EXHAUSTION IN 1861-65

Europe Has Not Lost So Large a Proportion of Wealth or Men as United States Did

Belligerent Europe has not yet gone so far in the destructive way as this country went in 1861-65. Wealth of the nation in 1860 was estimated by the census at $16,000,000,000. Direct money cost of the war to the north was about $3,250,000,000, and to the south quite certainly well above $1,000,000,000, though exact computation here is difficult. Altogether, the direct cost was equal to about a quarter of the total wealth at the beginning of the conflict. Highest estimates of the direct cost of the European war fall decidedly short of that proportion of the total wealth of the belligerents.

The number of men under arms in the civil war apparently reached about 8 per cent of the total population, while the highest estimate we have seen of the number of men under arms in Europe amounts to something like 4 per cent of the population of the warring nations. The longer the war runs, the less likely seems a smashing military victory—an Austerlitz or a Waterloo. And if it is to be ended by a process of complete exhaustion it seems to have a long way to go. As Adam Smith once remarked, there is a great deal of ruin in a nation.—Saturday Evening Post.

GREAT DEMAND FOR LUMBER

Vast Quantity Will Be Needed For Rebuilding In Europe After The War

When Europe begins the work of reconstruction an immense amount of lumber will be needed. So, too, South and Central America, which have heretofore been importers of lumber, must again call for the material as soon as ocean transportation facilities permit. An immense market for lumber should then develop.

A bird's eye view may be had by looking at San Francisco, Baltimore or Messina. For instance, in the year following the earthquake, Italy imported lumber to the value of $33,000,000. The amount that went to the Messina district was 700 times greater than normal. Set Belgium, Northern France and Poland in opposition to Messina, and $300,000,000 worth would seem ultraconservative, although any figures at this time must be largely guesswork.

It is certain that building activity has almost ceased in Great Britain and France. It is a fair inference that the same conditions exist in Germany and Austria. It would seem as if all the belligerents are too busy making and expending ammunition to find time to saw up boards for industrial use. South America is at a standstill, not because it does not want the lumber but because of war's disarrangement of transportation.

The United States, Canada and Russia are large producers of lumber. But in the United States there is a large population of lumber consumers. The annual cut now is 15 per cent less than five years ago. Our share of the world export trade is above $100,000,000 a year. Since the war it has been reduced nearly one-half. What is supplied for European rebuilding must be at the expense of our domestic needs.—Wall Street Journal.

A weather vane is never vain
And has no vein of humor;
A window pane is free from pain,
No roomer free from rumor.
A strait is very seldom straight,
A knight is seldom dark;
You see no tier beside a bier,
No bark upon a barque.

Shad roe could never row a boat;
A Dane might deign to row one;
A coat was never known to quote,
A bough will bow to no one.
A boy once threw right through a door
A cent they sent him seeking,
And while they talked the matter o'er
He showed his pique by pecking.

A ruler reigns in rain or shine,
With rein held tight or loose;
One may be nine and not benign,
A mite might still reduce.
A monkey climbs in tropic climes
And people think he's funny;
And I have made these monkey rhymes
Because I knead the money.

Mrs. Sutton Says Son Begged Her to Take His Advice

Finally Began Taking Tanlac to Please Him More Than Anything Else

OTHER MEDICINES FAILED

Now Feels Like New Woman and is Able to Do All of Her Own House Work.

"I took Tanlac more to please my son than anything else. I'd reached the point where I didn't believe any medicine would do me any good, but after my boy had heard so much good talk about Tanlac he begged and begged me to take it, and finally I did I'm mighty glad I did, for it has made a new woman of me."

The above statement was made to the Tanlac representative a few days ago by Mrs. S. C. Sutton, residing at 900 Sixth street, north. Mrs. Sutton's husband is a well-known employee of John B. Ransom & Co.

"I suffered a general nervous and physical breakdown," continued Mrs. Sutton, "and became so weak and run-down that I couldn't do anything about the house at all, and for over a year I had to hire some one to do the housework. I had no appetite at all, and the little I ate to keep alive didn't have any taste to it, and my stomach was in such a condition that it wouldn't digest, and I would feel bad for hours afterwards. "When I got up of mornings I would feel so weak and nervous from loss of sleep that I could hardly drag myself around. My back and limbs pained me severely, and I had headaches from one day's end to another. I felt too tired and worn-out and lifeless for anything."

"I tried nearly all the medicines I could hear about and even took some of the old-fashioned remedies that I had heard about years ago, but nothing did me any good that I could tell."

"When my boy mentioned Tanlac, I didn't have any faith in it, as everything else I had tried failed, but to satisfy him I agreed to take it. The first bottle seemed to upset my stomach a little, but I reasoned it out with common sense, and decided the doses were too large, so I cut them down to smaller ones, and kept on taking the medicine. Pretty soon my appetite got big and I began to eat things that in the past would have made me awful sick. But everything agreed with me and seemed to give me strength. I just seemed to improve every day and now after taking seven bottles of Tanlac I feel perfectly well and strong in every way."

"It's certainly a great blessing to be able to eat things like other people and sleep good and be free from those terrible pains I used to have. I don't have to hire my work done now, but I am doing it all myself, even to cooking and cleaning up, and it's a pleasure to me instead of a drudge, as it used to be."

"Yes, sir, Tanlac has done more for me than all the other medicine I've ever taken put together. It's a fine medicine."

The GENUINE TANLAC is sold in Maryville, exclusively by George & Mitchell, Druggists.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; else cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.
