NEWS IN MINNESOTA

EVENTS OF A WEEK THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

Anson Blake, a prominent resident of St. Anthony Park, is dead, aged eighty-eight years.

Next year's meeting of the national conference of charities and corrections will be held in Minneapolis.

The twenty-fourth national convention of the Woman's Relief Corps will be held in Minneapolis Aug. 15 and 17.

A recount has been demanded in the St. Paul majority election, although Robert A. Smith's plurality was 1,501.

An outbreak of smallpox in Otter Tail county has been reported to Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state health board.

Nearly 550 graduates will receive degrees at the university commencement to be held in the university arena June 14.

Dehuel Sutherland, aged ninety-four years, who, as a contractor, built many bridges throughout the Northwest, is dead at St. Paul.

Alvin Johnson, a homesteader in northern Itasca county, shot and killed Fred Hemming. Johnson says he shot Hemming in self-defense.

The year-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Olson of Duluth was drowned by falling head foremost into a tub containing six inches of water.

Martin Sether, a loftman in the employ of Barnett & Record, who have the contract for building the new Mesaba ore dock at Duluth, fell from near the top of the dock and sustained injuries that caused his death an hour later.

Because of the valuable body of ore which is known to underlie the present site of the village of Sparta it now seems certain that the village will be removed bodily to a point just east of the Fayal mine some time in the near future.

The state can no longer offer rewards for the capture of criminals. Although $2,000 is appropriated for this purpose by the legislature of 1905 no provision is made for its disbursement and the old law regarding this is repealed by the new code.

A small bantam rooster attacked Elizabeth Hartigan, three years old, in the yard of her home at St. Paul, scratching out one of the child's eyes. The little girl was taken to the hospital, where it was discovered that the injuries were extremely serious.

The state supreme court, in an opinion rendered in a suit brought by four Indians of the Mille Lacs tribe against Gus H. Beaulieu, holds that an American Indian in the state of Minnesota may maintain an action in the courts of this state the same as a civilized person.

Building Inspector Klehly of Duluth has notified the church societies there that exits must be provided 57 feet in size for every 300 seating capacity, to be used in case of fire or panic from any cause. There are about fifty churches that will be affected and which must make the improvements.

The city council of Minneapolis has voted to set aside out of the waterworks fund the sum of $50,000 for a filtration plant and has voted to submit the issuance of bonds in the amount of $1,000,000 for the construction of a filtration plant to the legal voters of the city at the next election.

O-dub-naun-e-quay, the venerable queen of the Mississippi Chippewas, is dead at her home near White Earth agency, aged eighty years. She was a sister of May-shuck-eg-ship, hereditary head chief of the Minnesota (Mississippi) Chippewas and the present reigning head chief of the White Earth Chippewas.

William Wallace White, who was for many years county auditor of Faribault county and since a resident of Todd county, died at Wells one day last week while visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. E. Ford. He was seventy-eight years of age. Later in the day his brother, Mortimer L. White, living in the same house, died, aged seventy-six.

After being out but five hours the jury in the Jordan murder case at Ferguson Falls returned a verdict of not guilty. The verdict was a great surprise as the state introduced some very strong evidence and it was generally thought the Indian would be convicted. Jordan was on trial for shooting his wife in their home on the White Earth reservation.

Lightning struck and instantly killed Raymond Beard, a prominent young farmer residing near Pipestone, while driving on a drill. Mr. Beard was driving four horses abreast and, starting at the right, the lightning killed the first horse, stripped the collar from the second, leaving it unharmed; killed the third and tore the bridle from the fourth without damaging it.

Attorney General Young has brought suit for the state of Minnesota against the Western Union Telegraph company to recover $28,191 as taxes for 1905. The tax was assessed upon a valuation of $1,000,000, the total value of the taxable property in this state as fixed by the state board of equalization. The defendant company refused to honor the draft of State Auditor Iverson for the amount.

Stringent prohibitions against child labor have been discovered in the new code. No child under fourteen can be employed in a factory or workshop at any time and no child under sixteen shall be employed at any time in any place or at any occupation dangerous to life, health or morals. Under the old laws the same provisions were included, but were almost nullified by the section permitting such employment if the children had permits from the board of education.
