ORCHARD AND GARDEN NOTES

Look over the fruits and vegetables in the cellar and see that none are decaying. A little sand over the carrots, beets, and other root crops will hold the moisture more evenly and prevent the roots shriveling and drying out. They should be kept in a cool place. Send to the Division of Publications, Washington, D. C., for Farmers' Bulletins No. 829 on asparagus and No. 837 on the asparagus beetle. Protect trees and shrubs from rabbits now. Some of the wire or wood protectors are good. Burlap, paper, or even corn fodder, may be tied on with good results. Thoroughly rotted manure scattered over the lawn just before snow comes helps to keep the snow on ever winter and also adds much needed fertility to the soil. Be sure the ground is clean about trees and shrubs. This will prevent mice from finding a nesting place near the trunk and save the trees from being girdled. The United States Department of Agriculture experts have estimated that the war gardens of the United States have added more than $100,000,000 to the country's wealth. They at least have acquainted many with gardening and outdoor life who did not appreciate either before. Tobacco preparations will keep the aphids or green fly found on house plants in check, but will not save much effect on the white fly. When plants are infested with white fly they may be thoroughly washed by dipping in water. If white flies are numerous, it may be safest to destroy the plant entirely to prevent the insect spreading to other plants.—LeRoy Cady, associate horticulturist, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn.

Extensive Repairs to Old Buildings Sometimes Pay Big.

If you have any buildings that with extensive repairs can be made good for several years' more service, you can easily see how it will pay you to invest in those repairs. And of course it is always good business to keep comparatively new buildings in good shape ALL the time by making repairs as fast as the need shows up.

Keep Repair Stock on Hand All the Time and then repair jobs don't get so big. You fix weak spots as soon as you find them. Come and tell us just what repair work you want to do and let us see if we can't locate some money saving stock for your particular work in our sheds.
