

LOCAL.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Sherman were in Chattanooga Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. N. Ellis were in South Pittsburg Monday.

Geo. Coldwell, Sequachee, orders the News for six months.

Miss Eula Chadwick, of Whitwell, was here Friday, returning from a visit to So. Pittsburg.

Miss Blanche Layne, Delphi, Tenn., will read the News six months ordered sent her by Dan Layne.

Four U. S. Mail trucks passed thru here Wednesday at 10 o'clock, en route from Chattanooga to Nashville.

Mrs. L. P. Brewer and children returned to Jasper Monday after a visit here of a week with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Thomas.

C. M. Layne, formerly of Whitwell, writes to have his paper changed to care Div. C. General Office, Washington, D. C.

Robt. Carleton of Dunlap, was here Friday, making arrangements to move to this place, work having gone dead at Dunlap.

John Ritchie, of Arkansas, was here Monday and paid the News a call. He is looking for a small place in this section so as to locate here.

Mrs. Martha Rainey, Flat Rock, Ala., is determined to keep the News coming her way, and although her subscription is not out until April, sends $1.00 in renewal.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Marlin left Tuesday morning for Huntsville, Ala., to visit their daughter, Mrs. Sam Fisk. Mr. Marlin is very much crippled but on starting out seemed to be standing the inconveniences of travel very well. They will be gone something over two weeks.

Robt. Clepper, manager for Denham & Arendale Co., South Pittsburg, was here yesterday distributing advertising for the Big Sale now in progress down there. Denham & Arendale are making a big pull for business, advertising liberally, and are reaping a golden harvest.

E. B. Alder, Route 2, Whitwell, Tenn., was here Thursday en route to Jasper to attend court. He ordered the News sent to him six months, and ordered the insertion of an advertisement for his wife regarding Red Bourbon Turkeys, which have the reputation of making their nests somewhere near home instead of in an adjoining county.

Lacy Condra, of Whitwell, was here Monday morning between trains. He was a famous base ball player in the palmy days when young men had energy and nerve enough to play ball. See his advertisement regarding fancy hog stock in this issue. He ordered the News sent him one year. By the way Lacy was in the box for Sequachee in a memorable game about 15 years ago when Jasper with the mighty Alexander in the box and crafty Tatum on the coach line, went down in defeat.

Monster Devil Fish.

The announcement is made that a monster devil fish weighing 1,700 pounds, and measuring 12 feet from tip to tip, has been captured three miles out from Deer Island, near Biloxi, Miss., by local fishermen, who brought the fish to Biloxi and placed it on exhibition. The fish, a species which is seldom seen so close to shore, was caught in a trawl net by Pat Moran, and it took three power boats to haul the fish into port. It had a mouth measuring four feet across, and in order to pass a rope through it, fishermen had to use an immense car. When one vessel attempted to bring the fish ashore it played with the boat as with a toy, and two other power boats came to its assistance. Many people viewed the monster.

Blank Check in Bird's Nest.

A bird's nest that had fallen from a tree in a park near Baltimore, Md., after it had weathered many a hard wind, has just been placed in the North Carolina hall of history in Raleigh alongside war relics and other things because the bird used local building material in the form of a blank check of a Raleigh bank, in making its home safe and snug. The distance between Raleigh and Baltimore is about 325 miles by rail, but it is much shorter as the crow flies. Ornithologists say the nest is either that of a robin or a thrush.

Flat Rock, Ala.

Special to the News.

Cold, snowy weather is the order of the day. We had some nice spring weather for the last two weeks until today.

I have lived on old Sand Mt. most all my life. I came here from Tennessee when I was nine years old. I have a lot of relatives in old Tennessee, that I would like to see.

I was very sorry to read the death of Uncle W. B. Rogers' daughter. I can sympathize with him. I had to give up my oldest child four years ago.

It was very kind of my brother to send me the News. How glad I would be to see him. He came to see me twelve years ago this past Xmas. I enjoy reading the News. I get so much news from around my old birthplace. I expect most of you writers knew my grandfather, Steven Rogers. I would like to see a letter in the News from each of my uncles.

"Sunshine", what has become of you? Come again. You write so much about my kinfolks, I would give a nickel to know who you are. I wish you would sign your real name next time you write. I am glad to hear of so many soldier boys returning home to their parents. I have some cousins in France that I hope will return home soon to their parents who I know will rejoice to see them home again. I see the names of many people in the News that I knew when I was a child.

W. H. Gott Dies At Inman

W. H. Gott died at his home near Oak Grove this week. He was about 79 years old. He leaves several sons and daughters to mourn his death.

Mr. Gott was a prominent citizen of the county, at one time being a member of the county court. He had a fine home place near Oak Grove, and was one of the most influential and highly respected gentlemen of the county. Interment took place at the Oak Grove cemetery. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity of the county, having membership in its earliest organized lodge.

A FAMILY MEDICINE

In Her Mother's Home, Says This Georgia Lady, Regarding Black-Draught, Relief From Head-ache, Malaria, Chills, Etc.

Ringgold, Ga.—Mrs. Chas. Gaston, of this place, writes: "I am a user of Theford's Black-Draught; in fact, it was one of our family medicines. Also in my mother's home, when I was a child. When any of us children complained of headache, usually caused by constipation, she gave us a dose of Black-Draught, which would rectify the trouble. Often in the Spring, we would have malaria and chills, or troubles of this kind, we would take Black-Draught pretty regular until the liver acted well, and we would soon be up and around again. We would not be without it, for it certainly has saved us lots of doctor bills. Just a dose of Black-Draught when not so well saves a lot of days in bed."

