WIT AND HUMOR.

The best way to preserve apples is to keep them from exposure to the air. —Terre Haute Express.

Why not call them hay widows? May be grass with the greenness, squeezed out. —Binghamton Republican.

"Was Macer excited when you told him he was a bear?" "He must have been. He paid me the money he owed me."

A man always thinks his love letters models of composition till they get him up in a branch-of-promise case. —Boston Courier.

They have "potato socials" in Kansas. The name may be from the fact that young folks go there to pare. —Louisville Citizen.

There was considerable noise at the tower of Babel, but a Babel makes considerable noise at almost any time. —Binghamton Republican.

Dudekins reminds me of a book-binding. I have at home," said Blathers. "What is it—crushed sheep?" "No; half calf." —Harper's Bazar.

Anxious reader—No, dear, there is no fixed pattern for an engagement ring; but a spider's web with a fly in it is a pretty device. —Lecturer's Weekly.

A fashion expert says: "Bangs are again in order. Some of them are not. In fact, we've seen some much out of order. —Burlington Free Press.

"I wish," said the Rev. Mr. G.'s little 4-year-old, "that when I'm naughty you wouldn't always talk to me in your Heavenly Father voice." —Troy Times.

Someone wants to know "if there are pianists in the next world." If there are not it isn't because they have not been told to go there. —Yonkers Statesman.

Customer (to grocer's boy)—You don't seem to be an energetic little boy. Don't you feel well? Boy—Yes, I feel all right, but the boss is out to lunch. —Life.

First Tailor—Do you bow to your customers when you meet them in the streets? Second Tailor—Well, as a rule I do, but I have always cut my misfits! —London Punch.

Roscius—"What was the name of that play you started with, Romeo?" "Romeo—'On the Trail.' Roscius—"How did you get back?" Romeo—"On the T-rail." —Terre Haute Express.

Mrs. Hashcroft—Which do you consider correct, Mr. Sparks, wood better or had better? Mr. Sparks—If you refer to the beefsteak, Mrs. Hashcroft, I've had better many a time. —Terre Haute Express.

High-minded father—My son, choose a profession that will bring you fame and after that wealth will come. Duffer son—Very well, father. I will become a professional base-ball player. —New York Weekly.

Mr. Swallowtail (reading)—There are only 5,000 elephants in the world. Guest (huskily)—Is that all? I've been here only a week and I had an idea there were that many in this town alone. —Washington Post.

The occult is very popular in fiction just now—as it always has been with husbands when they were trying to explain their wives just how it happened that they were so late in coming home. —Journal of Education.

Little boy (at toy store window)—"Mamma, won't you buy me a top?" Mamma (meditatively)—"I don't think you're too cold to spin tops." "Well, then buy me a double ripper sled and some new skates, and we'll let the top go." —N. Y. Weekly.

She—Dearest, do you believe there is luck in odd numbers? He—I'm sure I don't know. Why, dear? She—Well, this is the third time we have been engaged to each other, you know, and I thought possibly we might marry this time. —The Cartoon.

He (trying to play a trump card)—"As I passed your house last evening I thought I heard an angel sing." She (stily)—"I was at the theatre last evening. Mrs. Mulhoolly and her two twins were at our house visiting the cook." —N. Y. Weekly.

The merchant had been sick unto death. "Tell me the truth," doctor, he said, "is the danger over?" "Sure," replied the doctor, "there is no more danger; the crisis is passed." And the merchant reverts his bequest of $5,000 to the hospital. —Detroit Free Press.

Moralist—Smoking is an expensive habit and never did anybody any good. Man-with-the-Henry-Clay—O, I beg to differ with you, sir. "Does smoking benefit you any?" "Most certainly it does, sir. I'm the proprietor of a cigar store." —Yonkers Statesman.

Justice—You say that your sister was bitten by the horse and you want damages? Plaintiff—Yes, sir. I have witnesses to prove that the horse bit her. Defendant—I can explain. Judge. The woman is a grass widow. The horse is not to blame. —Detroit Free Press.

Mrs. Muggins—It's raining, and Mrs. Goodson wants to go home, and I have no umbrella to lend her except my new $10 one. Can't I let her have yours? Mr. Muggins—Crab! The only umbrella I've got has her husband's name on the handle. —Philadelphia Record.

"Did that lady buy anything?" asked the jeweler the day before, as the lady in question left the store, apparently in a temper. "She did not. She asked me for an old gold breastpin, and I asked her if she took this store for a junkshop. Then she went out." —Jen-ciders Weekly.

First young lady (at Broad Street Station)—"These young men are so rude. I've a great mind to complain about it." Second young lady—"We might go into that big waiting-room and sit down." "O, it's so stupid in there. It's reserved exclusively for ladies." —Philadelphia Record.

"That reminds me of a story," said Jenkins, as he straightened himself up to carve the turkey. "A story of an occurrence that happened when I was a little boy." "John," interrupted his wife, rather sharply, "What is it, my dear?" "The turkey is stuffed with chestnuts." —Merchant Traveler.

"This would make a good tank play," said one disgusted critic to another at a third rate show. "Yes," replied the other, grimly, "and to make the thing a complete success, they ought to use the tank to drown all the critics in at the beginning of the first act." —Journal of Education.

"Well, Jenkins, you don't seem so happy as you were when you first settled down to married life, new home, and all that." "No, perhaps not. You see, I was elected president of the ranch, so to speak, but now my wife is trying to go back to the returns and 'steal the house' and run it. In fact, she's counting me out." —Harford Post.

Editor—Have you any letters or other testimonials to show that you are a literary worker by profession? Applicant—If you will look at my pants, sir, you will find that they bag badly at the knees, and if you will pardon me for turning around you will see that they are worn shabby at the rear. Yes, sir; I am a literary man. —New York Weekly.

Before purchasing your Fertilizers for Wheat the coming season, it will be to your interest to give us a call. All the above brands are strictly reliable, besides we keep in stock all kinds of the best grade material from which we can make you any grade Fertilizer you may need. —This House is an old established one, and every thing they sell you is as represented. As an evidence of the superiority of our goods, my sales have increased from 21 tons per annum, the first year to one thousand and eighty-five tons, this being my sales in Charles and St. Mary's counties the past year. I shall not be satisfied until I sell every responsible farmer in Southern Maryland, as it is not only for my own interest I wish to do so. My greatest desire is to induce the planters of Southern Maryland to use strictly first class goods and can only do so by dealing with a first class house. If you will buy your goods from the G. Ober & Son Company you will not regret it. Mr. W. I. Burch, at Bryansville, or Mr. C. B. Lloyd, our Collector and Sales-man, will be glad to receive your orders, and I will devote as much time to you in the two counties the coming season in order to induce the farmers of Southern Maryland to buy the best Fertilizers offered to the people of any State in Union. All responsible orders sent direct to the Company will receive prompt attention.

Yours very truly, JOHN M. LLOYD.

N. B.—What Mr. James F. Mattingly, a large and practical farmer of Chaptico District, St. Mary's county, says of our Tobacco Compound: He says that he can grow as large Tobacco from other fertilizers as he can from Ober's, but while Ober's is just as good as to quality, it weighs from 1 to 1 1/2 more than any other Fertilizer that he has used. I will here add that Mr. Mattingly is not only a very good and prosperous farmer but strictly reliable. Mr. Mattingly has used our goods for several years and says he will use no others but for Wheat and Tobacco. JOHN M. LLOYD.
