

THE TIMES. PORT TOBACCO, MD. Friday, Oct. 25, 1872.

Democratic and Liberal Republican Nominees. FOR PRESIDENT: HORACE GREELY, OF NEW YORK. FOR VICE PRESIDENT: B. GRATZ BROWN, OF MISSOURI. PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS. STATE AT LARGE: FREDERICK RAINE, AUGUSTUS W. BRADFORD. CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS: PHILIP D. LAIRD, JAMES B. GROOM, JOHN M. CARTER, JAMES A. BUCHANAN, JAMES T. BRISCOE, WILLIAM WALSH. FOR CONGRESS: WILLIAM M. MERRICK, OF FIFTH DISTRICT.

Registration Lists. In order to correct the registration lists and print them in time, we should be furnished by the Registrars, with the corrections as soon as possible after Tuesday next.

LET US REASON TOGETHER! We have no quarrel with any man, who has honest scruples and prejudices which render him unwilling to vote for Greeley and Brown. We can sympathize with the feelings of such a man; but we would like to appeal to his reason and judgment. Why is any one a party man? Is it for mere political excitement? Or is it because his party organization is the representative of certain political principles and policy in administering the Government? If the latter, as every reasonable man would claim, which should we most regard—the men, who for the time being comprise the organization; or the principles and policy, which the men represent and advocate? What if Grant was a Democrat before the war? Can any Democrat now vote for him, representing, as he does, the party of centralization, as against local self-government; of military supremacy, over the civil power; of the oppression and disfranchisement of the whites of the South, for and by corrupt Northern adventurers, base Scalawags, and the very worst and most ignorant of their late African slaves; or of corrupt "rings," and overgrown capitalists, against the masses who comprise the laborers, the mechanics, the business men and the honest yeomanry of the country. What if Horace Greeley was an Emancipator during the war? He was an honest Whig as long as that party lasted, and never a member of the Abolition party proper, and now represents the political organization which is for "peace" and amnesty, for the restoration of the Union as it was, and for the protection and preservation of the industrial classes and interests of the country.

As we remarked in our issue last week, we went to press during the progress of the Mass Meeting, held here on the 17th, and had not time to attend after our brief call during Col. Briscoe's address. We learn from those present that his speech gave great satisfaction to his auditors, as a comprehensive and eloquent review of the issues before the country in the pending Presidential contest. He was followed by Judge Merrick, who made an able exposition of the Cincinnati and Baltimore platform, and a stirring and beautiful appeal to the people of this, his native county, to turn out in their full strength in support of the party which advocated the principles that had been maintained and handed down to them by their fathers. The Hon. Barnes Compton, of whose presence we were not then aware, followed Judge Merrick, and was warmly welcomed by his friends. He closed the meeting by a speech in his usual earnest and eloquent style. Considerable interest was manifested by those present, and much enthusiasm aroused by the speeches. Col. Briscoe and Judge Merrick addressed a meeting at Newport on the next day, (Friday), and Judge Merrick, on the following day, (Saturday last), attended and addressed a meeting at Mr. Thomas Skinner's Store. We hear that the meetings at these places were quite respectable in number—indeed larger than expected, in consequence of the very busy period, many being engaged in securing their late tobacco, and nearly all in seeding wheat.

Remember, friends, if you have not "principalsities," you have "powers and wickedness in high places to contend against." This should be sufficient incentive to call forth the most strenuous exertions of every honest yeoman, and to cause him to make some sacrifice of time—if constitutional liberty is worthy of preservation.

Church Enterprise. We learn that the Rev. P. F. Boyle, of Washington City, will lecture in our village, on the 19th of November, the proceeds to be applied to the completion of St. Thomas' Church. On the evening of the same day the ladies of the congregation will give a Supper for the same purpose.

We direct attention to a change in the Card of Dr. A. D. Coby.

DEMOCRATS, GIVE A FULL VOTE!