Theford's Black-Draught has been in use for many years in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles, and the popularity which it now enjoys is proof of its merit. If your liver is not doing its duty, you will suffer from such disagreeable symptoms as headache, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc., and unless something is done, serious trouble may result.

Theford's Black-Draught has been found a valuable remedy for these troubles. It is purely vegetable, and acts in a prompt and natural way, regulating the liver to its proper functions and cleansing the bowels of impurities. Try it. Insist on Theford's original and genuine. E 79

GETTING EGGS ALL THE TIME

Results of This Year's Experience in Tennessee Poultry Yards Worth Noting

EARLY HATCHED CHICKS PAY

For the Keeper of a Few Hens These Remarks Are Peculiarly Timely; and on the Farm They Are Being Applied All the Time.

(By R. N. Crane, Division of Extension, University of Tennessee.)

Hens seldom lay eggs before very late winter or early spring. The fowls that lay during the fall months and the early winter months are the early hatched pullets. By early hatched is meant pullets hatched in February, March, and the first two weeks of April.

After one has matured pullets, bear in mind that in order to get eggs water is most essential. More than three-fourths of the composition of the fowls' body and also of the egg is composed of water. See that protein is supplied in the feed. The protein of the feed is changed by the fowls to albumen or white of the eggs. See that the feeds have a liberal supply of fats and carbohydrates, as these constitute very largely the yolk of the eggs.

Table and garden waste contains a considerable amount of both of these ingredients. In addition, feed at least the protein feed in a more concentrated form and in greater quantities. This can best be fed in the form of meat scraps or fresh ground bone which can be obtained in the market house at 3 cents a pound. One ounce of these green cut bones to each fowl three or four times a week is quite sufficient; and a greater quantity is liable to disarrange the system of the fowls and to cause trouble.

In supplying meat scraps, fowls will not eat so much, and the same care in the feeding is not necessary. Meat scraps should be fed in connection with a dry mash.

Five pounds of meat scraps to 10 pounds of corn meal and 10 pounds of wheat bran is about right. This should be thoroughly mixed together for the dry mash. Keep the dry mash in a trough so constructed that the fowls can not waste it, or in a dry mash hopper, left open to the fowls at all times.

The garden and kitchen waste can best be utilized by being mixed, and thoroughly cooked before feeding. This should be mixed with a sufficient quantity of dry mash to form a crumbly but not sloppy mixture, and given to the fowls about noon.

All the grain the fowls will eat up clean should be fed about five o'clock in the afternoon in a litter of straw, leaves, or planer shavings, which should cover the poultry house floor. A handful of grain to each ten hens should be thrown in the litter after the fowls have gone to roost to give them exercise on leaving the perches early in the morning.

The scratch grains fed in the litter may consist of any good commercial scratch feed for sale on the market or may consist of one-part cracked corn, one-part good heavy white oats, and one-part wheat screenings.

Ten hens properly taken care of will supply ample eggs for table purposes for the average family of four.

Grit, oyster shell, and granulated charcoal should be kept in separate dishes, so that the fowls can always have free access to them. The grit serves as teeth in masticating the feed; the oyster shell furnishes the calcium carbonate to enclose the edible egg; the charcoal is to keep the fowls in condition. Lettuce leaves, celery tops, cabbage, turnips, and other succulent vegetables also tend to keep the fowls in good health and to stimulate egg production.

FARM FACTS Worth Remembering

Hogs? In Tennessee there are 1,965,000, as compared with 1,634,000 a year ago.

The Nashville livestock markets are urging the selling of hogs only after they weigh 200 pounds.

A Colorado livestock producer lost $300 by overcrowding a car of cattle going to market. Seven animals died en route.

Missouri thinks that yellow corn produces eggs with yellower yolks, such as the markets demand, and gives the legs of the chickens more color.

In Edgar County, Illinois, livestock has assumed enough importance to justify the building of a pavilion for livestock sales.

In Tennessee, 48,170 farmers are following the demonstration methods in the growing of corn as given by county agents.

Also 2,494 Tennessee farmers who never grew wheat before planted some in 1918.

There were 23,518 acres planted to soy beans in Tennessee in counties having county agents.

Crisp, Texas.

Special to the News.

Mr. Editor and friends, I will write a few lines from Crisp.

We had another big rain yesterday and last night. We had a week of pretty weather, the first in three months. I got my oats sown, just got thru when the rain came.

Farmers are behind with their farming. If it don't stop raining we will have to just streak our land off, and plant it, and it isn't long till planting time and no land prepared. I have been down with the rheumatism all winter and not able to work. I have to hire my work done, but I don't mind that like I do the rheumatism, for it is bad company.

Was glad to see T. S. Bracken's letter last week. Come on, Tom, I love to read your letters. I used the same recipe for keeping meat as he does.

From the talk I think we will have pike roads from our little town to Palmer, Texas, and to Ferris, Texas, and maybe to Ennis, Texas. We sure need them. The roads have been almost impassible.

I was sorry to read of the death of Mrs. Millard Hinch. Ethel was a first cousin of mine. Will close and leave room for better writers. D. M. Dame.
