

LOCAL MATTERS:

The subscription price of THE TIMES is $1. per annum if paid in advance or at any time within the current year; if not paid within the year $1.50 will be invariably charged, as always heretofore, and from this rule no exception will be made.

TO ADVERTISERS.—THE TIMES having a larger circulation than any other paper among the intelligent farmers and business men of Charles County, offers superior inducements to advertisers to insert their advertisements in its columns. Send for card rates, which are as low as any other paper in Southern Maryland, and say nothing about circulation.

We have received a notice from the publishers of the "Continental Magazine" saying that owing to pressure in their other business they have been compelled to discontinue its publication. All those persons who have become subscribers through our medium will be refunded the money paid to us for subscriptions to that Journal as soon as we can get a satisfactory settlement with the firm.

To be Forged to Vote. Mr. Harris J. Chilton, a well known member of the Baltimore bar and a resident of the 31 district of Baltimore county, who has given much thought and study to the subject, has prepared a bill which will be presented to the next Legislature looking to the improvement of the political morals of the State and the prevention of the exercise of the elective franchise a compulsory matter upon every citizen who is entitled to a vote.

Lecture. Rev. Gilbert F. Williams, pastor of Port Tobacco parish, will deliver a lecture in the Court House next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, P. M., entitled "Popular Errors Concerning the Settlement of Maryland and the Granting of Religious Toleration Therein." Though in this lecture Mr. Williams disclaims any intention of refuting the one delivered by the Rev. Father Kerwick, not long since, still from his subject we imagine it to be in exact contradiction to it and that our people will be afforded an opportunity of hearing both sides of this disputed question. The admission to the lecture is 25 cents.

Donations to St. John's College. Within the last two months there has been provided for the Laboratory and cabinet of St. John's College, of Annapolis, by subscriptions and gifts, an appropriation of $1,000. A fund has been commenced for the workshop with a generous subscription by Mr. G. W. of Baltimore; also a fund for the improvement of the grounds by the proceeds of Dr. Levitt's lecture and a donation from Mr. W. W. Corcoran, of Washington. Mr. Corcoran incloses a check for $200, which he desires to be expended "in planting memorial trees as a tribute to the memory of our friend, the lamented Bishop Pinkney, one of the most honored alumni of the college, on the grounds where in his early life he held his youthful sports."

Beautiful Twilight. For several evenings past, but more notably on Thursday, evening of last week the subtle forces, or perhaps we should say influences, of nature, treated the residents in this latitude to a singularly beautiful phenomenon in the way of an illumination of the western horizon. There was nothing peculiar about the setting of the sun, and the God of Day sank to rest beneath the Western horizon in a cloudless sky, but directly had he disappeared when the western horizon assumed a beautiful roseate hue, blending of the colors of the orange and the pink, thick together as only the unseen limner of the skies can blend them, reminding the beholder of the beautiful visions seen in the Patmos Isle. But like all beautiful things, however, it was evanescent, and as the bright orb that seemed to cause it sunk further and further below the horizon the beautiful tints faded from the sky and gave place to the darkness of the night.

Fare Reduced. The management of the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad have, in consequence of a consciousness of the fact that the rates heretofore charged for this branch of their road are exorbitant, for on Saturday last, December 1st, they inaugurated a much needed reform to the traveling public by reducing the rate of travel over their road to 3 cents per mile. This reduction will make the fare over this road to Baltimore and Washington much lower than at present and will appear by contract almost reasonable. The rate from Port Tobacco to Baltimore will now be $1.90 and from La Plata $1.85, and a corresponding reduction will be made from the stations along the road contiguous to these two. They have also inaugurated a system of issuing excursion tickets, good for two days (round trip tickets) which will cost from La Plata to Baltimore $3.20, and a corresponding price from the other stations according to the distance traveled. We think the road in its next statement will show a great increase of travel owing to this reduction.

