

What Is Circulation?

When you place an advertisement in a newspaper with a circulation of an unknown quantity, it is like going to a poor show—your money is gone and no satisfaction derived. The Leader points with pride to its already large and increasing growth of circulation and its circulation books are open to advertisers.

THE COVINGTON LEADER.

VOL. XXXI. NO. 22.

COVINGTON, TENNESSEE. THURSDAY, MARCH 8, 1917.

THE OLD NORTH STATE

Col. W. A. Owen Tells Representative of the Leader What a Tipton County Man Sees Passing Through North Carolina.

There are a great many people in Tipton county who are directly interested in the state of North Carolina by ties of blood. I thought it well that some of the readers of your paper might be interested in a review of a week's visit to the Old North State. North Carolina and Tennessee are so closely allied in manners and customs, history and people, that they are practically one from the Atlantic ocean across the Blue Ridge and Cumberland mountains to the waters of the Mississippi. Tennessee is but a branch from the Carolina tree. The greatest factor now in the upbuilding in the state of North Carolina is the Southern railroad. This great system of railroads lost millions of dollars during the floods of last spring in that state, but good is coming out of the loss that the railroad suffered. It was decided to double its tracks from Charlotte to Atlanta, a distance of about 375 miles, and today this road is being strengthened, graded, and millions of dollars being spent in the reconstruction of this branch of the road; thousands of men and teams are now employed in this work.

North Carolina is not unlike Tennessee in having several metropolitan cities, but it has a great number of cities from 20 to 40 thousand inhabitants. All of these towns and cities will admit that Charlotte is the largest city, but when you try to find out which is the second city in size you have a problem that is hard to solve, and no admissions are made, but many claims are made for this honor. Winston-Salem, Salisbury, Wilmington, Raleigh and Asheville all claim to be second in size. Possibly others make the same claim.

North Carolinians claim to be the first to repudiate the celebrated stamp tax, prior to the Revolutionary war, and were the first to assert their independence against King George and place one of his tax collectors in durance vile.

I will simply mention some of the cities I visited, and every city through its citizens extended to me the kindest and most generous hospitality. The people there did not seem to be too busy to greet the stranger with a smile of welcome, and at his departure express his desire to see the stranger again.

Salisbury

The county seat of Rowan county, Rowan county was established in 1753 and extended as far west as the Mississippi river taking in all of the western part of North Carolina and Tennessee and any territory that the United States owned extending to the southern and western seas; so we have at one time been a part of Rowan county.

Salisbury is an old town in years but new in progress, push and prosperity. It was named for a small town about 70 miles from London, and its first inhabitants were a general mixture of Scotch-Irish and Dutch, who either immigrated from the old country, trying to throw off the yoke of oppression, or had lived for some years in Pennsylvania and Virginia and had pushed further toward the west. From this town you are shown the spot where Daniel Boone loaded his wagon and made his start toward the great hunting grounds of Kentucky. You are also shown the spot where Andrew Jackson studied law, and Andrew, after being admitted to the bar, was not pleased with the small circuit that covered several counties, there being too many lawyers, that he said to the judge on the bench that he thought there were entirely too many lawyers in Salisbury, and old Judge McCoy spoke and said: "Andy I notice that the lawyers are getting a 'leetle' thick around the court house and I would advise you to move to the 'tuther' end of the county", and Andy moved to Jonesboro, Tenn., which was considered the other end of the county, and later to Nashville. George Washington while president of the United States was a visitor to Salisbury.