We have no doubt that if there is a full vote in this county at the ensuing election, we can beat the Radicals as badly as we did last fall. There are no local officers to be elected, and hence there has not been the usual excitement. Voters ought not, and we trust will not feel the less interest in getting out the full vote of the county. Independently of the great interest we have ourselves in the success of Conservatism in the Presidential contest, as well as on account of our oppressed Southern fellow-countrymen, we have great local interests involved in the result of this contest. We elect a representative in Congress from this district, as well as from the whole State. Shall the Fifth—Southern Maryland—be represented, as heretofore, by a representative man? Or shall it be misrepresented by a man who holds opinions utterly foreign and hostile to the sentiments, the sympathies and sectional affinities, and the material interests of the larger part of the people of the district? Again, if we wish to retain the management of our local affairs hereafter, and not run the risk of having them fall into the hands of "Scalawags" and "Carpet-baggers," controlled by "rings" and secret "leagues," let us bring out our full strength, and show these people the fruitfulness of their efforts to get a full turn out, as we have said, to do this. Let, then, every Conservative voter make up his mind to submit to personal inconvenience, if necessary, to get to the polls himself; to persuade and urge his neighbors who show any supineness in the matter; and, if needs be, to assist those who have not the ability to attend without the aid of others. If each man would so determine and act, the thing could and would be done. Voters of old Charles, turn out in your full strength! This is no time for supineness. It is not now as formerly, mere political rivalry between parties, striving after the same result—the common welfare—and differing only as to the means and mode of reaching that result. It is a struggle between Conservatism on the one side, and Radical Grantism on the other. It is a contest between the people on the one part, and a set of political charlatans, adventurers and "rings" on the other; between those who seek to bring back the Government to what it was, and those who strive to retain power by ignoring the Constitution, by withholding the rights of the Southern people, and by the destruction of "local self-government" and States' rights generally. These are the issues, on which side will you permit your vote to be recorded? Remember your origin, your history, your sympathies and your past political record. Remember these things, we do not see how any Charles-countian, who is not a Grantite, can fail to attend the election and vote; nor do we see how any Charles-countian, who is true to his instincts, feelings and sympathies, unless he is an office-holder, or is looking for office, can be a Grantite.

Very truly yours, BARNES COMPTON.

Hon. D. W. Voorhes has just addressed a letter to the Democratic Central Committee of Indiana, which is calculated to have great weight with Democrats who hesitate to give their votes to Greeley and Brown. He says that "whatever may have been thought of the movement when it commenced last May, there can be no doubt now of our duty. What was then a crude and discordant beginning has since matured into a cause fraught with the best principles for which men ever contended. We must go forward until the cause triumphs or confess that error is stronger than truth, and that corruption wins more than honesty. I have no more doubt that the political elements which have co-operated this summer against the re-election of General Grant will ultimately govern this country than I have that I now live, and write these lines. Their perfect success may not come this year; other battles may have to be fought in order to drive a strong and victorious party from power, but all this will not dishearten earnest men, who, though they hesitated at first, finally embraced the cause, and determined, after careful thought, that it was good enough to live or die with."

Remember, Democrats and Liberals, that the election, this year, takes place on Tuesday, the 5th of November. It is important that every one of you, who have respect for your just rights, should bear in mind the importance of a full vote. The office-holders are now busy among the negroes, and making their usual appeals to that ignorant class of citizens to secure their votes against Greeley and Merrick. Be vigilant and active, then, from this time until after the election, and may victory crown your efforts!

The Indiana Elections. The complete official returns of the late election show the following majorities for State officers: Hendricks, Dem., Governor, 1,148; Sexton, Rep., Lieutenant-Governor, 230; Curry, Rep., Secretary of State, 184; Wildman, Rep., Auditor, 275; Glover, Rep., Treasurer, 738; Denny, Rep., Attorney General, 644; Hopkins, Dem., Superintendent of Public Instruction, 957; Black, Rep., Reporter of the Supreme Court, 1,503; Congressmen at large—Orth, Rep., 162; Williams, Rep., 538.

The following are the majorities for Congressmen: First district, Niblack, Dem., 132; second district, Wolfe, Dem., 5,684; third district, Holman, Dem., 1,328; fourth district, Wilson, Rep., 380; fifth district, Coburn, Rep., 799; sixth district, Hunter, Rep., 657; seventh district, Cason, Rep., 197; eighth district, Tyler, Rep., 2,937; ninth district, Neff, Liberal, 24; tenth district, Taylor, Rep., 2,185; eleventh district, Packard, Rep., 985.

The total number of votes cast for Governor was 377,700, being an increase in four years of over 35,000. The Straight-out Democratic ticket received about 130 votes in the entire State.

Municipal Election in Baltimore.

