

FUNERAL OF LATE GOVERNOR

HELD AT ST. JAMES MONDAY AFTERNOON—REMAINS VIEWED BY THOUSANDS

Escorted by several men of high public standing, officially, from other states, the remains of the late Governor Winfield Scott Hammond of this state, who succumbed Thursday morning of last week at Clinton, Louisiana, arrived at St. Paul at 10:45 Saturday morning, and were immediately placed in the big rotunda at the state capitol, where they laid in state and were publicly viewed by thousands of people, on Monday, the day of the funeral.

Dr. R. C. Swearingen, pastor of the House of Hope church, held a short service at the state capitol at 9:30 Monday morning. The active pallbearers then took charge of the casket and carried it to a caisson draped in the stars and stripes, preceded by the first regiment of the Minnesota National Guard.

Sorrowful crowds lined the streets through which the funeral procession passed, en route to the union depot. Twenty-seven militiamen guarded the remains to the depot, where they were placed on board a special train for St. James, the old home of the deceased, for burial.

The funeral was held from the Presbyterian church in that city Monday afternoon and burial took place at sunset.

ATTEMPT TO DESTROY BRAINERD DAM

Charged with attempting to destroy the dam of the Northwest Paper company across the Mississippi River in Brainerd, by placing 100 pounds of dynamite under it, and lighting the fuse attached to it, but which providentially failed to explode, William Fischer of that city was arrested the first of the week there. The attempt to dynamite the dam is alleged to have taken place on November 7, according to the complain of W. P. Glenn, engineer for the Northwest Paper company.

Fischer, who is a resident of Brainerd, and an employe of the railroad shops, owns a homestead, located just above the dam. He disposed of his flogage rights for $100 some time ago and it is believed that his attempt to dynamite the dam had something to do with this.

It is stated that a confession was secured.

THE INFANT PRODIGY

You've heard about the boy who leads at school, And the manly kid of six who swam the pool; Of the boy who knows his Homer—famous he And the one who played the violin beautifully at three; Of the girl who knows her Shakespeare through and through, Of the mathematic marvel and his sums of two and two, But there's another Infant Prodigy, Who is greater far than these, He's not the perfect little boy Who minds his q's and p's; I know his sphere is lowly, He deserves greater renown, He's the kid who stays at home and works When the circus comes to town—Ex.

SISTER OF MRS. LYON DEAD—FATHER VERY LOW

Mrs. F. W. Lyon of this city received the sad news Saturday of the death of her sister, Mrs. C. T. Bascom of Chicago, Ill., of pneumonia, on New Year's morning. She had been ill only three days. She was 60 years of age. The remains will be brought here for burial.

His case is considered remarkable by the attending physician, as for nearly a week his death has been expected every minute. He has been ill over three weeks.

Mrs. Thompson is also well along in years, having passed the eighty-second milestone. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson celebrated the 61st anniversary of their wedding last September. They were here for a visit with their daughter at Christmas time a year ago, when a family reunion was held, at which four generations were represented.

Inspiration In Dreams.

Coleridge must be added to the list of authors who have found inspiration in dreams, for he himself has told us that he composed over 200 lines of the "Kubla Khan" during a sleep of three hours. On awaking he wrote down the fragment now existing, but the interruption of a visitor banished the rest from his mind. The first idea of "The Ancient Mariner," too, was suggested to the poet by a dream of his friend Cruikshank. And Kipling's "Greatest Story In The World" was but the half remembered dream of a commonplace young man.—London Mail.

What Makes Mirrors Reflect?

Mirrors that are made of glass have metal placed on one side of the glass. The light will pass through the glass, but will not pass through the metal backing. Light has the property of bounding from a surface that it cannot penetrate, the same as a ball would when thrown against a surface that it cannot penetrate. The light passes through the glass of the mirror, meets the metal backing and then bounds from it. This bounding of the light from the metal surface is called reflection, and mirrors are said to reflect.—St. Nicholas.

A German Legend.

The Germans have a legend of Frederick Barbarossa that he is not dead, but in an enchanted sleep, sitting with his knights at a marble table in the cavern of Kyffhausen, in the Harz mountains. His long red beard has grown during this long enchantment and, covering the table, descends to the floor, and he sits thus waiting the moment that will set him free. There he has been kept for long centuries. There he must stay for ages.

HAROLD KNUTSON.

