CEMENT CONSTRUCTION

Many Uses to Which Cement Can be Put by the Farmer

Cement is rapidly replacing lumber as a building material for a large part of construction work on the farm. With very little experience, but with care and attention to details, one who is at all handy can do many useful pieces of work on the farm: as, laying foundations, making floors, troughs, posts, etc. For the amateur cement-worker, the following facts and figures will be found useful.

Portland cement is sold by the barrel, about 400 pounds per barrel gross, which should always be used for general farm construction.

The cloth sack is the more general way of shipping, there being four cloth sacks to the barrel.

One sack contains nearly one cubic foot, or more closely, .95 of a cubic foot, and should weigh 98 pounds.

Four general mixtures are used depending upon the quality of the sand and gravel, also upon the nature of the work or upon the strain to which it will be subjected.

Cement Sand Gravel
(a) Rich mixture 1 2 1
(b) Medium mixture 1 2 1/2 5
(c) Ordinary mixture 1 3 6
(d) Lean mixture 1 4 9

(a) is used for reinforced concrete work, concrete floor construction in office buildings, footings for heavy engines.

(b) is used for a little less important work, as large building foundations, cement posts, steps, troughs, etc.

(c) is used for less important work, as light walls, retaining walls, etc.

(d) is used for grouting floors in barns and residences.

Amount of cement, sand and gravel required for one cubic yard of concrete:

	Barrels	Cubic Yd.	Cubic Yd.
	Cement	Sand	Gravel
a	1.57	.44	.88
b	1.29	.45	.91
c	1.10	.46	.93
d	.85	.48	.96

Note.—Cement is in terms of barrels, while sand and gravel are in terms of cubic yards.

Finish Coat.—The above formulae are used for foundation work, piers, etc. If a finish coat is desired as for cement walks, etc., screened sand and cement are used alone, the mixture depending upon the use to which it is to be put.

Formula for finish surface:

1 barrel cement with 1 barrel sand will cover 98 square feet 1 inch thick.

For surfacing cow barn floors and for walks and drives, use 1 and 2. For heavy, sharp-shod horses, use 1 and 1. For chicken coop, hog barn and basement floors a mixture of 1 to 3 can be used.

I. W. BOUCK

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR LEGISLATURE FORTY-EIGHTH DISTRICT.

Minnesota Union Advocate: I. W. Bouck, one of the successful merchants and enterprising citizens of Royalton, in the Forty-eighth legislative district, has again filed as a candidate for the state house of representatives from that district. He represented the district in part in the legislatures of 1903, 1905 and 1907, and sought to be returned to that of 1909, but was defeated in his aspirations in this respect by the rival of his brother, C. W. Bouck, of the same district. His brother is also a candidate, and the fight between them is on and being waged with vigor and intensity.

In his past service in our law-making body Mr. Bouck served repeatedly on the labor committee of the house of representatives and at all times showed himself to be earnest, ardent and effective in the service of organized labor, with real devotion to its best interests and a full courage in declaring and standing by his convictions on the subject. We commend him to the union voters of his district as a true and tried friend of the whole labor movement who can be relied on to do everything in his power to help that movement in all its proper aspirations. At this time, when the unions are seeking to secure the election of their proven friends to legislative positions, all of them which have the opportunity should warmly support Mr. Bouck and do what they can to get him elected. They should be careful, too, about the initials of his name, which are I. W. and not by mistake give their aid to his brother, who has filed as Chas. Bouck.—adv.

A PIPE-YARD.

A complete pipe-yard and pipe-testing plant has been acquired by San Francisco for the purpose of making exhaustive tests of all the cast iron to be used for the distribution of city water. When in need of a wholesome table beverage for the summer months try golden grain belt beer. A trial will convince you of its refreshing and invigorating qualities. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by E. S. Tanner, Little Falls.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE SEVENTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF MINNESOTA:

At the instance and request of all members of the bar at Fergus Falls, who practice in the courts, and a very general request of the bar of the district, I hereby announce myself a candidate for the republican nomination for Judge of said District, at the next primary election to be held September 20, 1910.—J. W. Mason, 14 tf Fergus Falls, Minn.