An election for members of the First Branch of the City Council took place in Baltimore city on Wednesday last. The Gazette of yesterday says: "There were fifty-six candidates put in the field, twenty of whom were the regular nominees of the Democratic-Conservative party, the remaining thirty-six being Radicals—straight-out, or in disguise—with a sprinkling of Independent Democrats. Of the twenty members elected, seventeen are Democrats and three are straight-out Radicals. The Temperance men and Independents, who were successfully used to pull the Radical chestnuts out of the fire, were literally 'nowhere.' " "With three affiliated factions arrayed against them, there was every reason to anticipate that the Democratic-Conservative candidates would be beaten in several of the close wards. They have nevertheless, carried all but three, losing the latter only by an aggregate vote of 258. They have, therefore, a fair right to be congratulated on the result. " "Not only do we say that a trivial check of this kind may not be productive of Radical Democracy of this city have been, for the past five years, so accustomed to victory that the loss of three seats in the Council may have the salutary effect of admonishing them not to trust too confidently in their own strength in the presence of a vigilant and active political opposition. If it shall also serve to impress them with the importance, we might say the imperative necessity, of nominating to office none but the very best men of the party, it will be a lesson well learned and by which they may profit hereafter."

Dismissed from the Naval Academy for "Hazing" the Colored Cadet.

Rear Admiral Case, acting Secretary of the Navy, Monday evening issued an order dismissing from the Naval Academy Cadet Robert D. Digges, for "hazing" the colored cadet, Cony. Cadet Digges is from the Fifth Congressional District of Maryland, and was appointed by Hon. W. M. Merrick, the Representative in Congress from that district. It seems that Conyers was walking through the grounds at the Naval Academy, when he was met by Digges, when a fight ensued, and Conyers got the worst of it—Washington Star.

Robert Dudley Digges is a native of old Charles, and we feel proud of it. We are glad that he is no longer subject to the orders of that niggardly set at Washington. When the negro, Smith, was "hazed" at West Point, the President immediately issued orders for the expulsion of the parties engaged in it; but when it turned out that Fred. Grant was one of the "hazing" party, the order was very quietly suppressed. Oh, ye political hypocrites! You expect to make capital out of this affair of young Digges, against Judge Merrick, in this district.

The horse disease, which first made its appearance in Canada a few weeks since, is rapidly spreading throughout N. York State. In Rochester and Buffalo trade is almost at a standstill, Syracuse suffers scarcely less, and in New York city the street railroads have the epizootic in their stables. Philadelphia is not yet affected. The Secretary of the Treasury has issued instructions to the Collectors of Customs at most the Lake ports bordering on the State of New York, to prohibit the importation of horses from Canada.

We have always thought (says the Marlboro Gazette) that if racing improved the horse, it did not always elevate the man; and this opinion is confirmed by the following paragraph copied from the Baltimore Sun of Monday. The rage or mania for this sort of sport is alarming when it tends, as in this instance, to so odd a violation of the sacred Sabbath Day: "The Sun says: 'At an early hour on Sunday morning scores of vehicles, many of them drawn by the finest horses to be found in this section, and driven by those of the community who can indulge in such luxuries, could be seen dashing along en route to Pimlico, to get a glimpse of the races there congregated—to see and to talk horse. By 10 A. M. there was a large number of persons assembled, and the stables were besieged, until the trainers and grooms became annoyed at the curiosity of the crowd. The crowd continued to come and go during the day keeping up a lively excitement about the grounds. Second to the stables, perhaps, the most attractive spot on the grounds was a framed stand near the judges' stand, where certain black bottles seemed in active demand.' "

OBITUARY. Died, on Sunday, the 20th inst., at the residence of her mother, (Mrs. HANNETTA ROBERTS,) MARY HENRIETTA, beloved and affectionate wife of T. T. HANCOCK, in the 32d year of her age. Having passed through great affliction, she is now "died in raiment pure and white" and in her right hand—which received the symbols of her Master's death—she now bears the palm of victory. "In that blessed land their robes have no moth to consume them—the trees have no rust to gnaw them—the gold of that land has no worm to corrupt it—its melodies have no intermingling minors. The last tear has been shed—the last pang felt—the last agony endured; the very recollection of orphanage has passed away, and the hours of a sun-dial are measured only by sunshine." She leaves a sorrowing husband, three interesting little children, a devoted mother, kind brothers and many sympathizing friends to mourn their irreparable loss.

Died at Whitehall, on the 12th of September, Mrs. ELEANOR MADDOX, in the 60th year of her age. Simple and direct in her speech, humble and unobtrusive in her ways, intent on her domestic concerns, devoted to her husband. She loved retirement, seeking only to please her Maker and discharge her duty to those around her. She was proud of her descent from the illustrious pilgrims of the Ark and Dove, and a consistent lover of their Faith. God, who chastens those whom he loves, was pleased to afflict her with a painful and lingering disease, but mindful that in the cross is salvation, when the hour of her dissolution approached she found her consolation in the wounds of Christ and the will of her Heavenly Father. During her illness she was soothed by the loving watchfulness of an attached husband and the ministrations of affectionate relatives. Requiescat in pace.