The shops of the Southern railroad are located in the suburbs of Salisbury, being called Spencer in honor of a former president and master builder of that railroad system. The pay roll of the Southern railroad at these shops amounts to something more than $100,000 per month. The 20th of the month is pay day and that happened to be the day that the writer was in Salisbury, and he noticed that all the stores kept open until 11:30 p. m. to accommodate the working men who received their pay on the 20th, and also to participate in the money that was being spent by the thousands of employees of the Southern railroad. Salisbury has just finished a new courthouse that is modern in every respect and the citizens acted wisely in not demolishing the old courthouse, but turned it into a community building and a public library, the upper story is used as an auditorium for public gatherings, and the offices down stairs have been fitted up as rest rooms, play rooms for the children, public library and committee rooms. Salisbury has a number of fine schools, but one with the greatest future in my judgment is the school conducted by the Presbyterian denomination, headed by Dr. Byron Clark, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Salisbury. This school is training young girls in the arts and sciences, crafts and domestic science, and has about 300 enrolled. Many of them are taken from the very poorest homes, and girls have been secured from the very plow handles and aided by the work of this school to become educated and taught the practical things of life, knowledge has been imparted to them that will make them useful wives and mothers. A number of great teachers from various colleges have resigned their positions, have given up higher salaries and made a noble sacrifice to come and teach in this school, just being compensated enough for their daily living. Such sacrifice equals the Christians who carry the gospel to foreign lands. No nobler sacrifice could be made than that of giving life to the poor of the land. It is said that the average cost to a girl entering this school for boarding, tuition and books for a term of 9 months is $90.00. Salisbury is a town of morality, and I notice that in addition to its great financial wealth it is backed by churches and schools—two valuable assets.

In the burying grounds of this city lies the body of Young Livingstone, the son of David Livingstone, the great English explorer. Among her living prominent citizens is Judge Kluttus who served in congress with our Carmack and Patterson and the man who won distinction in 1896 at the Democratic national convention in Chicago when he placed the name of Wm. J. Bryan before that convention. (To be continued.)

ENDORSE JUDGE M'KINNEY

We publish below a signed endorsement of the Covington bar of the candidacy of Judge McKinney:

"To the Hon. Colin P. McKinney: We, the undersigned members of the Bar of Covington, do heartily endorse your candidacy for the position of Supreme Judge, and promise you our undivided support.

"March 6, 1917."

The following names are signed to the endorsement:

Chas. B. McClelland, Sherrod Smith, Nat Tipton, Jno. A. Tipton, Wm. C. Tipton, W. A. Owen, R. B. Baptist, Walter V. Bringle, W. M. Simonton, R. H. Green, R. W. Sanford, S. E. Stephenson, D. W. Ruffin, L. E. Gwinn, T. O. Bond, Jr., and William Sanford.

TONIGHT AND TOMORROW AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH

A flying squadron, composed of Rev. W. W. Pinson, D. D., general secretary of the Board of Missions of the Southern Methodist church, Rev. E. H. Rawlings, D. D., field secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the church, and Mr. Jno. R. Pepper, president of the General Board of Missions, as well as one of the leading business men of Memphis, will be at the First Methodist church tonight and tomorrow. These men have touched the mission fields of the Methodist church more than once and certainly speak with authority.

The services announced are for 7:30 this evening, 10:30 Friday morning, and then at 3 in the afternoon there will be a rally of all the women of the church in the ladies' parlor, when these men will all make short addresses.

The public is invited to hear these strong men. It is not often that such strong men visit the local congregation and doubtless they will be heard by large congregations. They are making a fifteen-day trip in the conference, spending one day and night at fifteen of the leading churches.

This flying squadron is out in the interest of world evangelism. No collection will be taken while they are here. Let all the people attend, and I especially urge the members of my congregation to attend.

ROBT. A. CLARK, Pastor.

DISCOVERY OF AMERICA COST $7,000, DATA SHOW

Genoa.—The discovery of America cost a little more than $7,000; at least so say some documents that have just been found in the archives of Genoa.

These documents give the value of Columbus' fleet as $3,000. The great admiral was paid a salary of $300 a year. The two captains who accompanied him received a salary of $200 each, and the members of the crews were paid at the rate of $2.50 a month.