2330 O'clock. With few exceptions the railroads of the country have adopted a system of time-computing the hours from 1 to 24, that is 1 o'clock at night will begin the day and midnight, 24 o'clock, will end it, and the schedule for the running of trains will be arranged in accordance with this plan. It is a question whether this plan will not be ultimately adopted by the whole people as the change in watches can be made by a very slight change in the works. It is a revolution of the possibility of which may not be in the very distant future. The seasons assigned by the railroads for this change are "that it avoid the awkward and confusing division of the day into two equal portions of twelve hours each. The day begins at midnight, as under the common system, but there is no possibility of confusion between noon and afternoon on hours. The great advantage of this scheme in a railroad time-table will be seen at once; 7 A. M. and 7 P. M. are frequently misprinted or misunderstood, while no one will confound 7 o'clock with 19 o'clock." One P. M. be come 13 o'clock, 7 P. M. is 19 o'clock, and 12 m d g h is 24 o'clock. Any watch or clock can be adapted to the system by putting the extension of the hours in a circle just inside the dial of the watch or clock. The exterior number will then be consulted upon 12 o'clock noon, and the interior ones for the remainder of the day. The ticket and station agents must keep posted in the 24th meridian or local time used in their cities and also in the 24-hour computation. Railroad people believe this new departure will be in the end commended itself for adoption by all the railroads of the country.

Personal. If there is a man in this county who has not already purchased his winter clothing, he will make a great mistake if he does not at first opportunity call on us. We are prepared to show you the latest bargains in suits or overcoats ever witnessed. C. N. Ochsner & Son, 230 W. Pratt Street and 55 Hanover Street Baltimore, Md.

That Investigating Committee.

The committee appointed to investigate the books and papers of the county commissioners commenced its labors about noon on Thursday last week and terminated them about the same time on the Saturday following. Much interest was manifested by the people throughout the county with regard to this investigation and the only fear expressed by the people we conversed with was that sufficient time would not be afforded the committee before the 20th of December, the day appointed to report, to make the proper examination of the books and vouchers. When, however, it was learned that the committee had finished its labors in a little less than two days, general disappointment was expressed. The committee, we learn, insist upon keeping the result of their investigation a secret alleging, as we understand, though strangely enough it seems to us, that this investigation was in the nature of a grand jury proceeding and therefore privileged and secret. We were absent from the county during the investigation and have not seen any member of the committee. Little interest is, however, manifested in any question concerning the forthcoming report of the committee, as it is known that they could not in that short time have made any effective examination.

It was not known at first that the committee had limited itself to an examination for a single year, and a general and earnest desire was expressed by tax payers that the investigation be extended back far enough to cover the period when Mr. F. O. Medley, some three or four years ago, presented a claim against the county for some $1200 which he claimed to have overpaid into the county treasury, as tax collector, and of which he said to have produced receipts, but of which no account was found in the books and papers of the county. A new levy had to be made in Mr. Medley's favor for the sum of money. Much comment was excited at the time over this extraordinary transaction, and the people have never yet been satisfied in regard to it. More or less uneasiness and distrust have ever since existed in the minds of the people with regard to the manner of doing business about the commissioners office, and hence the great anxiety of the people that the investigation to be made should have been a thorough and comprehensive one.

It is difficult to understand what induced the grand jury to limit the scope of the investigation it asked to a single fiscal year. It seems to the outside observer to be almost impossible for persons unaccustomed to the routine of the commissioners office to properly segregate the expenses properly appertaining to one fiscal year from those belonging to the one immediately preceding, and unless the period of the auditing of such an account is taken as the starting point, and the assets then passing into their hands be taken as the basis, it seems difficult to understand how an intelligent and satisfactory examination could be made. We do not care to forestall the report of the committee, but we do hope that we may yet have a satisfactory examination of the county books.

Shooting Match at Bryantown.

Bryantown, the live village of our county, celebrated Thanksgiving day by a pigeon match for valuable prizes and the champion cartridge shot, and old Charles came off victorious in the contest, notwithstanding the fact that Baltimore City, Prince George's and St. Mary's counties were represented in the contest by "crack shots," for after a close and exciting contest, Mr. W. C. Jamison, who succeeded in capturing ten pigeons, the number allowed each man, was declared the winner and was awarded the championship and a handsome beech loading gun, the first prize in the contest. We regret that we were not able to give the score in full but suffice it to say that there was some talk of shooting down and the result would have been creditable to even a Rogardus or a Carver. The match was gotten up by the "Bryantown Shooting Club," but the management was under the immediate supervision of Mr. G. C. Burch, the genial and courteous hotel proprietor, who ever excelled his well known ability on this occasion. After the shooting, which lasted until dark, the party retired to the hotel where they used the usual expression the table literally "ground" with the delicacies for which Southern Maryland is noted. The party were so well pleased with the unqualified success of the whole affair, that they intend to repeat it at an early day, and to recapture, if possible, from Mr. Jamison the laurels he so gallantly won. It is only necessary for us to state that Goetz will again have charge of the affair to assure our citizens of its complete success. We understand that Wednesday, the 19th instant is the day appointed for the next match.