Well known St. Cloud newspaper man who fled for the Republican nomination for Congress for the Sixth District on Monday, January 3.

Regarding his candidacy the St. Cloud Journal-Press had the following editorial on Dec. 28:

BOOSTER FOR MINNESOTA.

Harold Knutson, Republican candidate for congress in the Sixth district, has been all his life a booster for Minnesota.

He is a newspaper man of experience, having been publisher and editor of the Royalton Banner, and the Foley Independent, and was for some time the efficient city editor of the Journal-Press.

For three winters he was with the state car advertising Minnesota in the adjoining states, and since then has been engaged in bringing into the state the best class of farmers from Illinois and Iowa.

He has made a study of conditions in Minnesota and other states, and no man in the commonwealth has a better understanding of the needs of the state, and especially of Northern Minnesota. He is a member of the Northern Minnesota Development association, and has been president of the Northern Minnesota Editorial association, which is the best evidence of his excellent standing with the newspaper boys.

He is a young man of ability, and the word "hustler" fits him exactly. His character is of the best, and no man could go farther or work harder to help his district and his state than would Harold Knutson. He would be an excellent man to send to congress and to keep there, when his ability would be aided by experience, and he would be invaluable as a servant of the district.

This is the era of the young men, and it is time for a new deal in this district.

The Journal-Press asks for Mr. Knutson the careful consideration of the Republicans of the district. In him they will have a candidate who will devote his time and his energy to the service of the district.

SAY "HELLO!"

When you see of friend in woe, walk right up and say "Hello!" Say, "Old Brother, how'd' ye do; How's the world a usin' you?" Walk right up, and don't be slow, laugh and shake, and say "Hello!" Slap the brother on the back; bring your hand down with a smack. His clothes are poor—makes no show, never mind, just say "Hello!" That home-spun shirt may conceal a great strong heart, true as steel; that old coat and shabby vest cuts no ice, but do your best to make him happy here on earth and to feel that he's of worth. Don't you know that such a chap has every day his sure mishap? All he needs is hearty cheer to make him happy while he's here. Don't let him think, that the earth was dead against him since his birth. Crack his shell, draw him out; don't let him whine, slunk or pout. Make him tell you all the woes of his heart before he goes. Don't tell him he's a chump but tell him to get up and hump; tell him not to be so slow, but get around and say "Hello!" I'm alive, what can I do to help myself, as well as you? Do not wait until he's dead to strew bouquets around his head. Nice words spoken are out of place, if not said before his face. Make him see that you're his friend, and will stay such to the end. Yes, tell him now though he's rough; "Why, old brother, you're just the stuff this world needs to make it go; now brace up and cry, "Hello!" There are plenty such about, that are worth the digging out. In this way you surely can make him feel that he's a man. He will always think of you as his best friend, tried and true. In the future you will know what good it does to say "Hello!"—Ex.

BATTLE IN SENATE ON SHELL EXPORTS; EMBARGO IS URGED

NELSON STARTS FRAY BY AROUSING O'GORMAN WITH QUESTION AS TO MCNEELY'S PATRIOTISM.

WILSON IS ADVISED TO GO SLOWLY IN PRESENT CRISIS

President Should Heed Interest of 99,000,000 Rather Than a "Thousand Reckless Citizens Who Travel on Belligerent Ships," Says Jones.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Bonds of restraint against public discussion of international relations of the United States incident to the European war were broken in the Senate and the session was enlivened by debate over the government's neutrality policy, exports of war munitions, and travel by Americans on ships owned by belligerents.

Senator Jones of Washington, Republican, read a newspaper editorial urging American citizens to keep off belligerent ships and advising the president to proceed slowly in the present crisis, heeding the interest of 99,000,000 rather than that of a "thousand reckless, inconsiderate and unpatriotic citizens who insist on traveling on belligerent ships."

Nelson Starts Fray. Senator Nelson of Minnesota then started the fray. He aroused Senator O'Gorman of New York, Democrat, by asking whether Senator Jones regarded Consul McNeely unpatriotic because he sailed for his post on the Persia.

"The ship that carried the peace party," Senator Nelson declared, "was as liable to be torpedoed as any other."

The New York senator explained that McNeely had declined to heed Consul General Skinner's advice to sail on a Dutch ship and blazed the way to general debate on the position of the United States in the war.