Miss Inez Nevils assisted in the demonstration. As a result, 89 sacks of flour were sold and a very satisfactory amount of coffee. Both the cakes and coffee were delicious and the demonstration attracted a large crowd.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The students and faculty of the Byars-Hall high school met in a mass meeting, Tuesday, at the general exercises, for the purpose of holding memorial services in honor of Miss Moore, whose sudden death last week has been such a loss and caused such a shock to the school and town in general. Mr. Duggan presided over the meeting and gave a very appropriate talk upon the life of the deceased. He referred to Miss Moore as one of the most highly educated young women that he had ever known and said that had she lived she would have made quite a mark as a teacher. He also referred to an article that appeared in the Nashville Banner, written by a Chattanooga correspondent, who said that Miss Moore was one of the most highly educated young women in that city.

No member of the faculty or school has been more intimately associated with Miss Moore during her stay here than Miss Drane. She told of what this association had meant to her and of the influence for the higher and better things of life that had been stimulated by this association.

Mr. Woodson's talk was along the lines of influence and what it means in our lives. He referred to the sudden shock that had been caused by the mysterious act of Providence in taking away the life of one who was so well equipped for useful service to humanity. He said that he thought that this sudden death had caused the most serious reflection on the part of the student body and that, henceforth, they would be more inclined to look more seriously at the higher and holier things of life, since none of us know how long it may be spared to us.

The meeting was closed with a prayer by Chesley Bowden, a member of the student body. Mr. Woodson appointed a committee of five students to draft resolutions of respect and have them published in both local papers this week.

LOCAL CONFEDERATE VETS. WOULD FOLLOW THE FLAG

A friend of ours informs us that there are now living in Covington 23 veterans of the Confederacy whose combined ages are 1,737 years. Their average, he says, is 75 years and 7 months. Their names are as follows: S. R. Shelton; A. J. Hanna, W. O. Menefee, J. Hy Smith, L. P. Reeves, W. H. Feezor, Dr. J. R. Sanford, W. C. Hanna, Townes Boyd, Dr. G. B. Gillespie, W. G. Cockrill, Wm. Sanford, B. C. McKee, G. B. Sale, J. R. Fallin, C. D. Beasley, M. A. Misenheimer, Leroy Roberts, Rome Payne, J. B. Pullen, W. E. Hall, A. H. Elam and Y. B. Turner.

The oldest of these veterans is Esq. S. R. Shelton, aged 90 years. Three are 80 years and past and 71 is the age of the youngest, four of them being that age.

All of the 23 veterans named above, with the exception of the six pensioners on the list, have expressed a willingness to answer President Wilson's call any time, in case of a war with Germany, and line up under "Old Glory" with the same spirit that they followed the "Stars and Bars" in the sixties.

ELKS ELECT OFFICERS

At the meeting of Covington Lodge, No. 1205, B. P. O. E., held on Thursday night, March 1, officers to serve for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Exalted ruler, B. G. Buford; esteemed leading knight, T. O. Bond, Jr.; esteemed loyal knight, Jas. R. Gill; esteemed lecturing knight, Claud Simonton; secretary, G. B. Calhoun; treasurer, Peter Eyfe; Tyler, J. E. Walker; three-year trustee, C. O. McGee; representative to Grand Lodge, L. E. Gwinn; alternate, L. O. Baltzer.

The new Exalted Ruler will fill the other appointive offices later and the above named new officers will be inducted into office by installation ceremonies on the first Thursday night in April.

QUARTERLY STAFF MEETING

The first quarterly staff meeting of the section foremen of the South Fulton district of the Illinois Central railroad and their assistants was held in the office of Supervisor J. M. Jackson in this city on Wednesday, February 28.

There were 22 regular foremen and five assistants present, together with Roadmaster S. J. Holt. Personal injury and stock claims, maintenance of right of way, and other subjects of vital importance to section foremen were discussed.

These meetings are always interesting. Views are exchanged and suggestions made that are naturally helpful to all and the meetings are proving of great mutual benefit to all concerned.

GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL

All the people of Tennessee should be in the Sunday schools of Tennessee on Easter Sunday, April 8, 1917. You owe it to yourself and your state to attend Sunday school on April 8. If you find there any good for yourself, or any opportunity to do good for another, become a permanent member.

TENN. S. S. ASSOCIATION.

