Convivial Clubman Uncertain Whose Drink It Was.
The newly completed skyscraper at the intersection of Broadway, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street is advertised in a novel way by illumination of its various stories with encircling ribbons of light, so that it presents a striking effect at night. Recently two clubmen who are noted for their convivial proclivities dined generously at a restaurant in the neighborhood, spending the major part of the evening in the cafe, consuming liqueurs, highballs, P. P. C.'s and "just one more for the last." As they were about entering their cab one espied the tall building with its alternate bands of light and shade dying away in deep shadow at the base and said: "Say, chappie, iss zat your pousse-cafe or iss it mine?"—New York Times.

Was Too Pessimistic.
Sir Benjamin Baker, consulting engineer to the Egyptian government, tells an amusing story of an interview he had eight years ago with an old-fashioned native land owner at the time when the construction of a large reservoir somewhere in the Nile valley was first seriously proposed. This descendant of the prophet, who was very rich and had been twice warned by the government that probably he would be hanged if any more bodies of servants he had quarreled with were found floating in the Nile, assured Sir Benjamin that there could be nothing in the project of a Nile reservoir or it would have been done at least 4,000 years ago. Yet the great Assouan dam now shows that the ancients did not have all the enterprise.
Good Listeners Rare.
Listening is at once the rarest and most charming gift a woman can possess, says the Chicago Record Herald. The mysterious influence that Cleopatra exerted over Anthony has made the world wonder, for the Egyptian was not beautiful. But it is plain enough when one remembers how she inclined her little ears to hear the stories of his victories. This trait reached high art with Josephine. It was only when she ceased to listen and began to talk that she lost favor with Napoleon. Given a fair field and a chance to prove herself an appreciative listener, the plainest girl can win honors in a contest with beauty in nine cases out of ten.

Boydhood Dream Realized.
John D. Rockefeller, head of the Standard Oil corporation, has been elected to honorary membership in the fire patrol of North Tarrytown, N. Y. When he received the official document notifying him of the honor conferred the multimillionaire came as near to looking pleasant as he can and he remarked with some pride: "Now is the boyhood dream of my life realized. I am a fireman at last, after nearly sixty years of patient waiting. No policeman can now fan me outside the fire lines in North Tarrytown, at least. If he tried it I could turn the hose on him."

Cautious.
The lawyer happened to be acquainted with a juror in a petty civil case, and he met him during a recess of the court. The lawyer was just "lighting up," and under ordinary circumstances he would have offered the other a cigar unhesitatingly. But it occurred to him that it might not look right. "I suppose," he said guardedly, "that a cigar would not influence your verdict." The juror was equally cautious. "A good one would not," he replied, "but a poor one might prejudice me." He got a good cigar.

A Long Way From the Finish.
The Cape-to-Cairo railway would be 5,700 miles long in a direct line between Cape Town and Cairo. At the present time the rails are laid to within 200 miles of the Zambesi, or about 1,500 miles from Cape Town, and there is now a railway from Cairo to the junction of the blue and white Nile, or 1,100 miles from Cairo. It is thus seen that a mere 2,800 miles long must yet be built to connect these terminal systems. The Uganda railway is built, connecting the port of Mombasa, on the Pacific ocean, with Port Florence, on Lake Nyanza; the length of the line is 500 miles. The Bulawayo-Beira railway connects the system with the ocean at the last mentioned port. At Bulawayo the line is 4,469 feet above sea level.

What He Had Not Noticed.
One of a family of girls renowned for their ready wit had occasion to cross Broadway with her brother, says the New York Times. Just in front of them was a very pretty girl, holding her skirts, well, rather high, thereby displaying a bewitching foot and ankle. The brother turned to his sister and said: "I sincerely hope that when you cross the street you hold your skirts less high. It's simply disgusting." The girl smiled a wee smile. "I'll bet you cannot tell me what kind of a hat she has on!" she answered. Needless to say, the brother has given no further advice.

Handsome Reward for Dog.
The first dog to receive benefit from an insurance company lives in Colorado. This distinguished canine won his reward by barking at a red light in boulder county, which caused his master to awake and save a train from being wrecked in a burning bridge. President Frank Trumbull of the Colorado and Southern received a letter from Frank & Du Bois of New York soon after the occurrence. This letter was accompanied by a check for $25. Now it happens that a twenty-five dollar check will buy a very large collar, while it was a very small dog that did the barking.

