A COMPARISON.

If comparisons are odious, surely the condition of N. Dakota and Montana is of the most odious kind at the present time. Read the reports.

BLIZZARD IN THE WEST.

WORST SNOW STORM FOR YEARS IN MONTANA—IN NORTH DAKOTA.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 25.—A blizzard has been raging here all day. The thermometer has dropped from 30 above to 10 below zero.

Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 25.—Two feet of snow on the level and still snowing is the condition that is making men in this section desperate today. With thousands of cattle on the ranges without food or shelter the situation is more critical and heavy losses are expected. There has not been as much snow on the ground before at this season of the year as now.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 25.—The worst snow storm that has visited Montana for years is raging here and has been for the past thirty hours and shows no signs of abatement. Over a foot of snow has fallen, tying up all street car lines in Helena. The storm is general throughout the Northwest and snows so deep that railroad traffic is seriously interfered with. Cold extreme, mercury ranging from 5 to 30 degrees below zero.

We don't have anything of the kind here in the embrace of the grand old Cumberland mountain but warm sun shine, everyone working out of doors and a south wind blowing, and stranger still this condition exists eleven months out of the twelve months in every year and there is no occasion for enforced idleness. We are not advocating any land sale, but it seems strange to us when writing this, how people can stand the hard winters when there is a country like this waiting to receive good, honest, hard-working people where they can live on less than in any portion of the United States. Come on and see for yourselves.

It is all right enough to believe that business confidence is improving, but the actual reality is quite another thing. It is easy for some men to "believe." We "believe," for instance, that we are as rich as Croesus when we have a half dollar in our possession a half a dollar that we do not owe to the next man we may meet.

THE mysterious couple who were digging a mysterious hole in the ground at Bowling Green, Ky., were probably only paying an election bet. Kentucky is liable to do anything.

AN UNKNOWN LAND.

N. T. Thompson, of Johnson, Pa., writing to the Manufacturers' Record on how the South can attract capital, population and manufactures says: "The Sequachee Valley and the Tennessee Valley around Chattanooga, Tenn., are almost terra incognita to travelers and investors, and yet for salubrity of climate, fertility of soil and richness of forest and minerals, they would be difficult to match anywhere."

What has the great Sequachee Valley done to be called this hard name? In the face of persistent advertising it is terra incognita. Either its resources are boundless or the advertising has been of no value. However, the SEQUACHEE VALLEY NEWS, with its circulation in sixteen States, is doing all it can to remedy that defect.

If there is fraud in this State in the matter of elections, and if both sides claim the other guilty, what's the use of investigating. Settle the matter by devoting the time which is spent in quarreling over the election to the consideration of how to amend those laws which give an opportunity for fraud.

GRAPE ENEMIES.

HAWK MOTHS AND CUT WORMS.

The larvae of upward of 50 moths feed on the foliage of the grape. Many of these are rare, yet many others are occasionally destructive. Aside from the leaf-folder already discussed, perhaps the leaf feeding caterpillars oftenest the cause of important damage are the large-green or brownish, usually horned, sphingid larvae and certain cut-worms.

The larvae of some ten species of hawk moths or sphingids occur on the grape, and nearly all are widely distributed. The one most frequently met with is the Achemon sphinx. The sphinx larvae strip a branch of a time completely, and are therefore, easily noted. They are not very often abundant and the injury is not very great, except in the case of young vines, which may be entirely stripped and killed by a single larva. Hard picking is ordinarily the simplest and most satisfactory remedy.

The climbing cut worms have at times proved very destructive to the buds and foliage of vines, and in northern New York, and particularly in the raisin district of Fresno County, Cal., as much damage has been done by them as by any other insect enemy.

On the several species which in different localities have been troublesome, the worst record may be assigned to the dark-sided cut worm and the variegated cutworm both occurring through the United States, and the ones chiefly noted in California. Cutworms remain concealed in the ground during the day and climb up and strip the vines at night. They may be easily destroyed by the use of a poisoned bait of bran, arsenic (or paris green), and water, preferably sweetened with a little sugar. It should be distributed about the base of each vine in the form of a mash, a handful or so in a place.—Agricultural Department.

A Flag of Warning.

Beware of the dry, tickling, hacking, morning cough, for it warns you that consumption lurks near. The famous Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will cure it. "I had a very bad cough. One doctor pronounced it consumption. I used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and was completely cured; the cough left me and has never come back. Simon Smasal, 375 31st Street, Chicago, Ill." Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup costs but 25 cents. Ask for Bull's, take only Bull's.
