

LOCAL MATTERS:

The subscription price of THE TIMES is $1. per annum if paid in advance or at any time within the current year; if not paid within the year $1.50 will be invariably charged, as always heretofore, and from this rule no exception will be made.

TO ADVERTISERS.—THE TIMES having a larger circulation than any other paper among the intelligent farmers and business men of Charles County, offers superior inducements to advertisers to insert their announcements in its columns. Send for card rates, which are as low as any other paper in Southern Maryland, to any mailing out circulation.

Cleveland, Hendricks and Reform. The Cleveland and Hendricks Club will meet at Cross Road on Saturday next for the election of permanent officers, at which meeting the members of the Club extend a cordial invitation to the voters of No. 3 District to join said club. Meeting at 4 o'clock P. M.

Boys' Clothing, Eisman Bros., cor. 7th and E Sts., Washington, D. C.

Quiet Wedding. Port Tobacco was the scene of a very quiet wedding on last Tuesday afternoon, the contracting parties being Mr. Charles Jones, living in the neighborhood of Fishgib, and Miss Mattie Gaily the efficient teacher of one of the public schools in the same section. The ceremony was performed in the parlors of the Centennial Hotel by the Rev. G. F. Williams, in the presence of some members of Mr. Hunt's family. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for their home at Pigab, and we trust that conjugal felicity will ever attend their wedded career.

Boys' Clothing, Eisman Bros., 7th and E Sts., Washington, D. C.

Look Out for Them. A new counterfeit Treasury $20 note has made its appearance. It is of the same size and bears the signature of "James Gilliland, Treasurer." Its number is 385,285. There are no Treasury notes of the year 1875 series bearing the signature of James Gilliland, and this is one way the spurious note can be detected. On the top, the imprint, "Engraving and Printing," is omitted, while fine paper is not used. The note is a fair one in appearance, and it might easily deceive merchants of those handling money, which account we call attention to its spurious character.

FOR SPRING SUITS go to Eisman Bros., 7th and E Sts., Washington, D. C.

Wirt Randall for Congress. A Southern Maryland Republican, who has had honors in his party, said on Tuesday that the indications are for the nomination of Mr. Wirt Randall, of Anne Arundel, a member of the House of Delegates, for the Republican nomination in the 6th congressional district. He thought this would be a good nomination. Mr. Barnes Compton, who looks upon the coming Democratic candidate, he said, is popular in Southern Maryland, and the result of the contest will largely depend upon the development in the presidential canvass. He indicated as his belief that the apparent strength of the presidential candidates on the near approach of the election will have much to do with congressional campaign, and that which party is shown by the signs of national fight, will carry the fifth congressional district.—Baltimore Sun.

Eisman Bros., popular tailors and clothiers Washington, D. C.

Brooks Again. On Saturday last Mr. James Fowler and Jim Smothers, colored, arrested a colored man who applied to Mr. Fowler for food, supposed to be the notorious colored man, William Brooks. At mid-night he was brought before Justice Medley who committed him to jail. A number of persons who are supposed to know Brooks have visited him, but there was a diversity of opinions as to his identity. The Justice wrote to the Sheriff of Charles county to come up and identify the prisoner. He says his name is Frank Morell and that he came from Georgetown.—Marlboro' Gazette.

Sheriff Smoot received a notification on Monday that the man above alluded to, supposed to be Brooks, was in the jail at Marlboro' by the morning train Tuesday and returned at mid-day saying that the man was not Brooks.

Eisman Bros., popular tailors and clothiers, Washington, D. C.

Discipline at Cedar Point. On last Sunday Thos. Bennett and Will Bennett, two youths from Washington, were arrested by officer Jos. N. Hayden at Cedar Point for disorderly conduct and attempting to create a disturbance at that place. The youths are about 18 and 20 years of age and are brothers. They were brought to town on Sunday evening and lodged in jail. On Monday they had a hearing before Justice S. G. Dot, who after hearing the evidence committed the offenders to the workhouse for 10 days. They are ready to pay their fines, but they were under the influence of liquor at the time and scarcely knew what they were about. They were fined $10 each and costs. Not having money enough with them to settle the costs they were remanded to jail to await the arrival of their friends, who came to their aid in Washington, and received the money to pay their fines, amounting to $6.00, by Wednesday's mail and were at once discharged.

Spring Suits, latest styles, at Eisman Bros., 7th and E Sts., Washington, D. C.

