With six games played with other high school teams in this district, and one game with the All Stars of this city, the local high school basketball team still is undefeated. Their last victory was at Aitkin last Friday evening, the Aitkin boys being trimmed by a score of 26 to 13, in what was considered a good game.

In the second half they made the same number of points, but this time they made five field baskets and only three free throws.
