cold he reported having seen a girl wearing a lot of clothes.

The Hog Ford church has a new member in the person of Pit Smith. Not much noise will be made about it, however, until it is seen that he is going to stick.

When Spring gets under full headway and Poke Easley can move his chair out on the front porch at the postoffice the Postmaster announces that he will have much more room inside.

Isaac Hellwanger, who has always been a big hand to pick up and save the little things that other people throw away, reports that he now has nearly enough old rusty horse shoes to last him the balance of his days.

There is always something a person can be doing. If nothing else, he can take up the unfinished business of criticizing the fire department.

A rabbit was treed under the postoffice Tuesday morning and a good portion of the stock about and fixtures had to be raised high enough for Dock Hocks to crawl under.

Miss Fruzie Allsop, our erstwhile artist and poetess, has been appointed organist at the Dog Hill church, and has turned her shirt waist around.

Footwashing services will be held at Gander Creek the fourth Sunday in April. The public is cordially invited, especially those who are delinquent in their observation of this part of the natural laws.

Since everything else has gone so high, Poke Easley went down to see if there had been any change in the creek.

The Hog Ford Preacher got off a great many truthful things last Sunday. We are glad to see him improving so.

Yam Sims, one of our social favorites, is laid up with a bad cold, which he contracted while standing too near the lecture at Tickville Friday night.

Mrs. Luke Mathews, one of our oldest inhabitants, says she never dreamt of living to see pictures of people and things moving around on bed sheets in one end of a room full of people.

The snail, which has been with us from the beginning, is criticised a right smart on account of the leisurely, care-free manner in which it goes about the routine affairs of life, still, so far it has not been run over by civilization.
