

Next trip to town, get a United States Cream Separator

'Better Chalk It Up on the Barn Door, Burt'

I know a fellow who has a long head but a short memory. He thinks straight; but sometimes his best thoughts jump the fence and get lost in the woods. When his wife wants him to hang on to a good idea, she always says, "Better chalk it up on the barn door, Burt. What's the good of thinking without doing?"

Now I have a "hunch" that ever since you've been reading about the United States Separator, you've been thinking that, sooner or later, you would get me to "show you over" the machine. Isn't that right? And each time you came to town you forgot to stop! Own up! Didn't you?

You know as well as I do that the U. S. is the closest skimming Separator made,—that it costs no more than the old-style disc machine,—that it is easy to run, easy to clean, easy to keep in repair. Of course you know all that,—and that eventually you will make a deal with me for a United States Cream Separator. Still, you forgot to look us over. Say, "Burt," I will pay for the chalk, if you will write down on the barn door—

"Next trip to town, get a United States Cream Separator."

Anyway, it will be time well spent, and it will not obligate you in any way, to come in and look around. Here's hoping to see you soon—

(George Bingham)

Poke Eazley, who has been sitting around all spring, got up yesterday.

A balloon ascension will take place at Tickville Saturday week. A large crowd will be present as the man may fall out.

Fletcher Henstep has been summoned to serve on a jury at Tickville next week. Fletch has already made up his mind in the case, as the defendant is some of his wife's kinfolks. Dock Hooks has been reproved for wearing his sleeves rolled up on Sunday. It is said that he does it to show his big muscle. When asked about it the other day he contended that he has as much right to do that as the girls have to wear short skirts for the same purpose.

Washington Hocks, who in his younger days held his shoulders up and kept his hair combed, is now getting quite old. He does not care for style like he used to and has let his mule's mane and tail grow out.

Raz Barlow dressed up Monday and went to Rye Straw. It was his intention to arrive there smoking a cigar, but the one he had got broke Sunday night.

The Tin Peddler, who takes a hand in everything, both for the sake of business and pleasure, this week joined a funeral procession this side of Bounding Billows, but dropped out at a wide place in the road, so that his horse could take its time.

The Deputy Constable has been shadowing a stranger on Musket Ridge for the past several days, and after having found out for certain that the man had done nothing, the Deputy, ever on his job, then arrested him for that.

A man who sells books on subscription was through here this week. Nobody bought any, as we don't need them so long as we have the Wild Onion School Teacher with us.

Tobe Moseley's watch stopped suddenly while he was at the breakfast table Tuesday morning. The Tin Peddler was hastily summoned, but has not as yet been able to again set the wheels in motion.

Cricket Hicks has asked for the job of blowing the whistle on the train running into Tickville. He would make visit with relatives and friends here. They were accompanied home by Mrs. N. E. Cary of this city and Mrs. B. F. Case of St. Paul.

Dr. L. M. Roberts returned Saturday from a short business visit in the twin cities.

Barney Grzeza has returned from Minneapolis, where he attended the state university.

L. A. Snelling, construction superintendent for the Northwestern Telephone Exchange company at Brainerd, spent Sunday with his family here.

Mrs. Carrie Robinson of Onamia, arrived Saturday for a week's visit with relatives here. She is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. Graham.

Miss Mabel Gustafson, who is employed at Fargo, came home Sunday for a few days' visit.

Inger Johnson was in Minneapolis for a visit with friends the first of the week.

Clifton Roberts returned Monday to Fessenden, N. D., where he is employed, after a visit with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Roberts.

Mrs. D. J. Bell went to Minneapolis Saturday for a few days' visit with friends.

a good hand, as he has had several months' experience ringing the Dog Hill church bell.

There is fine prospect for a good crop of persimmons on Musket Ridge this fall if Tobe Moseley don't put a fence around the trees and claim that he grow them for his own use.

The Postmaster has declared next Monday a national holiday, he having set aside that date to plant his garden.

A Word on Mites

The mite is a very energetic insect well known to the feathered kingdom. The species may be found on various kinds of fowls, and at all times may be discovered in action. The appetite of the mite varies, but from the best evidence to be gathered by a bystander it would seem that it has an appetite much larger than the actual dimensions of its body. What it does with all the chicken it eats is a mystery to all chickens. It is declared that in the average lifetime of an ordinary chicken mite, said mite eats that which is equal in bulk to several large Plymouth Rock roosters. The mite, which has several legs, is very alert, but travels slowly and with much care, and does its work well. In this respect it differs widely from its more robust cousin, the flea, which has no system whatever about its work, and no special ground to cover. That may be given as a reason why the flea does not stand any higher in the insect kingdom than it does. A flea may be here at this moment actively engaged in a certain piece of annoyance, and the next moment it may be far removed from that place. Therefore no person can depend upon a flea. But one can always depend upon a mite. It remains at its post, or within calling distance, and does its work well. But with all this is abhors publicity and is rarely observed by the public eye, and there is no case on record where a newspaper photographer has got a picture of one.

In the Coffee Business Since 1899

We have just installed a big coffee roaster which roasts with coal instead of gas. The reason we made this change was to get away entirely from any gas odors, while you get more or less roasting with gas.

With the new coal roaster we are putting out roasts far superior to any roasting done by gas.

Our blends speak for themselves. Try any of our coffee and see the difference between fresh roasted and coffee that has been roasted all the way from three to six months before you get to use it.

"Backward" Students Often Unjustly Blamed

Defective vision is prevalent among the school children to an alarming extent—competent authorities have estimated that more than 25 per cent of all school children need glasses.

The effect of poor vision upon the health and standing of school children is generally recognized by municipal authorities. Scholars that have been termed "stupid" or "indifferent" have frequently headed the class after they have been fitted with correct glasses.
