

IDAHO'S ADJ. GENERAL Former Little Falls Man Appointed to That Position

Friends of A. M. Rowe, several years ago superintendent of the Little Falls schools and now of Payette, Idaho, will be glad to learn that Prof. Rowe has been appointed to the very responsible position of Adjutant-General of Idaho. The Payette Independent of recent date says:

Adjutant General Rowe was the candidate of the Grand Army of the Republic, of which he was formerly commander in chief for the division of Idaho, for the position. He served during the civil war for three years in company A, Ohio light artillery and for 90 days in company G., Seventh Ohio infantry. In an engagement at Resaca, Ga., he was struck by a cannon ball which destroyed his hand and crippled his right arm. He attended college at Oberlin, Ohio, graduating in the class of 1872 of which United States Senator Burton was a distinguished member. Seven years ago he came to Idaho, locating at Payette. He was superintendent of schools until two years ago when he went to McCammon.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

Albert Olson, a farmer residing near Freedheim, had a very narrow escape at the Broadway west N. P. crossing shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Olson says that the gates were up and his team was just going onto the tracks, from the west, when he received warning from two men nearby of the approach of a train, and that were it not for quick action on the part of himself and team, the train would undoubtedly have collided into him. He further claims that there were grave doubts whether another team so situated would have been able to clear the tracks in time.

SWALLOWS SAFETY PIN.

The eleven-months-old daughter of J. G. Croto, engineer on the steam shovel at Darling, was taken to this city Tuesday evening to have a safety pin, which the little tot had partially swallowed, extracted from her throat. Shortly after supper, in playing with a medium sized safety pin which was open, it went in her throat and lodged there. The point of the pin was stuck upward, making it that much harder to extract. The throat was lacerated slightly in taking the pin out, but the little girl is now getting along nicely.

The city on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday was given over completely to the entertainment of the Catholic Order of Foresters, who met here in their ninth bi-annual convention. Delegates from all parts of the state were present, numbering over two hundred, a number being accompanied by their wives; also a large number of visitors were present. The large bulk of the delegates came to the city on the 10:15 train Monday night, being met at the depot by the committee and band, marching to everyday life for the benefit of their members and mankind generally. The Catholic Order of Foresters, he said, worked in conjunction with the church, and acknowledged the same ruler as their head. At these gatherings they showed their faith in religion in the outward manifestation incident to the proper carrying out of the convention program. Although societies are at this time very strong, it would be found their life as compared with that of the church would suffer greatly by comparison, as the church was so founded that it would ever bear in mind the virtues of charity and kindness that can at all times be extended to others.

After the mass the delegates marched to the court house, where the convention was held. The hall as well as the corridors was gaily decorated in the colors of the order and the national colors and made a very pretty effect. Many citizens, not members of the order, were in attendance.

The meeting was called to order by Chas. E. Vasaly, chairman of the executive committee, who on behalf of the mayor of the city of Little Falls, citizens, and the local court of Foresters, welcomed the delegates to our city. He expressed his feelings by telling a story of the young man, who on being accepted by his lady love, had that same kindly feeling towards all the world. At that particular time he felt the same way. He said that the C. O. F., founded on charity, was one of the greatest of societies, and was composed of Catholic Christian gentlemen, of the highest type of citizenship. He said, that it was indeed most proper that the Catholic Order of Foresters should meet here, as in this very same vicinity was great work done by the early Catholic missionaries among the warring Sioux and Chippewa. Among these were Father Pierz, Father Buh and Bishop Trobec, who showed great self-sacrifice, suffering privations of all sorts, in their great work in upbuilding religion and civilization.

The welcome was not to be formal, but the delegates would find the city one big heart beating a truly warm welcome for them. He told the bachelor delegates to not be backward when they met the young ladies carrying a badge of "Ask Me." Mr. Vasaly also announced that the freedom of the Commercial club and the pool and billiard tables were at the disposal of the delegates at any time; also that papers from the different towns from which the delegates hailed could also be found at the club. The ladies were taken in hand by the local members of the Lady Foresters at the Elk's hall, and were driven about the city and otherwise entertained.

The speaker hoped that all would be happy and glad during their stay, and if they were not, they should so report, and the matter would be adjusted accordingly.

Mr. Vasaly said as he was still czar of the convention he would exercise his prerogatives by calling on some of those present. Father Altendorf addressed the convention very briefly, welcoming the delegates on behalf of his people, and trusted that their stay here would be productive of much good, and he was confident that this would be so.

Father Plachta of Royalton, the next speaker, said that he was most agreeably surprised on Monday evening, to see the visitors received with such cordiality and good feeling, and the city illuminated and decorated in such style. The father also told a couple of excellent stories to show his feelings. His address was very well received.

Father Welp, chaplain of St. Gabriel's hospital, was introduced, said that he himself was a comparative stranger in the city, and after few short remarks, begged to be excused. The chairman here stated that he had forgotten to say anything about the keys of the city—it had no keys—the city and the hearts of its citizens

Mrs. F. Church, a Former Little Falls Girl, Meets a Horrible Fate in N. D.

Mrs. Frank Church, aged 26 years, formerly Miss Emily Cherrier of Little Falls, and daughter of T. L. Cherrier of this city, was burned to death on Monday of last week in a kerosene explosion that occurred at her home on her claim twenty miles from Lemmon, N. D. It is thought that the explosion took place when Mrs. Church was lighting the fire by pouring the kerosene oil over the coals in the kitchen stove. The burning oil caught to her clothing and bare flesh and she was so horribly burned that her limbs dropped from her body when they attempted to lift the corpse.

Mr. Church, who was working on the outside of the house when the explosion occurred, hurried in when he heard the cries of his wife and managed to take her outside, but her injuries were such that she succumbed to them before the open air was reached.

Miss Lucy Cherrier of this city received a telegram Wednesday of last week to go to Lemmon, N. D., at once, no particulars being given, which she did, and on reaching there was horrified when she was made aware of the tragic death of her sister.

The funeral was held last Saturday, interment taking place at Lemmon, N. D.

Deceased was very well known to the residents of this city. She was wedded to John Terry, a tailor, some years ago, and after which they moved to Canada. She later secured a divorce from Terry, and married Frank Church, immediately moving to North Dakota and taking a claim near Lemmon.

The tragic death of the unfortunate woman, is especially sad to the relatives, two other members of the family having met untimely deaths, one by drowning and the other through a sudden attack of heart disease. The relatives have the sympathy of the community in their great sorrow.

GIANT GRIP MATTERS

To Start Up Plant in Month --Local Capital to be Invested

N. N. Bergheim attended the first meeting of the creditors in the bankruptcy proceedings of the Giant Grip Horse Shoe company in Duluth Tuesday, where he represented the local creditors. It was desired to have a local man elected as trustee of the company in bankruptcy, but John Kohler of Frazee exercised his prerogatives as the majority creditor of the concern and was elected trustee, under a bond of $15,000. John Vertin of this city, and James Daly and Emil Burrow of Frazee were appointed as a board of appraisers.

There is no doubt whatever that the creditors will be paid in full, and if there is a balance left, it will go to the stockholders. The assets of the concern are placed at $34,000 and the liabilities at $33,346.

It is probable that more local capital will be invested in the Giant Grip Horse Shoe plant, and the factory will start operations again in about a month.
