AGAINST THE McCARTHY BILL

Buckman Wanted the Old Time Check System Preserved.

Those familiar with logging operations in central and northern Minnesota know that for years an ingenious method of cutting wages of the workmen prevailed. This was done by giving time checks for the labor or services, when the logger quit work, or when he was discharged, or at the end of the season. The worker got the time check, but in many cases waited on the pleasure of the contractor for the money. He might quit work in March, and his time check wouldn't be good till much later. The result was that the time checks were discounted at all sorts of rates, being many times bought up by the employer himself through his agents.

To remedy this, there was introduced and passed Chapter 342 of the Laws of 1899, known as the McCarthy bill.

The first section of this law provides that any person who may do or perform any manual labor in cutting, hauling, banking, driving, rafting, cribbing, or towing, any logs, railroad crossings, cedar poles or timber in this state, should have a first lien against the owner for wages, and any verbal or written contract waiving this right is declared void. The law was amended, Chapter 201, Laws 1901; making five days necessary before filing lien, except in case of discharging an employe, when a lien can be filed at once.

This legislation did away with the old system, and gave the workers on the rivers and in the woods power to get their wages without suffering long waits and discounts.

BUCKMAN FOUGHT THIS LEGISLATION AND TRIED TO DEFEAT IT. HE WAS ASSAILED ON THE FLOOR OF THE SENATE BY SENATOR McCARTHY WHEN McCARTHY SPOKE FOR THE BILL.

Senator McCarthy has tried, in order to save Buckman, but with poor results, to excuse Buckman's opposition, but doesn't deny that Buckman did his best to defeat the original bill, although two years after he voted for the amendment, giving the contractor five days of grace. The third reading and final vote on the original bill was on March 14th, 1899 (Senate Journal, Page 507.) Buckman voted for the bill taken up just before, House File 111, which shows he was in the senate chamber, but he dodged the vote on the next bill (the McCarthy bill) not voting either way. His fierce opposition to the bill was well known everywhere, and no belated excuses can now alter the fact.

Hemstead is the only democratic candidate for representative. Be sure to vote for him. He is a clean able gentleman.

The republicans are getting pretty desperate when they have to import McCarthy to speak a whole week in the county.

Geo. Lafond is very active and bitter against Hall and Seal. The two gentlemen deserve congratulations.

The Transcript says J. H. Seal is not a friend of the public schools. Of course such a statement as that is best characterized by a word of three letters.

Simon P. Brick has made a good and impartial clerk of court. No patron of the office complains about the way the office is conducted. Mr. Brick's record is good. Stand by him.

A virulent fight is being made against Billy Hall, yet Hall is bound to win, for the principal reason that records so necessary to the preservation of titles, so important to the safety of transactions, should be absolutely safe, and that's one of the greatest reasons why Hall should be elected.

The Transcript hasn't published the records of Hall and Trettel, side by side, as yet. It won't, either, and everybody knows why.

The Royalton Banner says the lumber jacks are for Buckman to a man. Sure, with an ax.

The republican managers are getting honest. They're nailing their campaign lists to telephone posts.

The Transcript tries to give C. W. Bouck praise for the good roads around Royalton. Those good roads are principally a product of the times when Fred Lakin was chairman of the Bellevue town board. Lakin's good qualities as supervisor make him a good commissioner, and his district will make a very serious mistake in not re-electing him.

The ridiculous stuff and nonsense that is being used in the republican county campaign disgusts sensible people. The howl about democratic extravagance has amounted to nothing but what it is, mere froth, foam and bluster. We challenge the Transcript to point to any measure of the county board, or anything done by county officials, that was disapproved by any republican county commissioner, or any republican official.

Editor Hunt of the Swanville News shouldn't talk about county affairs unless he knows what he's talking about. Every register of deeds, republican or democrat, has had postage bills allowed, more or less, according to the business of the office.

A MAGNIFICENT MEETING.

Great Reception to Rosing and DuBois

An audience which filled Gross opera house to its doors, in spite of raw and cold weather, met Dr. DuBois and L. A. Rosing Monday night. The audience was respectful always, but got more and more demonstrative, until at the close there was a great ovation to the speakers of the evening.

