Why Suffer? Mrs. J. A. Cox, of Alderson, W. Va., writes: "My daughter...suffered terribly. She could not turn in bed...the doctors gave her up, and we brought her home to die. She had suffered so much at...time. Having heard of Cardui, we got it for her."

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic "In a few days, she began to improve," Mrs. Cox continues, "and had no trouble at... Cardui cured her, and we sing its praises everywhere."

Paris, Texas.

Special to the News. We are having so much rain that everyone has on their mind the deplorable condition of the farmers.

There are many fields now covered with water that has backed out of creeks and rivers. Many acres will be a total loss; others are covered with mud so they can't get in to get the corn or cotton.

There will not be an average of more than one-eighth of a normal crop made and saved. It leaves Texas in a bad condition, but there is someone always ready to raise a howl on any question.

This old world is getting into such an uproar over wages, high prices and profits that we hardly know what we are to meet. There is one class trying to get universal peace and another trying to demonstrate that universal peace is just a dream and not practical.

Another element wants to make a tree-for-all grab policy. When it is all stewed down we will find they are all out for the same thing, some in a more intelligent way. It is selfishness.

Every nation, every party or individual wants wealth, power and social popularity, regardless of who it hurts, or whose rights are trampled under foot, just so they can become a great leader and a great power.

Public Citation of Bravery of Milo Lemert

Crossville, Oct. 25.—The first public citation for bravery was at Crossville Sunday when Mrs. Nellie Lemert, wife of Milo Lemert, who was slain in battle in France on Sept. 29, 1918, was publicly honored at Crossville, with a medal from the War Department giving in brief terms the circumstances under which the brave soldier met his death.

The exercises were held in the Christian church of Crossville, which was beautifully decorated with the National Colors and flowers. The church service flag with 36 names upon it, including the gold star in honor of Sgt. Lemert, was also displayed, as well as the county honor flag with the names of the 26 who died in battle.

Accompanying is the following citation: "Milo Lemert (serial No. 1315827), first sergeant, Co. G., 119th Infantry. For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy near Bellcourt, France, Sept. 29, 1918. Seeing that the left flank of the company was held up, he located the enemy machine-gun emplacement which had been causing heavy casualties. In the face of heavy fire he rushed single-handed, killing the entire crew with grenades. Continuing along the enemy trench in advance of the company, he reached another emplacement, which he also charged silencing the gun with grenades. A third machine gun emplacement opened upon him from the left, and with similar skill and bravery he destroyed this one, also. Later, in company with another sergeant, he attacked a fourth machine gun nest, being killed as he reached the parapet of the emplacement. His courageous action in destroying in turn four enemy machine gun nests prevented many casualties among his company and very materially aided in achieving the objective."

Judge G. P. Burnett made the principal address on the occasion and in speaking of Lemert, after the battle had raged from 5:50 a. m. to about 9:50 a. m. and the Boches had not been dislodged from their machine-gun nests, said:

"At this point Sgt. Lemert, seeing that someone's life must be sacrificed, called to his men, 'Come on, boys, let's get them, come on,' and rushed to one of these death-dealing pits, and while in the act of firing was seen by one of his comrades to place his hand upon his side and look toward his men as if to say: 'I am done, finish the job.' Thus ended the earthly career of a noble son, a loving husband and a brave soldier."

The exercises were held in the Christian church of Crossville, which was beautifully decorated with the National Colors and flowers. The church service flag with 36 names upon it, including the gold star in honor of Sgt. Lemert, was also displayed, as well as the county honor flag with the names of the 26 who died in battle.
