

THE COMMUNITY SERVICE.

That the Community Service movement is growing in popular favor with the people of Baton Rouge is shown by the number of new activities and the increased attendance. At the second community sing at the Community Club the attendance was fifty percent larger than on the previous Sunday, and there was a good attendance at the neighborhood sing held in the auditorium of the Beauregard school last Sunday. Local talent is used for these sings since Mr. Harry Morrison, from the national Community Service, left, and it is gratifying to know how many song leaders have been trained or developed. The sing next Sunday will be held in the auditorium of the Magnolia school from four to five in the afternoon. Our people should attend these "sings," as they have a social as well as an educational value. The public school authorities are encouraging mass singing in the schools, and the Community Service sings afford an opportunity for teachers to learn how to conduct the sings.

The attendance at the recreation leaders class has been very gratifying. There were fifty-seven there Tuesday night. The members come from all classes and various organizations and groups. They play the games just like they will be expected to teach others to play them. Major Graves, who is here from the national association to inaugurate a community-wide program of wholesome recreation for adults as well as young people and children, is conducting the class, and he gives instruction in the technique and psychology of play during the actual playing of the games, which takes the usual school atmosphere away, and every body has a good time while receiving very valuable instruction. There will be five more sessions, Friday night of this week and four nights next week, in the L. S. U. pavilion from 7 to 8:15 o'clock. The class is without charge and is open to any one eighteen years of age and older.

The Community Service committee on community music has been asked by T. H. Harris, state superintendent of education, to arrange the music program for the State Teachers Convention in Baton Rouge which meets from November 30th to December 2nd, and an effort is being made to secure the return of Mr. Morrison for the purpose of organizing a large community chorus in advance of the convention. It is hoped by the music committee that the singers of the city and all others who have talent for choral work will join this chorus and notify the Community Service headquarters in the Roumain building, over phone 364, of their willingness to help make this chorus a credit to Baton Rouge. Several thousand teachers are expected to attend the convention.

The committee on community recreation are considering the advisability of putting on a "Play Day" and "Fun Nite" on Friday, November 3rd, the object of which will be to bring all ages and classes of our people together in a spirit of good neighborliness for all kinds of wholesome play. The cooperation of our citizens should be given the committee, if it is decided to hold these events.

The executive committee has decided that the Community Service movement should be made a permanent factor in the moral and civic growth of the city, and that a highly trained and experienced director should be employed to supervise the work. Among the contemplated activities other than those already begun are playgrounds under trained leadership, and summer playgrounds in different sections of the city with paid leaders in charge, recreational activities for adults as well as children, the development of recreational evenings for church and neighborhood groups, the holding of community festivals, picnics and pageants, the encouragement of educational dramatics, and other leisure time activities requiring the direction of an expert leader. The committee believe that every one approached will be glad to contribute something towards keeping Community Service in Baton Rouge.

HOUSE PETERS SETS SCREEN STANDARD

House Peters has given the screen new standards of acting.

"The Storm," a play by Langdon McCormick, made New York theatrical history.

Reginald Barker's direction has made film history.

The three elements, Peters, the play and Barker, are combined in their strength in the making of "The Storm," the Universal-Jewel picture which comes to the Columbia Theatre on Saturday as a starring vehicle for Peters.

Virginia Valli, Matt Moore, Josef Swickard, Frank Lanning, and Gordon McGee support the star.

The story is that of an old triangle, a man who was afraid of women because he didn't know them, another who was afraid of them because he knew them too well, and a girl who didn't know anything except that God was good. They're all bound together with a snow-locked valley for four months, their fates in the hands of Providence.