Christmas Decorations.

The Christmas holidays are rapidly approaching, and two weeks from next Tuesday is the great Natal day, the happiest of the year, when old Charles, rich and poor are brought nearer together than at any other season of the year. How cheerful and pretty even the poorest room looks if decked with evergreen and holly, with clusters of the vivid red berry peeping out from among the green! What an interest the little ones take in the Christmas decorations, and how sad they feel when other homes make more preparation for the festival than their own. Every family should make "Christmas cheer" in the house. Evergreen wreaths, a few wreaths of holly leaves with their berries, the beautiful cedar, all make pretty decorations. The most important feature of Christmas decoration is the Christmas tree, and not a family in the land should be without one. If you have not children of your own, trim your tree and invite a few poor little children to enjoy it. Almost any bright ornament can be put on the tree and will show to good advantage. Long strings of popcorn, both pink and white, should drape the tree, and little wax candles be placed on every twig. Wax and tin balls of different colors look well. The tree should be made firm, and a bucket of water kept in readiness when the candles are lighted, in case of fire.

Newspaper Dues.

Here is how the Harrisburg Patriot puts it of which our delinquents will please take notice: "We presume that some people think newspaper men are persistent duels; let a farmer place himself in a similar position and see if he would not do the same. Suppose that he raises one thousand bushels of corn, and his neighbor should come and buy a bushel, and the price was only the small sum of one dollar, or less, and the neighbor says, 'I will pay you the amount in a few days.' As the farmer's corn does not want to be small about the matter, he says, 'All right.' Another comes in the same way, until the whole of one thousand bushels of corn are trusted to one thousand different persons and not one of the purchasers concerns himself about it, for it is a small amount they owe the farmer, and of course that will not help him any. He does not realize that the farmer has frittered away his large crop of corn, and that its value is due in a thousand little dribbles, and that he is seriously embarrassed in his business because his debtors treat it as a little matter. But if all would pay him promptly, which they could do as well as not, it would be a very large amount to the farmer, and enable him to carry on his business without difficulty."

The Oyster Commission's Report.

The report of the oyster commission, Prof. Brooks and Capt. Waddell, has been prepared and submitted to the Governor, Col. Legg's name is not attached to the report, he not being present when it was made. The report is elaborate one, covering some two hundred pages, and will be sought after by persons interested in oysters. The commission call attention early in the report to the depletion of the oyster beds, which they say is not strictly due to any particular method of gathering oysters, nor to the destruction of the young, nor to the working of the beds at wrong seasons, but to the great demand which comes from improved means of transportation, and from the growth in our State of a great commercial industry which has an unlimited and constantly increasing capacity for utilizing oysters.

No means of protection can have any permanent value unless they are based upon the fact that the oyster demand does not exceed the oyster's natural production power. If Maryland is to retain her oyster industry and have her share of the rapidly increasing business which comes from the growing demand for oysters all over the country, the supply of oysters must be artificially increased, for the natural production of the beds is not great enough to withstand even the present drain upon them, and the demand for oysters will continually increase from year to year. They also propose that the taking of oysters between April 1st and October 15th be prohibited. They also recommended that the burning of shells for lime and iron, and their use for making roads be prohibited, and that all oyster shells be returned to the water when they are taken. They further propose that the five acre law be amended so that residents of the State may take up any unappropriated oyster grounds and have a legal title to the same. Oyster farming is strongly recommended. They show that in the East River, near New York, also in Connecticut this is being pursued, and is producing immense numbers of oysters. One French farm is cited as an example of the profitable nature of this class of farming, and it is said that one crop of oysters raised on 402 acres realized $8,000. From another farm of 200 acres 10,000 bushels were taken in six days. Another field is said to have yielded 1.5 million upon this subject, and the commission say that the depletion of the oyster industry from Maryland is a serious one. They also recommend that the oyster industry be protected by a system of licensing and that the oyster industry be protected by a system of licensing and that the oyster industry be protected by a system of licensing.
