PLOTS THAT NEVER EXISTED

Judge George W. Anderson, a U. S. district attorney, made an assertion last week which has held the minds of a lot of loyal Americans, for a long, long time. In a press dispatch he is made to speak as follows:

Boston, Jan. 13.—Judge George W. Anderson, of the United States district court, told the Harvard Liberal club last night that in his opinion "more than 99 per cent. of the pro-German plots never existed," and he doubted "whether the red menace has more basis in fact than the pro-German peril."

"There are reds, probably dangerous reds," said Judge Anderson. "But they are not half as dangerous as the Prating Pseudo-patriots who, under the guise of Americanism are preaching murder and shooting at sunrise, and to whom our church parlors and other public forums have hitherto been open."

"Many, perhaps most of the agitators for the suppression of the so-called red menace, I observe, are the same individuals or class of forces that in 1917 and 1916 were frightening the community to death about pro-German plots. As United States attorney I was charged with a large responsibility to protecting the community from pro-German plots. I assert as my best judgment that more than 99 per cent. of the pro-German plots never existed."

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States court, in a letter sent the meeting said: "I see no impropriety in suggesting that with effervescing opinion as with the not yet forgotten champagne, the quickest way to let them get flat is to be exposed to the air."

His expression "prating pseudo patriots" is a remarkable one. We also got that idea that patriotism had run rampant where it was least to be expected, and Judge Anderson seems to have crystallized the feeling into "prating pseudo-patriots."

Another idea! All during the war the News never received a line of pro-German propaganda, and has yet to see what it looks like, and we believe the Judge is correct in saying "that more than 99 per cent. of the pro-German plots never existed."

The question of a league of nations might well be left to American people by popular vote, so Senator Shields thinks. We are of the opinion, if such were done, that they would tell them pretty unmistakably their verdict. At any rate it's coming in November, treaty or no treaty.

The News has little sympathy for the Reds who were deported, but think it has accomplished very little good. While that bunch has been shipped out, probably twice as many Reds in embryo, have slipped in.

A gentleman discontinued his subscription to the News this week and then invited us to move to his town as a better location. We declined as the ratio would be adverse, and if all the inhabitants did that we would starve out sure enough.

Having paid the state tax of $11.75 on the "little ol' Ford," the question is where in Sam Hill is the extra $11.75 charged by Mr. Cameron for the privilege of using the macadamized roads of Marion coming from.

The welfare of the American nation concerns the News more closely than the success of any party. If we have to wreck our country to save a party, let us rather invert the process—wreck the party and save the country.

One thing noticeable at the colored convention was the absence of exhortation. The colored people attending behaved like gentlemen.

Paris, Texas

I will try to get up a few words for the News. I don't like to let the opportunity pass without saying a few words just to let the readers know that Texas is still on the map.

Last year was the hardest on farmers of any since I have been in Texas. I have seen many years that they raised much less and years they got less for what they raised, but this last crop was almost lost in many places. There was much of it lost on account of so much rain. Farmers are now preparing for the next crop just as cheerfully as if they had made and saved big crops. There is no use trying to discourage them. There are many who did not save enough to pay their debts, but the banks and merchants did not close their account against them. They are willing to extend them credit through another season. There are many that are able to run without assistance. Texas is the best place I ever saw for a poor man to get help if he is worthy. If they try a man and he proves to be not worthy he might as well move, he cannot get help from anyone, then.

Things are warming up politically here now. About November next there will be a shaking up of dry bones and others. We have a good crop of candidates for governor, trying to make the people believe that no one can save the state but them. I feel like a noted editor who lived in Jasper many years ago. He would say, "Turn the rascals out." I don't believe in taking a man by what he says in regard to himself. Try him out and see. If he fails to make good, chuck him in the pile that is labeled "Tried and found wanting."

When men in control believe in making and upholding laws that compel people to do as they think, and by so doing make it impossible for a man to feed, and clothe his family, it is not just. Take it as it is now, you can't get a nice pair of shoes for less than $12 or $15. You have to pay such prices for what you are obliged to have that you are compelled to have more for what you do. Let a man get enough to live on, then the manufacturer wants to double the raise granted the labor. It is an endless chain, has no end. I don't think relief will ever come by high prices. It is all right for the man who has a job all the time, but it makes it hard on the day laborer. He has to pay just as high for things as if he had work every day. Maybe it will be adjusted sometime. I hope so, anyway.

I will ring off. I am all wrong. It seems I am on the kicking list all the "me." Lone Star.