Calm Stage Manager.
Maurice Grau's stage manager this season is a Belgian named Almanz, a man of high professional reputation in Europe and a wonder of sartorial perfection. Amid the scenes of confusion that occur between acts he stands the picture of faultlessly dressed composure. He wears immaculate evening clothes, never removes his white gloves however strenuous the action of his subordinates may become and under no circumstances allows his opera hat to fall from under his arm. New York has never seen his equal.

Truly, We Are a Great People.
The inhabitants of the United States, including Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines, number about 82,000,000, barely 5 per cent of the world's total inhabitants. Yet we have possession of 25 per cent of the cultivated area of the earth. We produce 75 per cent of the world's supply of corn, 25 per cent of the wheat, 40 per cent of the iron, 55 per cent of the copper, 30 per cent of the lead, 33 per cent of the quicksilver, 31 per cent of the gold and 33 per cent of the silver.
Our Country's Growth.
At the beginning of the nineteenth century there were sixteen cities in the country which had a population of more than 4,000. Philadelphia was first in the list with 69,000, with New York a close second, while Baltimore had taken third place from Boston by 26,000 to 25,000. At the same period the population of the country was 5,308,483, of which only 5 per cent was urban.

STORY OF "TOM" OCHILTREE.

Gallant Colonel Had Science of Shooting Down Fine.
Col. "Tom" Ochiltree was once invited to spend a week at the deer hunting lodge in the Maine woods of one of his friends, and tramped the wilds for a week without bringing down anything. On the last day of his visit he was approaching the lodge in company with his entertainer just as dusk, and seeing something in the thicket, fired at it. It turned out to be a calf, but the Honorable Tom missed it as gallantly as if it had been a buck of many antlers. "What's this," shouted his host, "you pretend to be a hunter and can't hit a calf?" "Well," Tom replied, "I wasn't just sure what it was, so I shot to hit it if it was a deer and miss it if it was a calf."

Single Tax in Operation.
On the east coast of Vancouver island in British Columbia the flourishing town of Nanaimo, with its 6,000 inhabitants, has no tax for municipal purposes save one on land values, levied alike on occupied and unoccupied land, according to the orthodox interpretation of the single tax theory. The town is a miners' town, where the doctrine of "three acres and a cow" is almost universally realized as well as that of every man his own house owner. For this result the easy terms of the London syndicate which owns the coal and land in the neighborhood are largely responsible.
Wilhelmina's Narrow Escape.
Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, when seventeen years of age, visited Switzerland and stopped at Grindelwald. Next to the hotel grounds was a bear pit which at the time contained a young bear. The young queen took a great fancy to the animal, and fed it regularly every day. On one occasion she entered the bear pit as usual, but the bear, instead of coming up quietly to be fed, attacked the queen, who fled, escaping with some scratches and a torn dress. She still carries the marks of her encounter with the bear.

New Issue for Kansas.
In Kansas a new issue has projected itself on the public. A new head of the state university just arrived from the east has tried to make the professors wear caps and gowns during class work, with the result of evoking scoffs from students and condemnatory resolutions from politicians. Eastern contemporaries are commenting on the narrowness of fighting against caps and gowns, but a word or two might be said on the narrowness of fighting to introduce them where they are not wanted.—Exchange.

Why the Sluggard Was Discouraged.
And it came to pass that the Sluggard, after consulting the Sage from Sageville, heeded his advice and went to the Ant for the purpose of acquiring a job lot of wisdom. But when he finally arrived at the hill where the Ant tolled eighteen hours daily, he discovered a half-starved Ant eater making a one-course dinner of the Ant colony. "Verily," remarked the Sluggard to himself, as he turned away in disgust, "if that is the reward of industry, I shall continue to slug as heretofore."

New York Not Always First.
New York was not always the first city of America. In 1730 Philadelphia had a population of 12,000; Boston, 11,500, and New York, 8,600. Twenty years later, Philadelphia's population had risen to 18,000, Boston's to 14,000 and New York's to 10,000. In 1790 the Quaker City still led with 44,000; New York had jumped into second place with 33,000, while Boston stood at 18,000.
