Covell, Illinois

I am not writing for publicity altogether for I am not so important as that, but I do like to read the nice newsy letters in the Herald.

It is very hot and dry here at this writing. We have had but three slight showers for 40 days.

Children's Day was celebrated at Covell today. A very nice program was rendered.

You B. S. boys of Oilfield, Calif., when you charter a freight car for your excursion back to Tennessee come via Bloomington, Ill. I might take up with you, although we are strangers I suppose we are all Americans regardless of race, color or former servitude.

I left Cookeville, Tenn., last March and have been here ever since.

I have traveled some, but have not learned to hobo yet.