There was no division along party lines. Senator Works of California, Republican, asserted that the government of the United States "was hypocritically" claiming to be neutral when it was in fact participating in the war through the sale of munitions.

Embargo "Grossly Unneutral." Senator Lodge, ranking Republican member of the foreign relations committee, declared that to place an embargo on arms now would be worth more to Germany than a million men, that it would be a "grossly unneutral act" and, in fact, would make the United States the ally of Germany.

Senator O'Gorman and Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, both Democrats, urged the advisability of an embargo on munitions.

Asserting at the outset that the government shared responsibility for deaths of Americans on the Lusitania, Senator Works said:

"The government knew that the Lusitania was loaded to the guards with ammunition and explosives. Passengers, in spite of this, were permitted to travel on the vessel. The government itself, in full knowledge that the ship carried munitions of war, is morally responsible for the deaths of our citizens."

Declares U. S. in War. When Senator Works declared the United States actually was participating in the war by the sale of munitions, Senator Reed, Democrat, interrupted to ask:

"Does the senator not know that the first loan placed in this country after the war began was a loan of $25,000,000 to Germany and that the loan was made without protest from him or any other citizen? Does the senator not know that Germany procured arms in this country as long as it was possible for her to get them?"

"That may all be true," Senator Works replied, "but that does not alter the situation."

Stone Ends Debate. Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee ended the debate pointing out that the debate was out of order and ended it by moving an executive session.

"I have not objected up to this time," he explained. "I believed it was very well to let it run a little while by way of feeling out and getting an index to the Senate."

U. S. Opposes Grey's Plan. Washington, Jan. 6.—It was authoritatively stated that the United States government would not agree to the suggestion by Sir Edward Grey to Germany that a tribunal of American naval officers investigate belligerent charges and counter-charges of inhuman conduct by naval officers.

Identifies Slain Bandits. Minneapolis, Jan. 6.—Alfonse Garant, serving a 40-day sentence in the workhouse for petit larceny, has confessed, according to the police, to complicity in several robberies, and has identified the two bandits, Charles Carson and "Montana Pete," killed recently by St. Paul police, as men with whom he worked on several "jobs."

"Montana Pete's" real name, he says, was Albert Johnson. The police say Garant will be rearrested when he finishes the workhouse sentence, and charged with robbery.

PRICE JURY BOX IS UNFILLED

THREE SEATS STILL VACANT AT ADJOURNMENT.

Man Accused of Murdering Wife Gets as Talesmen Admit they're Prejudiced.

Minneapolis, Jan. 6.—With a special venire of 20 men on hand from which to select two more jurors for Frederick T. Price for the murder of Mrs. Mary Fridley Price, attorneys and spectators assembled before Judge Fish in district court at 2:30 p. m. full of confidence that the tireless preliminaries of the murder trial would be completed during the afternoon and that the state would begin drawing from its witnesses the details of the tragedy at the cliff near St. Anthony Parkway that resulted in the death of Mrs. Price.

Jury Loses One Member. Three hours later both attorneys and spectators arose, tired and discouraged. Instead of being completed the jury had lost one member, the 20 new veniremen had been examined and found wanting and an order had been issued for a second venire of 25 men. The actual beginning of the trial seemed further away than ever.

Twenty-one veniremen were examined altogether during the afternoon session, making 71 talesmen examined since the trial began. One after another the veniremen told of having read or talked about the Price case, admitted having formed an opinion as to Price's guilt or innocence and were excused for actual bias.

Price Begins to Fidget. As the afternoon wore on, Price began to fidget in his chair. Unlike his behavior at the morning session he did not chat with his attorney except when consultation over a juror's qualifications necessitated it, but somewhat aloof from the others at his table, as if disheartened, as the talesmen looked at him and admitted prejudice.

Surveyors who will describe the scene of the tragedy and physicians who will tell the nature of Mrs. Price's wounds will be the first witnesses to be called by the state after Mr. Armstrong makes his opening address to the jury.

Certain changes are said to have been made in the measure which will make it more acceptable to its opponents than last year.

France Heeds U. S. Protest. Fort De France, Martinique, Jan. 6.—The German and Austrian subjects taken from American steamships by the French cruiser Descartes and brought here, have been set at liberty in accordance with the decision of the French government after a protest had been made by Washington. The Germans and Austrians will sail for New York at once on the steamer Parima.
