Dates of School Meetings.

W. W. Pendergast, state superintendent of public instruction, sent out the following letter to school officers, straightening out a tangle as to the dates of school elections:

"The change in the date of holding the annual school meeting in common school districts from the third Saturday of July to the third Saturday of June is causing considerable embarrassment to county superintendents of schools and district clerks. The school year ends July 31, and it is for the school year that clerks and county superintendents are required by law to make their annual reports. It is evident that the district clerk who retires from office on the first of July cannot report for the entire year, which ends a month later. It will, therefore, become necessary for the retiring clerk to report for such part of the school year as he has been in office, and for the new clerk to make a supplementary report, including the month of July. These two reports must be combined by the county superintendent in his annual report to the superintendent of public instruction."

Under order of the court, S. Treblay, J. L. Meyer and J. H. Nichols counted the ballots in the Blake-Mecuser contest, at the city hall yesterday afternoon.

A large audience heard Bishop J. D. Morrison at the Church of Our Savior Tuesday evening.
