DUNK BOTTS, Regular Correspondent
(George Bingham)

Atlas Peck thinks if he was running a store he would buy things in carload lots, so that he could get more of them. Gander Creek is slowly rising since the rains, and Poke Eazley, who has been on a protracted fishing spree, has had to get up and move back twice already.

Now that the Deputy Constable has his own interests as a candidate well under hand, he will help Woodrow Wilson out in his race.

Fit Smith predicts a hard winter, since observing that the hair on the north side of the Tin Peddler's horse is thickening up.

Since discovering that he sleeps with his feet to the north, Sim Flinders has put another pillow under his head.

Washington Hocks has ordered a gallon of Bat Smith's Moonlight Reel licker, which he will use subject to the action of the democratic party this fall.

Atlas Peck's hound dog followed him to church last Sunday and went inside, but got up and left before the sermon was over.

The big dance that is usually given in honor of the Deputy Constable every time he takes office, has been declared off in case he is elected this time, as the Deputy has decided it ain't right. He has been induced by Raz Rarlow and other warm supporters, however, to wear his derby hat on the day he is inaugurated.

The Tickville opera house is being cleaned up for the next show, which is to be "Lena Rivers," and the orchestra will be requested not to stand up in front during the most interesting scenes.

Not having anything else to do, Jefferson Potlocks climbed to his house-top yesterday to watch the clouds pass.

Ellick Hellwanger has traded for a new pistol and is preparing to shoot a man living near Bounding Billows as soon as he can get his witnesses organized.

A committee of church women started over to the Calf Ribbs neighborhood the other day with a lot of flowers for a sick woman, but changed their minds before getting there, deciding it would be best to wait until the woman died. The Hogwallow Improvement society walked down the road in a body the other day to meet the Tin Peddler. A goodly number of our people accompanied the society as just plain citizens. The peddler did not lose much time in Hogwallow but missed several other things.

Yam Sims, who has been riding a tall, yellow mule for some time past has swapped it for a smaller one, to conform with the hitching post at the home of Miss Flutie Belcher.

The editor of the Tickville Tidings has ordered a lot of comas and periods, as a good many of his subscribers objected to reading the whole paper at one time without stopping.

Gimlet Creek was out of its banks yesterday and covered a considerable portion of Poke Eazley's farm. Some damage will be the result, and he will bring suit if he can find out who is to blame.

Fishing has been right dull on Gander creek. The Wild Onion school teacher spent a day recently on the banks of the stream and reports that, while he earnestly solicited their support in his endeavors and held out every inducement to them, the fish seemed disinclined to take hold of anything he had to offer.

Miss Flutie Belcher, who had herself put on the program at the musical by request, has had to withdraw from the program on account of a mouse having let all the wind out of her accordion the other night.

EXPERT JUDGMENT OF TOBACCO.

YOU can't go wrong, if you follow the judgment of men who have found the rich tobacco. A ten cent pouch of W-B CUT Chewing has got more tobacco satisfaction in it than twice as much ordinary chewing. Take half as much at a chew—that's the idea. The touch of salt brings out the rich flavor, cuts out the grinding and spitting, and makes it a gentleman's chew.

The bigger the roof, the more reason for Paroid

The importance of the roofing increases with the importance and value of the building.

The owners of the largest barns, railroads and manufacturing use the good old reliable Neponset Paroid Roofing.

Use this material on the sides as well as the roof and you will protect your live stock and your pocket book.

Protection against leaks, repairs and—most important—fire.

We would be pleased to have you look over our stock

Paroid Roofing in rolls and shingle style is an unequalled covering for buildings of all descriptions and costs no more than the inferior grades.

Roofing, however, is but a part of our stock of building material as we also handle sash, doors, windows, wall board, etc.

Floor Covering Bird's famous Floor Covering takes the place of linoleum and costs half. Wears like iron.
