Plain Talk on Lumber Buying
While lumber is beyond question the cheapest form of construction, that does not necessarily mean that it should be applied haphazardly throughout a building without regard to cost or relative merits. Such use would be equal to pure extravagance in view of the many grades and kinds of lumber that are today offered. Price per thousand is certainly very misleading and for that reason we prefer to go into details with our customers and ascertain for just what use they intend the lumber we sell them. In rendering our customers this sort of service, we are frequently able to save them money and at the same time insure them better results and more lasting durability. Such service, we maintain, entitles us to your lumber business. Think it over. Then come in and get our ideas.

Studebaker
BUGGIES

"You can always tell a Studebaker Buggy"
ITS fine lines, quiet elegance and attractive appearance make it noteworthy in any company.
Sixty years of vehicle building experience are incorporated in a Studebaker buggy. When you buy a Studebaker you protect yourself against the mistakes of younger builders.
Look at the flexible, bent-reach gear, the slender yet sturdy wheels, the carefully-made plugless body, the double ironed shafts and many other exclusive features.
Studebaker buggies have no equal either in construction, or in snappy, stylish appearance.
Come in and let us show you these buggies.
