McLEMORESVILLE ITEMS

Prof. G. E. Freeman went to Jackson Monday on business.

J. H. Graves and family and Miss Mae Henry McKinney went to Jackson Tuesday.

Miss Bertie Harvey entertained her home economics class Monday evening. Refreshments were served.

J. A. Brown and wife attended Sunday school at Zion Sunday and visited friends in that neighborhood.

Through an oversight last week, the name of Mrs. Rachel Neely was omitted from the list of citizens who are past eighty years of age.

Rev. D. J. Proctor of Dowlstown and formerly pastor of the Methodist church here for four years is visiting his daughter Mrs. Harry O'Neill.

Rev. Jacob Bryant filled his appointments at the Cumberland Presbyterian church Sunday morning and evening. He visited our school Monday morning, conducted the devotions and made a very appropriate and interesting talk to the school.

The Sunday school board of the M. E. Church held an interesting meeting Sunday afternoon at which the following officers were elected: S. E. Carter, Superintendent; H. L. Carter, Assistant Superintendent; J. E. O'Neill, Secretary; J. O. Harvey, Librarian and Treasurer; C. B. Blow, Chorister and Miss Lillian McKinney, Pianist. E. H. Harrell, Mrs. E. H. Harrell and W. L. McKinney were elected teachers of the senior classes, Misses Bertie Harvey and Zetta Gardner were elected teachers of the junior classes, and Misses Norine Bramley and Virgie Hickman were elected teachers of the primary classes. Two vacancies were left to be filled later, a teacher of the young peoples' senior class and the superintendent of the primary department.

Edward Brigham, basso profundo and dramatic reader of New York City, gave a recital Saturday evening at the M. E. church to a very appreciative audience. It was his fifth program at this place and was pronounced by many of his hearers as the best he has ever given here. Mr. Brigham is a performer of rare powers. His voice is flexible and of wonderful range. It is shown in his own production "The Boat Song," with very pleasing effect. He responded several times to encores and delighted his audience with very popular numbers both in song and reading. By special request he gave the "Selfish Giant," one of his fine recitations with music. He has given this number twice, before and it always takes well. Any school is fortunate to secure the services of this artist.
