AUGUST 26
NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC TICKET
 For President,
 ALTON B. PARKER
 OF NEW YORK.
 For Vice-President,
 HENRY G. DAVIS
 OF WEST VIRGINIA.

The man who led a charge which never occurred is of course just the man to bust the trusts—not.

Jim Hill is the merger king, of course, and among his royal possessions may be found the Minnesota-republican state ticket.

The Stearns county democrats got together at their convention and harmony prevailed. That is encouraging to outside democrats.

When the democratic party has been united it has always won. It is more united this year than any time since 1876, and that surely is a good sign.

All the great independent journals of the East are supporting Parker. If they were supporting Roosevelt, the republican press would hail this harbinger of success.

The President turned over to Mr. Morgan's firm the business of arranging the details of the Panama canal transfer. The commission was 1 per cent, or $400,000. Mr. Morgan is not opposing the president.—Commoner.

The Transcript thinks the Herald is interested in republican congressional politics. Of course we are. Haven't we as much right to take interest in that as the Transcript has to take interest in democratic county politics?

It's about time for the hot polloi of Mille Lacs county to come up with another five thou to help their distinguished fellow citizen, the candidate who heads the delightful aggregation on the republican state ticket. It seems strange that such a great business genius as Mr. Hill should waste time in doing things in such a roundabout way.

John Lind would have in this state no stronger or more enthusiastic supporters for governor than the men who differed with him at the Duluth convention. And he knows it, and appreciates the fact. Yet those same men would differ with him again if they saw fit. John Lind would leave Hill's pet in the shade by 50,000 votes.

The Long Prairie Argus, Postmaster Sheets' paper says: Mr. Dunn was nominated through the machinations of a gang of corrupt politicians aided by the president of the Great Northern railroad, and we have not hesitated to say so. If the people of the state want J. J. Hill and the hoodlums to select their governor, railroad commissioners, judges, etc., we can stand it as well as the rest.

Gen. Wilmon W. Blackmar, who has been chosen commander of the G. and Army of the Republic, is one of the few surviving distinguished soldiers of the war for the Union. He is a Pennsylvanian by birth, but of Massachusetts by nurture. He entered the service when a boy, as a private in a Pennsylvania cavalry regiment. He served under Custer, and before the close of the war he was adjutant-general of brigade and division provost-marshal. He was at Antietam, Stone River, Chickamauga, Chattanooga, in the Shenandoah valley campaign at Five Forks and other engagements at the close of the war.

DAVIS NOT HOSTILE TO LABOR.
 Roanoke, Va., August 18.—The following letter from H. G. Davis, the democratic candidate for vice president, has been made public here:
 Elkins, Va., August 15, 1904.
 Mr. I. V. Johnson, Roanoke, Va.:
 My dear Mr. Johnson—I am glad to have your letter calling my attention to the publication placing me in an attitude of hostility to the laboring class. No one who knows me personally or is at all acquainted with the circumstances of my life will put any credence in the statements to which you refer. I think I can well claim that I belong to the laboring class. For many years I worked in the ranks as a wage earner and I know what it is to earn my living by the sweat of my brow.

On the other hand, I have been a large employer of labor, in railroads, coal mines, lumber mills, etc., and have never had any serious trouble with our men. I can recall but two instances in which there were strikes, and these were of short duration and peacefully settled. No man has ever been discharged from our service because he was a union man, or been evicted from a company's house for any reason. I think you will find that the conditions of the railroad man and the miners in connection with the enterprises I have directed will compare most favorably with those in other localities of the country.

I have always believed, and my conviction came from the hard school of experience, that, measured by the character of the work he does and the cost of living, every man is entitled to the full compensation for his services.

I am charged with having instituted proceedings which led to an injunction against strikers by Judge Jackson of this state. The fact is I had nothing whatever to do with the case and knew nothing about the matter until I read of it in the newspapers. The injunction did not apply to the men in our employ nor any portion of them in anyway. On the contrary, I remember on one occasion one of our superintendents suggested an injunction against our men, and I declined to consider it.
 (Signed)
 H. G. DAVIS.