Schooners for the Oyster Navy. Bruster Bros., of Baltimore, who received the contract for the building of two new schooners for the State oyster police force, have made the new order. The dimensions of the new "men-of-war" will be 65 feet long, 19 feet beam, and 6 feet depth of hold. In accordance with the contract the vessels will be ready for service at the opening of the oyster season. The builders intend to make them possess fast sailing qualities, and are studying with particular care this essential point in the construction of the vessels. It was stated that none of the commanders of the oyster boats will be appointed before October or until they are ready for service. Capt. Hedge Thompson, who commanded the steamer Leila, now sold, and Capt. F. Louis Griffith, of Anne Arundel county, will probably capture the two steamers, and Mr. Chas. Pembroke, of St. Mary's, was first officer of the Leila, is spoken for one of the schooners being built in Baltimore. All the district sloops will be put in complete order and ready for service when the season opens in October. The repairs to the fleet are under the immediate supervision of the commander of the force.

For quality, beauty, novelty and varied styles stock of suits for Men, Boys and Children cannot be surpassed anywhere. Low prices in every department. We advise every resident to pay Acme Hats, 215 West Baltimore Street, Baltimore, a visit.

Cleveland vs. Blaine.

The Baltimore Sun of Monday published the following interview had by one of its reporters with our State's Attorney, L. Allison Wilmer, Esq., in which Mr. Wilmer gives his views, in his usual frank and open manner, of the Republican and Democratic Presidential candidates. The same influences which Mr. Wilmer refers to as repelling him from the support of Mr. Blaine are recognized and expressed with equal frankness by a large number of highly respectable Republicans in New York, Massachusetts, Indiana, Connecticut and other States whose electoral votes are necessary to Republican success, and these same influences promise to compass the defeat of the Republican ticket. The following is the interview: Mr. L. Allison Wilmer, State's attorney of Charles county and an influential republican of Southern Maryland, was in Baltimore Friday. He was independent and outspoken. His remarks were in the spirit of that class of intelligent republicans who are repelled from the support of Mr. Blaine because they do not believe him to be the pure and incorruptible statesman whose reputation for integrity and honesty is the basis of the great parties of the country. Mr. Wilmer says he is watching the course of the two parties with interest and sympathy, but he is absolutely determining upon his action in the presidential contest. He did not hesitate to say, however, that Mr. Blaine is not clean. That has been his opinion since he was elected. Mr. Blaine was investigated by the House of Representatives. Mr. Wilmer, entertaining this opinion of Blaine's character, in terms of the disloyalty for the republican presidential nomination in 1876, and again in 1880. He was surprised that the republican party, in the face of the republican knowledge of Mr. Blaine's character, should have done so unwise a thing as to select him as its candidate for President. Mr. Wilmer spoke of the presidential standard in the opposite view of Mr. Blaine's character. Gov. Cleveland, he said, is a man of intellectual integrity, but his mind is not clear. He is a man of high mental powers are brought to bear, his judgment is sound and he displays in action many of the qualities of a statesman. He is not a man of party, but a man of principle. He is not a man of party, but a man of principle. He is not a man of party, but a man of principle.

The intermediate term of the Circuit Court met on Monday, Judge Stone on the bench, and adjourned about noon on Tuesday, thus making one of the shortest sessions, we believe, upon record. There was only one regular case tried, the equity case of Richard M. Smoot vs. Edward L. Smoot and Geo. A. Hunt, involving a claim by Richard M. Smoot to a piece of land sold by Edward L. Smoot to Mr. Hunt. The case was argued on Monday, after the calling of the docket was completed, by Mr. Posey and Mr. Mitchell and held over for the Court. Another case was informally heard by the Court involving the method of adjusting the Sheriff's poundage fees. Mr. T. Elyear Gardner's farm was levied on under a judgment for $10,000 and before sale was made a compromise was effected by which the sum of $3,000 was accepted by the plaintiff in discharge of the judgment. The Sheriff, in computing his fees in the case, charged full poundage fees on the sum of $10,000, although the property levied on was only appraised at about $1,000. Mr. Gardner paid it, but consequently, by advice of counsel, he demanded of the Sheriff the refunding of poundage fees above the appraised value of the farm levied on, which the Sheriff refused to do without the order of the Court; and hence the informal hearing of this case. The case was argued by Mr. Edeben for Gardner and Mr. Posey for the Sheriff. The Court held that the Sheriff had no right to charge poundage fees on any greater sum than the appraised value of the property levied on and ordered the residue to be refunded. Judge Brooke arrived by the evening train on Monday but found that there was no further business before the Court.