U. D. C. CHAPTER

There was a large attendance at the meeting of Baker Lemmon Chapter, U. D. C., at the home of Mrs. M. A. Walker, on Saturday, March 3. The business meeting was followed by a Washington program. A Washington tea party was much enjoyed. In the contest, Miss Poindexter won the prize. Maxims of George Washington at the age of 12 years were given by each member.

The following literary and musical program was rendered: "Washington's Inauguration"—Miss Margaret Cotten.

Song—Messrs. Simonton and Crofford and Mrs. J. L. Johnson.

Reading, from Thomas Nelson Page—Miss MacLain.

An excellent salad course was much enjoyed by all.

As the February meeting was postponed to the 3rd of March, the last Saturday in March will be the date of the next meeting.

BASKET BALL

The last basket ball game of the season will be played in the school gymnasium, Friday night, when the Byars-Hall boys' team meets the fast and aggressive five from Tunica, Miss. It will be remembered by those who saw the game last year that Tunica put up a very poor showing and got the small end of the score, but, if foreign dope is worth anything, the local boys may expect a much harder struggle this time. Since their game with Lucy, they have learned to not rely too strongly on past scores but to let the bygones be bygones.

The Tunica boys are expected on the morning train from Memphis, next Friday, and will be given the use of the gymnasium for practice during the day. They are coming with the full determination of winning the game, but Coach Woodson says that his boys will be right in the fray for a sure enough tussle, even if they haven't had a full week of practice.

Paul Shoaf is suffering from a scalded hand and may not be in shape to play Friday night. In case he is not, Willie Moore will be shifted forward and a guard will be picked up from the reserves. The game will start at about 7:45. Tickets have been on sale all this week, and it is thought that a big crowd will be on hand to witness the last, and probably one of the best, game of the season.

CIRCUIT COURT PROCEEDINGS

The circuit court met Monday for the regular March term, Judge S. J. Everett presiding. The following grand jury was selected: W. T. McCormick, foreman; H. C. Wilson, Claud Simonton, Sam Glidewell, Hays Walk, Walter Nelms, F. R. Deverell, Walter Moore, Tom Lindsey, George Cates, John Maxwell, M. L. Moore and Ike Ralph. Judge Everett delivered the usual charge to the grand jury, emphasizing the fact somewhat that the duty of the jury is to inquire into whether automobile owners had paid the 1917 tax and met the legal requirements.

The following cases were disposed of on the civil docket:

M. L. Hathcock vs. E. H. Wooten, suit for damages to a colt. The jury gave plaintiff $5. This is the fourth time the case has been tried.

D. W. Ruffin vs. W. T. Leach. The plaintiff took a non-suit.

Andrew Sneed vs. W. H. Barton, and Barton vs. Sneed were compromised and dismissed.

James Anderson vs. Lewis and Terry. Verdict against Defendant M. M. Terry for $15.

Ernest Williams vs. Will Stevens. Dismissed and plaintiff to pay cost. Covington Auto Co. vs. White Auto Co. Verdict in favor of defendant.

J. C. Vaughan & Son vs. John Cobb. Defendant dismissed suit.

S. D. Beaver vs. J. N. Goforth. Verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

T. H. Price vs. Callie Springfield. Dismissed out of term.

Board of Mayor and Aldermen of Covington vs. Dan Smith, unlawful selling of liquor. Judgment rendered in favor of the corporation for $25.

The state docket was taken up Wednesday afternoon.

Hosen Anderson, indicted for carrying pistol and attempt to commit murder, was ordered dismissed on account of the death of defendant.

Will Elean, charged with violating the four-mile law, submitted, drew the usual fine and was sent to jail for six months.

George Clinton, pistol, submitted and was fined $50 and costs and given three months in jail.

The state docket was taken up this morning and a goodly number of cases stand for trial. There are five homicide cases to be investigated by the grand jury or stand for trial.

Ed Dickson, who was indicted for running his automobile without a license, was tried yesterday before Judge S. J. Everett and was found guilty. Dickson's failure to pay the automobile tax and put the number on his car, as required by law, cost him in the neighborhood of $35.