THE REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL FIGHT.

Park Rapids Enterprise, Rep.: As far as the Enterprise has been able to learn of the situation throughout the district there is a strong undercurrent that is decidedly in favor of Foster. He has a short but telling platform of his own on which he stands that the people takes stock in. In few words, without any preamble or fol-de-rol of any sort he declares for the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people; that trusts should be prohibited; that the tariffs should be revised wherever they can be and maintain the protection of American industries; that the tariff on lumber should be taken off; that the fullest reciprocity practicable with other nations should be established.

It is probable that a vigorous campaign will be carried on by both candidates from this time until the close of the primaries. Mr. Foster has the hearty support of the people of Meeker county where he lives and is very confident that he will poll a much larger vote everywhere than he did two years ago. If so he will be the next republican congressman from this district. In Hubbard county he is likely to have a good vote, and parties who are conversant with the situation in Wadena, Todd and Cass counties say that the woods and prairies are full of Foster men. He is a special favorite with the G. A. R. men, and by his straightforward appeal to the people themselves is winning his way and is likely to furnish another bigger surprise party to Mr. Buckman than he did two years ago.

FOSTER VERY CONFIDENT.

A. F. Foster of Litchfield, candidate for the republican nomination for congress, was interviewing voters of this vicinity between trains last Tuesday, and found considerable sentiment in his favor, says the New Paynesville Press, a republican paper. Mr. Foster says that Congressman Buckman's record as a pine grabber and the recent polite invitation forwarded to him by the attorney general to come to St. Paul and pay $5,000 for timber taken several years ago is being taken notice of by the people of the district very much to his (Foster's) advantage. This, coupled with the facts that Mr. Buckman publicly promised two years ago to not be a candidate this year makes Mr. Foster feel confident that he will become the chosen candidate of the party. As to Mr. Buckman's boast that he has secured a great number of mail routes Mr. Foster answers that comparatively as many routes have been established in every district in the state as in this and that none of the other congressmen have thought of calling attention to their record in this respect.

EXCHANGE WILL SHIP MONDAY.

The officers of the Farmers' Exchange have made arrangements to ship two cars of stock next Monday, one from Little Falls and one from Belle Prairie. Secretary P. A. Kull will be in the city tomorrow to look after stock that may be received. The directors of the Exchange will meet Sept. 1st to complete arrangements for buying wheat at Little Falls. Their elevator will open for business Sept. 10th.

Chairman John P. Langer of the Agram town board was in attendance at the democratic county convention Monday. On September 1st the town board will let a contract for building piers for a bridge across the Platte river.

Peter Mamer's residence, on Third street, north of T. J. Monahan's, is completed. P. J. Schommer did the carpenter work and the hardwood finish came from Andrew Molde's shop. The residence cost $2,000 and is a good improvement on the street.

Peter Arndt, while out picking hazelnuts near E. O. Williams place, west of the city, on Sunday, found some of the goods stolen on July 31st by tramps from a car in the N. P. yards billed to Anderson & Son. The robbers evidently changed their clothes, and left such stuff as they could not use.

The reports that wheat will not turn out as well as expected are verified by the statement of many farmers in the city this week, but the damage is not all over the county, some localities as wide apart as Buckman and Rail Prairie, coming out pretty well. The crop of oats is good, and it is remarked by many that rarely in Morrison county does the oat crop fail.

Josiah Page of Pike Creek returned Monday from a visit to New England. After attending the national encampment of the G. A. R. at Boston Mr. Page visited relatives at his old home at Hampton, N. H., and went to several New Hampshire towns before returning. He had a pleasant visit. Mr. Page brought back a lot of souvenirs, which he generously distributed among his friends. Mr. Page is descended from a family who were among the early settlers of New England, and his sister still lives on a place which has been in the possession of the family for two centuries.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF WITHDRAWAL OF CANDIDACY.

