James Hutchinson, a Germantown grocer, has among his many out-of-town customers an eccentric couple residing in Pittville, who send by mail their orders for articles wanted. It has been a common occurrence for the accommodating grocer to go out of his way to fill their orders for good not sold in stores of his kind. Recently they failed to send their requisition for goods, and Mr. Hutchinson was beginning to think that he had lost a good customer for some inexplicable reason when he received the following letter, signed by the husband:

Dear Sir:— Please send me five pounds of coffee and sum tee. My wife had a boy last night also ten pounds cheese and a rat trap, he weighed 7½ pound and a hatchet and nails.— From "Food and Drink."

The attorney-general of Colorado has decided that there is no authority for a woman changing her name at marriage, or any other time. The case in point was that of a woman notary public who contracted a marriage. She then asked the attorney general what name she should sign officially, and he answered that she should still sign her maiden name, which was her proper designation. This is as it should be and we know of no statute or rule in Minnesota, except custom, which compels a married woman to use her husband's name.—Ex.

SUNSHINE PEOPLE.

They Are the Divinely-Appointed Promoters of Optimism Who Keep Others Sweet.

"Why do you hurry to catch the 8:30 train, when you know there's another that leaves at 8:45, which would get you into town in plenty of time?" asked one young lady of another, as the two were hastening toward a suburban railroad station.

"Because," replied the other, with a little apologetic laugh, "I always like to get in on the sunshine man's train."

"Pray, who is the sunshine man?" inquired her companion. "The conductor?"

"Oh, my, no!" was the laughing response. "He's the cross-set bear that ever was. But there's the dearest little old gentleman who goes into town every morning on the 8:30 train. I don't know his name, and yet it does seem as if I knew him better than anybody else in town. He just radiates cheerfulness as far as you can see him. There is always a smile on his face, and I never heard him open his mouth except to say some kind of courteous or good-natured thing. Everybody bows to him, even strangers, and he bows to everybody, yet never with the slightest hint of presumption or familiarity. It just warms the cockles of one's heart to see his shining face, the twinkle of his eye, and the bright little flower he always wears in his buttonhole. If the weather is fine, his jolly compliments make it seem finer; and if it is raining, the merry way in which he speaks of it is as good as a rainbow. Everybody who goes in regularly on the 8:30 train knows the sunshine man. It's his train. There's nothing else to distinguish it from the 8:45, or any other. You just hurry up a little, and I'll show you the sunshine man, this morning. It's foggy and cold, but if one look at him doesn't cheer you up so that you'll want to whistle, then I'm no judge of human nature."

It was a sweet and genuine tribute of human sympathy which this young lady paid to the overflowing kindness of the "sunshine man." There are a few such men—and women, too—in every community, and God seems to have set them there to keep the rest of the people from getting too sour and despondent and self-absorbed and unneighborly. They are the divinely-appointed promoters of optimism, these sunshine folk. Most people have a tendency to grow somber as they grow older—especially when they are abroad among strangers. One glance at the faces of people in any street car will prove this.—Standard.

Elephant Comedians

Lockhart's elephant comedians, which will be seen with Ringling Brothers' circus when that famous big show exhibits in Little Falls, Saturday July 29, are undoubtedly the most remarkable trained troupe of animal performers in the world. Lockhart's elephants have been the most pronounced sensation of Europe for several seasons, and the amount of money paid by the Ringling Brothers to bring this wonderful troupe of animals to America would be sufficient to equip and indefinitely operate a dozen good-sized circuses. These elephants are not simply "trained animals." They are veritable animal actors, displaying as much good sense and judgment, as great an appreciation of the humor of their several roles and as sincere a desire to please and entertain the audience, as any human performer in the great exhibition. Probably the most amusing comedy presented by these elephant actors is one portraying the arrest, trial, conviction and incarceration of an elephant for intoxication. The spectacle of the clown elephant, rolling from side to side, apparently in the sportive stage of intoxication, is ludicrous in the extreme. In the midst of his revelry, the policeman arrives, armed cap-a-pie with a huge official helmet and jauntily twirling a club in his trunk. The offending elephant attempts to escape, but the policeman is too quick for him. The offender is seized by the ear, marched away to the magistrate's office, solemnly tried and sentenced by an elephant judge sitting in his judicial dignity upon his judicial bench, and finally hurried away, a condemned prisoner, to suffer durance in the elephant jail. The Lockhart elephants are, however, only one of three troupes of elephant actors. They are an English importation. From Germany comes Herr Sonder's wonderful elephantine brass band. Incredible as it may seem this company of proboscidian musicians not only play upon huge helican horns, but they actually master a popular air in a way only possible to such a mammoth twenty-ton band. France is represented in this triumvirate of elephantine wonders by Marchand's pugilistic pachyderms, a company of clever elephants carefully schooled in the many art of self-defense. In every kind of trained animal exhibition, in the size and completeness of its zoological collection, in the number of the high-class performers, in the hippodrome, and in the magnificence of its processional displays, Ringling Brothers' famous circus is without a rival on earth.

The people pay war expenses every time they turn around; whenever they make a deed, or a mortgage, or a contract, draw money from the bank or send a telegram. If you are not in the habit of doing either, in these gold standard times of trust prosperity, just try it in sending a message by the telegraph monopoly. The stamp they require you to put on or pay for is your contribution to our imperial policy.—G. C.

The party will return on the following Saturday.

TEACH TURKS TO FARM.
Professor Kent of Iowa Accepts a Position Under the Sultan.

Chicago, July 26.—A special to the Times-Herald from Ames, Ia., says Professor D. A. Kent, late of the Iowa state agricultural college, has been selected as an instructor in farming the Turkish empire. The sultan needs a man versed in the cultivation of wheat, corn and fruit and requested a Turkish representative at Washington to procure such a person. The Turkish ambassador appealed to Secretary Wilson, who recommended Professor Kent, and the Iowa City man has signified a willingness to accept the mission. Professor Kent leaves for his new duties in a few weeks.
