Rev. Mr. Curry has changed prayer meeting from Wednesday night and will hereafter have services on Friday night.

Out of the twenty-one moonshiners captured by deputy McDougal, and tried at Jackson last week, seventeen were convicted.

We had the pleasure of listening to an able sermon by Rev. S. L. Fain at the M. E. Church last Sunday. It was quarterly meeting.

Miss Minnie McFall returned from Falcon Tuesday. We understand she could not procure a suitable instrument for her music class.

Last Saturday while deputy McDougal was bringing to our jail several prisoners who had received sentences of punishment at the Federal Court, two of them leaped from the wagon and made good their escape.

We had the pleasure of meeting W. A. Stewart of the Lawrence Democrat, this week. He is a general, whole-souled gentleman. He was accompanied by W. J. Buchanan, ex member of the legislature from Lawrence County.

Hardin County furnished subjects for twenty one of the cases tried at Jackson during the last term of the Federal Court. This does not speak as well for the morals of our county as it does for the efficiencies of our deputy Marshall.

A party signing himself Glass, at Medina, Tenn., of fine size, who proposes to serve the Master, wants to correspond with a lady on the subject of matrimony. Now, girls, there is a man who wants to marry. Take him and try him, and when tired of him all you will have to do will be to give him a little kick to break him all up.

At the last meeting of the State Teachers' Association of Tennessee held at Jonesboro, the necessity of a teachers' reading circle was urged by Prof. John L. Lampson, of the State Normal College, Nashville, as one of the many means of improving teachers in professional and general culture. Its necessity and propriety was immediately recognized by the association, and in order to establish reading circles through the State, a State Board of Directors was appointed to act, until the next meeting of the association. This Board has issued circulars to County Superintendents to organize reading circles in each county, and have selected, as the Board for this county, E. D. Patterson, H. P. Wood, C. L. Hefner, B. G. Brazelton and Will J. Watson. A meeting of the Board, for organization, will be held soon, after which, we will publish the aim of this circle and the benefits expected to be derived from it.

A Nutting Party.

On last Saturday morning Mr. David Street and Miss Ida Carrington chaperoned the following party on a nutting expedition to the other side of the river: Misses Mary, Nannie and Inez Street, Hattie Duncan, Sallie Duckworth, Blanche Kendall and Maud Morrow; and Messrs. Will McFall, Don Duncan, John Barnett, John and George Street, Harry Duckworth and our devil. Robt Carrington was hunting on the other side and joined the party a short time after they left the ferry.

By the time they were well in the woods some of them began calling for "dinner," which had been well prepared by the girls before starting, and made up the contents of two well filled baskets.

Dinner was spread on a large log. After it was over came a romp for some and a rest for others, which continued until a start for home was proposed, and all hands were unanimously in its favor. They arrived home about 3:30 o'clock, David Street bringing all the nuts that were gathered home on his shoulder, they being gathered by himself and Miss Carrington.

All we could get from the fore-said attacks of our office was: "I'd like it all over again." Upon the whole it was quite a pleasant affair and we expect to hear of a repetition soon.

CLIPPINGS.

There is injustice and inequality in the punishments inflicted by the federal courts. John Bradley, who brutally murdered Miller without aggravation, got ten years for it at Nashville Saturday. The same court will fine a man $100 and give him a year in jail for selling a dime's worth of wildcat whiskey.

At the opening of the present capitol at Washington in 1818, the old building was leased for business purposes. One of the tenants, Anne Royal, ran two weekly newspapers, the Paul Pry and the Huntress. She was the originator of the present system of newspaper interviewing. An idea of the manner in which such things were regarded may be found from the fact that in 1829 she was indicted as a common scold. She died at the good old age of 92, whether as a result of asking questions or scolding is uncertain.

A divorce of Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris and her husband is said to be a near probability. Their matrimonial life has been unhappy, owing to the wayward conduct of Sartoris. There is a widening estrangement, and Mrs. Nellie wishes to leave him. Sartoris has been neglectful of her, and if she ever gets her three children, they will not be permitted to go back, but as soon as the mourning in the Grant family is over, a suit for divorce will begin. Gen. Grant became disgusted with his son in law five years ago, and the marriage was since then the great regret of his life.

It will be remembered the Presbyterian Synod at Jackson, Tenn., two years ago took measures of severe condemnation of Dr. Woodrow, of Columbia Theological Seminary, for teaching evolution. The same question was at issue in the Long affair and finally resulted in the establishment of that able divine of an independent church at Memphis. The Synod was again in session last week and reconsidered their utterances with reference to Dr. Woodrow, withdrawing all censure of him and simply announcing its dissent from his doctrine. The Synod at Chester, S. C., last Friday and Saturday had the matter up, and Dr. Woodrow appeared in his own defense, meeting his most distinguished accusers. It was a battle of intellectual giants.

Country merchants in need of letter heads, bill heads, posters, circulars or any other kind of printing would do well to give us a trial. We do as good work and at as low prices as can be had in Nashville or any other place.