I hereby announce my withdrawal from the candidacy for the democratic nomination for superintendent of schools of Morrison county, which was subject to the democratic votes, at the primaries, in favor of Mr. Theodore Ortmann. My object in so doing, since Mr. Ortmann was determined to run, was to avoid any possible bitter feelings which might have arisen in the contest for nomination and thus split the ranks of the democratic voters at the election. I furthermore take this opportunity to extend my sincere thanks to all who have manifested interest and sympathy in my cause, by their encouragement and loyal support, especially to the good people of Belle Prairie, Ripley, Pierz and vicinity, whom I have had occasion to visit during my short canvassing period, and who adopted my cause with good will and enthusiasm. Urging all democrats to remain steadfast to the noble banner of democracy, and at the coming election to vote the straight democratic national, state, and county tickets.
 I am yours respectfully,
 Felix A. Boyer.

CARLYLE AS A CRITIC.

Carlyle Had Pronounced Views as to Leading Literary Men.

In his recently published letters Carlyle gives his views as to various men of letters of his time. He calls Tennyson "a very clever man" and "one of the powerfulest smokers I ever worked along with in that department." Ruskin, though "a bottle of beautiful soda water," was "very pleasant company now and then." Macaulay he considered "really a good sort of soul." The lecture to Browning, whom he strongly advised to try prose for a time, is rather amusing. "Unless I very greatly mistake, you seem to possess a rare spiritual gift, poetical, pictorial, intellectual, by whatever name we may prefer to call it; to unfold which into articulate clearness is naturally the problem of all problems for you. This noble endowment, it seems to me, further, you are not at present on the best way of unfolding—and if the world had loudly called itself content with these two poems, my surmise is, the world could have rendered you no fater disservice than that same! Believe me I speak with sincerity, and if I had not loved you well I would not have spoken at all."

NOT A TACTFUL REPLY.

Farewell Might Not Be Construed as Too Courteous.

The old friends had enjoyed their three days together, in spite of the fact that tact was not a conspicuous quality of either of them. "You have quite a pretty place here, John," said the guest, as he took a final look about him on the morning of his departure. "Quite a pretty place, though it looks a bit bare as yet." "O, that's because the trees are so young," said the host, comfortably. "I hope they'll have grown to a good size before you come again. Then you'll see how much improved the place will be," and they shook hands with mutual affection and good-will.—Youth's Companion.

Insults in Cambodia.

The following is quoted by the Gaulois from a French government report: "To cut off his head is the most serious insult that can be shown to a Cambodian; happily, this prejudice is not shared by the other people of Indo-China."

LOSS OR GAIN—The man who spends every cent of his income, no matter how large, is poorer than he who saves part of his, no matter how small. That's sound common sense. This advice is just as sound. Put few or many dollars, as often as you can spare them, into the strong box of the

AUTOPSY OVER MISS DAHL.

The Bemidji Pioneer of Saturday night says that the autopsy held Saturday afternoon over the remains of Miss Aagot Dahl revealed a bullet hole in the right shoulder and a wound in the skull as if she had been struck with an ax or some other heavy instrument. The garments of the murdered girl were covered with blood stains on the side where the bullet hole was found and it is thought that the bullet severed the artery. No flesh remained upon the bones. It is thought by the authorities that the girl had been shot first and wounded, had made her escape from her assailants, but the loss of blood had made her so weak that she could go no further and that when the murderers came up to her they finished her life by striking her on the head, crushing the skull.

Tree Provides Illumination.

The "tallow tree" of Malabar yields from the seeds of its fruit by boiling an excellent tallow, which serves as a valuable illuminant, both as oil and by candles which are made from it.

JOE MCCARTHY MAY GO TO WASECA.
 St. Cloud Times 23: It was announced today that instead of going to Bank Centre as has been originally talked of, in all probability Manager McCarthy of the local branch of the Coe Commission Co., would take the management of the company's branch at Waseca, Minn. St. Cloud friends will wish Mr. Mac and his wife good luck in their new home. It was expected today that a new man would succeed Ed Webb tomorrow at the Lewis office. The latter, as recently announced, is to take the local Coe management temporarily and probably later will go to the coast in the employ of the same house.
 Peter Garney was in Staples the first of the week.
