pastures have had more than the usual abundant supply of white clover. One visitor made the remark that the white clover on the hills looked like banks of snow.

POOR QUALITY BUTTER LOSES FARMERS MONEY

Some Farmers Have Increased the Amount Received From 15 to 30 Cents a Pound.

(By C. A. Hutton, Division of Extension, University of Tennessee.)

The average price paid for farm butter in Tennessee ranges from 12 cents to 15 cents per pound in summer, and from 15 cents to 20 cents during the winter. At the same time creamery butter sells for 35 cents to 40 cents, and the best dairymen get 30 cents to 35 cents for good dairy butter. The low price received for farm butter is due to one or more of the following reasons: (1) Poor quality; (2) Unattractive packages or lack of uniformity; (3) Good markets are not sought.

Neat and attractive packages make butter sell higher. This one-pound butter printer is inexpensive and produces a compact mass of butter that is easy to wrap, pack, and ship.

Poor quality is one of the greatest reasons for the difference in price between average farm butter and good dairy butter. We have instances of farmers who, by improving the quality of their butter, putting it on the market in neat and attractive packages, and catering to a select trade, have increased the price from 15 cents to 30 cents per pound.

STONE.

A large crowd attended church Sunday.

J. W. Jenkins and Jordan Hunter is spending a few days at Tompkinsville.

R. B. Crowder and little son Burton, made a business trip to Nashville this week.

Mrs. C. C. Shoulders, Kate and Bonnie Shoulders, and Mr. Robert Meadows and wife took dinner with Charley Myers Sunday.

George Hix made a flying trip to Willette Saturday.

Taney Crowder returned from West Point Sunday. Misses Vallie and Bondie Stone entertained a crowd of young folk Saturday night with a social. Bonnie and Lela Stone. Alsie Crowder and Robert Allen and wife took dinner with Emma and Lillie Heady Sunday.

Charlie Allen went to Whitelyville Sunday.

T. F. Crowder went to North Springs Sunday.

The little infant of George Hannah and wife died Monday and was buried Tuesday at the Lock grave yard.

NOTICE—STRAYED COW.

On Saturday November 25th, a large red and white spotted cow, 12 or 15 years old, very poor with a split and half undercrop in the left ear came to my residence on Morrison's creek, in the 9th Civil District of Jackson County, Tennessee. Said cow is now at my house on my premises, and the owner thereof is requested to come and claim her and take her away. I will surrender said cow to the owner upon payment of publication of this notice, and a reasonable compensation for care of same since she has been on my premises.