Chapel Point was visited on last Sunday by the largest crowd of excursionists that the report has had in any one day since the opening, nearly 700 people from Washington availing themselves of the opportunity for a ride on the Potomac and a visit to the point. This large increase shows how the natural beauties and excellent management at the new resort are growing in popular favor, and as we suggested at the beginning of the season "merit well," and show how they naturally beautify and favor local location, and breathe the pure and refreshing air that is continually wafted from the broad Potomac and behold the majestic scenery presented by an uninterrupted view of the historic stream set off by the green and verdant hills on either bank, are sure to return and bring with them their friends and relations to enjoy the noble prospect. We came from Washington with the excursionists on last Sunday and was much pleased with the orderly and pleasant manner in which the people of all classes who came down on the boat conducted themselves on the trip. This shows the carefulness with which the management select their parties and how earnestly they give for the comfort and care of all under their charge. The magnificent steamer Thompson is handsomely fitted up for the comfort of the excursionists, is manned by efficient, courteous and polite officers who readily and kindly attend to the wants of all. Capt. Kirby, who is in command, is a genial and social gentleman, a thorough seaman, and the slightest intercourse with him puts you perfectly at ease in regard to your safety throughout the trip. Our genial fellow countryman, Mr. John T. Davis, in whose charge the excursionists are, has the faculty of making the acquaintance of all on board of and enlivening and making pleasant the trip for the whole party. All this being considered it is not hard to see why the Point should be growing in popular favor. We commend the trip to all Washingtonians who wish to enjoy a healthful and pleasant day.

Safe Keeping of Land Records. Last week, it will be remembered, we had an article showing the counties that had been derelict in the duty of sending land records to the land office at Annapolis for safe keeping. This is a duty that the Clerk of the Circuit Courts are commanded by law to attend to, yet many have been backward in complying with it. Speaking of the matter the Centreville Observer says: "Every Clerk of Circuit Court in this State, when he receives a deed for his office, has been derelict in the duty of sending the deed and transmitting it to the land office at Annapolis for record there, as directed by law, and yet we see by late reports that some of the offices in this State have shamefully neglected this work, Charles county having neglected it since 1828, and Prince George's since he has been derelict in the duty of sending the deed to the land office at Annapolis for safe keeping, and in some instances might at any moment destroy their old and insecure record office. The judges of the courts are required by law to see that the records are well as well as other work in the clerk's office is done. How they get rid of their responsibility in the matter we know not. Certainly they do not permit other men to violate law as positively as they violate this."

A White Woman Elopes With a Negro

Miss Ellen Owens, a young woman of good family, of Anne Arundel county, fell in love with Jesse Plater, an unenterprising mulatto, and after a day of travel on Tuesday the two were married that evening at Benning's Station, near Washington. Miss Owens is twenty-eight years old, and her colored husband is two or three years her senior. She is the daughter of the late Dr. Thomas Owens, of Anne Arundel. She lived with her brother-in-law, Dr. Henry Richardson. She had often given her family trouble, and sometimes her conduct led to the belief that her mind was not perfectly sound. Plater, her husband, has been working since last Christmas on Dr. Richardson's farm, near Bristol, in the eighth district. He has been before the Anne Arundel Court at least once, for at the last term of court he was convicted of taking a horse from the pasture at night and riding off with it. The couple left Dr. Richardson's house Monday night and walked to Mulliken's Station, on the Potomac Creek line, where they were met by the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad, which they reached early Tuesday morning. They took the morning train, the colored man carrying the baggage. The conductors on these two days were a pair of heavy tarred boots. Miss Owens was heavily veiled, but was dressed in rather loud style, wearing a purple dress and green and gold gloves. Many of the train recognized Miss Owens, in spite of her veil. She said to one of them that the colored man was her servant. The train was in charge of a doctor Bibby, who, when he reached the next station, was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at Bowie he was handed a despatch from Dr. Richardson's official telling him to arrest the couple as they were stopping. The conductor had no authority to make any arrest. When Colliington was reached Governor Bowie got on board, and he and the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad showed him the despatch. He decided that he could not stop the parties, but at