The Tournament at Marshall Hall.

Mr. EDITOR: [COMMUNICATED.] I have thought that some mention of the Tournament recently held at Marshall Hall, in this county, would not be unacceptable to many readers of your excellent paper, I accordingly send you the subjoined sketch, which, imperfect as it is, you are at liberty to publish, provided you think it suitable for your columns. The Tournament, as was expected from public notice given, took place on the first day of October. The day was admirably suited to the purposes of the occasion, being clear and beautiful, with a little wind, which served to mitigate the solar rays and impart its bracing influences to the company assembled. The site selected for the track was very fine. It was on a broad level overlooking the Potomac river—itselt "a thing of beauty"—and in the distance, across its glittering expanse, could be seen Mount Vernon, once the home of the immortal Washington, gleaming out from the surrounding trees and adding not a little to the beauty and interest of the scenery. The arch and judges' stand were tastefully built, and beautifully decorated with flags and evergreens. Although the sports of the day were not to commence until noon, yet a very considerable company had arrived long before that hour; even as early as ten o'clock the carriages could be seen thronging the gate at the entrance to the grounds, filled with ladies and gentlemen, intent upon participating in the enjoyments of the occasion. At twelve o'clock, when the tilting was to commence, everything was arranged in splendid order by Chief Marshal, Capt. W. F. Dement, who deserves great credit for the manner in which he conducted the proceedings of the day. A procession was formed on the shore of the river, composed of the Knights, Marshal and Aids, and marched, headed by a band of music, to the track where they were met by the winsome smiles of ladies fair, who thronged on either side. The Knights presented a gallant appearance as they marched in the procession. Dressed in fancy costumes, with lances glittering in the sunlight, they reminded one of the "pomp and circumstance of glorious war," but forbodings of evil were dissipated as reflection taught that their purpose was peaceful and their design ennobling. The appointed hour having arrived, the Knights presented themselves before the judges' stand, when the Orator of the Day, D. I. Sanders, Esq., addressed them in a speech of great beauty and eloquence, receiving, as he concluded, the well merited applause of the entire company. The track was then cleared, and the bugle sounded the charge for the contest, which was for the honor of naming the Queen and Maids of Honor. The Knights came on in the following order, viz: J. E. Martin, Knight of Hawthorne; John M. Halley, Potomac; R. M. Martin, Cat Ponds; Nathaniel Halley, Dolly Varden; Z. W. Halley, Forsaken; A. M. Bryan, Dead Duck; W. T. Claggett, Pomonkey; H. M. Thomas, Red White and Blue; Sidney Miles, Night Before Last, and G. R. Bryan, Red Star. The Knights were each allowed five runs, the one taking the ring the greatest number of times to be entitled to the honor of naming the Queen. The contest was very spirited and excited much interest among the spectators. After the five runs had been ridden out it was found that there was a tie between the two most successful, the Knight of Pomonkey, and Red White and Blue, each having taken the ring three times. The contest between them was finally decided in favor of Pomonkey, Red White and Blue taking the next honor. There were ties, also, between the Forsaken, Dead Duck and Dolly Varden, which finally resulted in favor of the Forsaken and Dolly Varden. This ended the tilting, and the crowds were given to the successful Knights, who crowned the following ladies: Miss Kate Compton, Queen of Love and Beauty, by the Knight of Pomonkey; Miss Cecil Miles, First Maid of Honor, by the Knight of Red White and Blue; Miss Eva Boswell, Second Maid of Honor, by the Forsaken Knight; and Miss Ella Claggett, Third Maid of Honor, by the Knight of Dolly Varden. After supper, to which you may be sure ample justice was done, all footsteps were tending to the ball room, which was a spacious pavilion, just suited for the purpose. A procession was formed, headed by the Queen and Maids of Honor, and marched through the pavilion to the stand occupied by the Orator of the Evening, who entertained them with a brilliant and eloquent address, admirably adapted to the occasion. Mr. Gardner ended his speech amid great applause, and received the congratulations of his friends generally. After the address, dancing speedily commenced, and was kept up with great spirit 'till about midnight, when the company began gradually to disperse, returning to their homes with pleasant recollections of the scenes they had witnessed, and the pleasures they had experienced. A LOOKER ON.

Wheat Seeding.

The U. S. Commissioner of Agriculture, in his 1870 Report, says, "J. J. Turner & Co's 'Excelsior,' made in Maryland, is used to a greater extent (in Maryland and Virginia) than all other fertilizers combined, and has retained the good opinion of farmers longer than any other fertilizer." Applied at the rate of 150 pounds per acre, it hastens the ripening of wheat about five days, and benefits the succeeding crop of clover 30 per cent.