Mayor Vasaly presided, introducing Dr. DuBois first. The democratic congressional candidate gave but a short address, but enough to show the people that he would be a credit to the district if elected. He briefly took up the trust and tariff issues, and explained his position, which is that tariffs that protect monopolies must be removed. He paid an eloquent tribute to John Mitchell, the graduate of the university under ground, and summed up his political creed in the theory that the American people can correct any evils that afflict them. The doctor made a fine impression and was given hearty applause.

Mr. Rosing captured the audience from the start. His address was a revelation to those who did not know him, and proved the coming governor not only a thorough business man, but one of the most convincing speakers in the west. He touched on present national governmental policies, showing how natural it was for selfish interests to flock to the dominant party which needed purification by defeat. His exposition of better trade arrangements with Canada was clear and convincing, and the audience was quick to respond. As he went on, his auditors grew more and more appreciative. When Mr. Rosing took up state issues, he punctured the Van Sant merger bubble so completely that little but froth is left of it around here. He told of Van Sant's search for a lawyer, which ended in selecting corporation counsel Munn. Van Sant's dodging avoidance of real issues was delightfully treated, and the audience roared. Cheers for the flag, love for the ladies, and the union army in the civil war—those were Van Sant's replies to pressing questions. The contrast between the brass band speech of Van Sant and the honest talk of Rosing, was so great as to strike all who heard both. The address was full of good points. At its close the audience rose in tumultuous applause.

The addresses were very effective. The meeting was the most satisfying, from the political standpoint, of any delivered in this campaign.

Will the Transcript please give specific figures as to the large county expenditures in 1901, details, not generalities full of delusions and untruths.

If the Transcript will point to a single bill involving large amounts, allowed by the county commissioners in 1901, which was opposed by the two republican commissioners, and by the republican county attorney, whose duty it is to pass on the legality of bills—we would like to know it.

The Transcript admits that it do sn't dare to talk about details. An item like $3100 refunded to the city is only a "detail" to the Transcript, and tax rebates involving thousands of dollars are only "details" too. The Transcript is not talking facts, just froth.

The county teachers certainly know whether J. H. Seal has done anything for the public schools or not, and the sentiment among the teachers is unanimous that Mr. Seal has labored hard and well to improve the school work by practical suggestion and in every other way. The success of the schools is in a large measure due to his careful supervision. The fright on him, whatever its basis, is not justly on the basis of depreciation of his labors.

Hon. Theodore Bruener, of St. Cloud, will speak on the issues of the day at Pierz at 12 o'clock noon Sunday, Nov. 2nd, and at Buckman at 3:30 o'clock the same day.

Little Falls Millworkers Local Union, No. 371, will give a grand ball at Gross Opera House, Wednesday evening, Nov. 26th, the proceeds of which are to be defraying the expenses of the meeting of the State Federation of Labor in this city next June. The boys are making preparations for a very fine time. Tickets are $1 per couple, and all interested should help by buying.

The famous Iott concert company of Boston will appear at the opera house Nov. 15th in the High School lecture course. Though a fortunate arrangement we are able to secure this company which ordinarily we could not have promised. They usually have a $150.00 guarantee. Course tickets may now be had for $1.20 good for the remaining four numbers. Turn out and show that you appreciate a good thing.

Fuller has nerve to insinuate that Hall is stealing stamp money from the county. To those who know Billy Hall, no matter what the party, such an outrageous slander is of no effect. Fuller's impudence is monumental, his gall sublime, and his cheek colossal, when he tries to retrieve the waning fortunes of his man Trettel in that way. Such slime is characteristic of a certain republican politician who was fixed plenty by Hall two years ago, and doubtless originated there.

Mr. E. L. Lobeck from Alexandria, Minn. will give a temperance lecture at the Zoar Norwegian church, Monday evening Nov. 3, at 8 o'clock p. m. Mr. Lobeck is known to be one of the best speakers in the Norwegian language. All are cordially invited.

According to the Transcript, 1900 was a republican administration year. The county tax rate that year was 8.77 mills.

According to the Transcript, 1901 was a democratic administration year. The county tax rate that year was 8.17 mills.