HAD EVENTFUL TRIP OVER CUMBERLAND

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Goodrow, of Louisville, Ky., who jestingly said they possess a name only slightly removed from good roads, arrived here Tuesday after a most arduous trip over Cumberland mountain, having performed a feat accomplished by few motorists. It took them three days to cross the mountain and they had to build their road as they came. Three times they came to places where it looked impossible to get thru or over, and had discussed turning back, but persevered in their undertaking and went on. When about three miles from here their gasoline supply was exhausted, and the son of Mr. Goodrow, who was his motorist, walked to this place to get some, as well as provisions for the party who remained on the mountain that night camping, as it was dangerous to attempt to descend the mountain in the night. They used double sets of chains on rear wheels, broke three springs and for a wonder did not tear up the rest of the machine in surmounting some of the obstacles. Mr. Goodrow, Jr., is an automobile mechanic himself of six years experience, and the repairs were made on road. Mrs. Goodrow and her daughter wore their gloves into shreds helping to carry rocks, poles, brush—anything to fill a mud-hole.

They assisted two cars out of mudholes, pulling them out, their machine having fine power. At one terrible place they were told that the fee, if they got stuck, was $4 to pull them with a team one rod, but they made a dash and went thru it without stop.

They were on their way to visit a married daughter in Chattanooga, leaving Louisville Jan. 10. They came via the old Nashville-Chattanooga route over Cumberland because the Dixie Highway route thru Battle Creek is impassible.

Harry Coppinger looked sad Sunday. Wonder why?

Arthur Bowlen looked cute Sunday. Guess he was happy.

Mell Coppinger has left off rambling and settled at home for a rest.

Wonder if Miss Jane Coldwell has left the Cove for good as we have not seen her in a long time.

Mrs. Nancy Dixon made Mrs. Martha Higgins a neighborly call Monday.

Mrs. Huly Kilgore spent Monday with her aunt, Mrs. Geo. Higgins.

If you want to see Miss Hester Cox smile name Tatum Kilgore.

If you want to see Abbie Higgins and Hester Cox cry ask them when they are going to Whitwell again.

Come on "Honeysuckle," where have you been so long.

Furtherest Off Paid Bet On Weight of Ford

Mr. and Mrs. Byron L. Graham were here Tuesday evening, in their latest acquisition in a car, a Ford Runabout. Mrs. Graham had the News sent one year to her mother, Mrs. Julia Ashburn, Davy, W. Va. She is a teacher in the Sam Houston Academy, the public school at Jasper. In speaking of their car, Mr. Graham said guesses were made as to its weight, the loser to pay for weighing. K. D. Curtis guessed 1100, another 1200, and Mr. Graham 1350. The car weighs 1300, and Mr. Curtis as being the furtherest off paid the weighing fee.

MAY RAISE INSURANCE RATES

South Pittsburg, Jan. 19.—The Tennessee Fire Inspection Bureau has notified the city of South Pittsburg that unless better fire protection is furnished the insurance rates will be raised 25 per cent. The present rate is 4 1/2 per cent., and protection is furnished the city by the Tennessee Water Co., under a franchise.

Under a contract a pressure of 80 pounds per square inch was to be maintained at all times in the mains, but of late the water company has allowed it to go as low as 30 pounds. A committee consisting of J. C. Kelly, A. S. Kelly and W. M. Cameron was recently named to take up the matter with the water company and a better pressure is promised. S. F. Quackenboss, manager of the Protective Bureau of Nashville, has recommended the installation of a 400,000 gallon tank near the ice plant, so elevated as to afford 85 pounds static pressure anywhere in the mercantile district, and a 500-gallon electrically-driven centrifugal pump near the same connected with a deep well. He further advises the establishment of a better fire alarm system, if the city is to retain its present low rate.

H. H. Curtis, 1404 Cherry St., Havin, Ill., sends 50c for three months of the News, for which he has our thanks.

HANDS, ARMS, LIMBS ASLEEP

And Was Run-Down, Weak and Nervous, Says Florida Lady. Five Bottles of Cardui Made Her Well.

Kathleen, Fla.—Mrs. Dallas Prince, of this place, says: "After the birth of my last child, I got very much run-down and weakened, so much that I could hardly do anything at all. I was so awfully nervous that I could scarcely endure the least noise. My condition was getting worse all the time. I knew I must have some relief or I would soon be in the bed and in a serious condition for I felt so badly and was so nervous and weak I could hardly live. My husband asked Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. He said, 'It's a good medicine, and good for that trouble,' so he got me 5 bottles. After about the second bottle I felt greatly improved. Before taking it my limbs and hands and arms would go to sleep. After taking it, however, this poor circulation disappeared. My strength came back to me and I was soon on the road to health. After the use of about 5 bottles, I could do all my house-work and attend to my six children besides."

You can feel safe in giving Cardui a thorough trial for your troubles. It contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs, but is composed of mild, vegetable, medicinal ingredients with no bad after-effects. Thousands of women have voluntarily written, telling of the good Cardui has done them. It should help you, too. Try it.
