"The Pulse of New York," that evergreen success, will be at Grosz' opera house tonight. Among the special favorites of previous performances here may be mentioned the much talked of Thompson Tots, beyond question the cleverest juvenile actor on the stage; also Miss Madge Maitland, female baritone supreme, who creates a sensation everywhere. "The Pulse of New York" may be described as a refreshing comic play, embracing three acceptable forms of entertainment—vaudeville, farce and melodrama. The performance in its entirety is a quick action, round of song, story and diverting dialogue of recent issue and is as ever up to the times.

Died.

Thos. F. Bohan, one of the best liked and respected of the young business men of Little Falls, died Tuesday morning at the residence of his parents, 1830 Grand street, Minneapolis, of cancer. Mr. Bohan had been sick for some time, and went to Minneapolis about a month ago to be operated on, but the surgeons thought him too weak to stand the shock. Since then he had been gradually sinking. His wife and his parents were at his bedside when the end came.

The news of Mr. Bohan's death was received here with great sorrow. Tom, as he was familiarly known, was a man of genial manner and thorough honesty. He made many friends and never lost one.

Mr. Bohan came to Little Falls about seven years ago and engaged in the plumbing business, in which he was very successful. He married Miss Annie Yeager about five years ago, and leaves a wife and three little daughters to mourn his loss. He leaves his family in good circumstances. Besides a house and lot in Little Falls, Mr. Bohan owned a house and lot in Minneapolis. He had $3,000 insurance in the Modern Woodmen and other insurance besides.

The funeral was held from the residence of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Bohan, in Minneapolis, yesterday morning, and the remains interred in St. Anthony cemetery. W. A. Butler attended as a representative of the local Woodmen camp.