Rural Beauties and City Belles.

Country girls are not the whit behind their metropolitan sisters in the natural elements of loveliness, but it must be conceded that the city belles best understand the art of preserving and brightening their personal beauty. The most perfect features lose half their attraction unless the complexion is properly cared for, and if the pretty girls of the rural districts wish to compete with the "Fairstars" of the fashionable world in refining their attractions, they pay due attention to this important point. They ought to know, for the fact is notorious, that Hagan's Magnolia Balm imparts to the skin a delicate, pearly appearance, unproduced by any other preparation under the sun. No matter how the cuticle may have been roughened by exposure or discolored by the sun, the Balm will render it soft and pliable, and removes every blemish. Pimples and brown spots on the face, eruptions, blotches, scalded heads, and all sores arising from impure blood, are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Old Things Have Passed Away.

This is at least true of the old method of treating the long abused and much abused human body. It is no longer considered wise to put a patient to the torture in order to cure him of a disease in which pain is already undermining the energies of his system. True science ranges itself on the side of nature, and endeavors to assist her in her fight against disease. This is the province of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most approved tonic ever advertised in this country. It may be recommended as a fall medicine, par excellence; for it is in the fall that biliousness, dyspepsia and malarious fevers are especially prevalent. The frame, exhausted by the heat of summer, is relaxed and feeble at its close, and requires, we may say, demands, artificial assistance. Afford it that assistance in occasional doses of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and the evils referred to may be escaped. Throughout the far West, and on the steaming alluvial of the Southern rivers, all the varieties of periodical fever are probably rife to-day. Had a course of Hostetter's Bitters been commenced by the sufferers a month ago, i. e., before the unhealthy season set in, seven-eighths of them would in all probability be in their usual health at the present time. So much for want of foresight. So much for not keeping in the house, and using daily the best safeguard against epidemic and endemic fevers. As flocks of impostors and imitators are trying to follow in the wake of the great American remedy, therefore be sure that the article you buy is genuine and verified by the proper trade-marks. The true article can only be obtained in bottles. Beware of the spurious bottles sold by the gallon or in kegs.

Wheat Growers.

Do not jeopardize your crops this year by using inferior fertilizers. The "Excelsior," manufactured by J. J. Turner & Co., has been used successfully for the past thirteen years and it is the best. Established 1850, the old reliable house of J. D. Mountfort, P. O. Box 116, Washington, D. C. Every man and woman in the land should send me a three cent stamp and get by return mail one of my circulars containing valuable information and catalogue of fancy goods. Address as above.

Wheat Growers.—Use the "Excelsior," Guano, manufactured by J. J. Turner & Co., if you wish to grow large crops; 100 pounds of it are equal to from 200 to 300 pounds of any other fertilizer.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS. In the Circuit Court for Charles County, sitting as a Court of Equity.

No. 480, Equity. MURRAY ADDISON and others, vs. MARY ADDISON et al.

THE object and prayer of the bill in this case is to procure a decree for the sale of the real estate therein mentioned, and a division of the proceeds of sale amongst the parties thereto entitled.

The bill alleges that Anthony Addison, late of Prince George's County, departed this life, in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-one, intestate, leaving a widow named Mary Addison and the following named children, his only heirs at law: Murray Addison, Sally C. West, Olivia Mary, wife of Osborne Ingle, Katie, Anthony and Arthur Addison. That the said Anthony Addison died seized of an undivided moiety of a tract of land lying in Charles County, Maryland, containing three hundred acres, more or less, situated on the Potomac river, with a fishing landing thereon; that the other undivided tract of said land belongs to the heirs of the late John Cockrell, whose name is John H. Cockrell, Wilhelmus Cockrell, Cornelia J. Clarke, widow of James T. Clarke, and Anne Wonder, now the wife of certain George O. Wonder, all of whom are non-residents of the State of Maryland; and that said land cannot be divided without loss or injury to the parties interested therein, and that the said John H. Cockrell, in the infancy of some of the parties to make sale thereof. It is whereupon, this 21st day of October, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, ordered that the complainants, by causing a copy of this order, together with a copy of the foregoing statement of the object and substance of this bill, to be inserted in some newspaper published in Charles County once a week for four successive weeks, three months before the third Monday of May next, give notice to the said non-resident defendants of the object and substance of said bill and warning to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the third Monday in May next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree shall be granted as prayed, and to answer to the bill. GEORGE A. HENRY, Clerk of C. C. for Charles County. True copy—Test: GEORGE A. HENRY, Clerk. Oct 25—4w
