

O'DOWD AND GIBBONS MATCH WAS GOOD ONE.

Between nine and ten thousand people gathered at the St. Paul auditorium last Friday to witness the match between Mike O'Dowd and Mike Gibbons, which resulted in a draw. The fight was pronounced wonderful, there being no dull moments during the entire ten rounds. They fought savagely but carefully and neither one gave his opponent an opportunity for a knockout blow.

Gibbons injured his right arm at the wrist in the sixth round and from then on he used it very sparingly. His head was also injured. Gibbons has announced that he will retire from the boxing game.

FOOTBALL TEAMS TIE IN SEMI-FINALS.

Virginia and Montevideo played the final game in the state high school title race, Wednesday afternoon, as a result of the conference of coaches Sunday. A flipped coin with H. E. Griebenow, formerly athletic director at Mountain Lake, Minn., calling for Montevideo, and Joe Diederich, old Minnesota athlete, representing Bemidji, decided that the former team would be given the chance. The flip Saturday, won by Virginia, was allowed to settle the other controversy.

When it was first announced that both of Saturday's battles had resulted in tie games it was thought that all four teams would play again, but this would have made it necessary to keep two of the outfits in Minneapolis more than a week and the financial question forced the abandonment of such a plan. As the race now stands there will be a tie for the state title whichever team wins, and two cups are to be donated if Norman Kingsley, in charge of the games for the university, can so arrange. If Montevideo wins, Bemidji will have equal claim, while if Virginia come out ahead, Worthington will have its claim. If the game Wednesday results in a tie, Kingsley says he thinks the governor will have to flip to decide which of the four is the best team.

Lawrence Longley was at Montevideo Saturday to act as one of the officials in the football game between Montevideo and Bemidji high teams. The game was played through without a score on either side and was therefore decided on the toss of a coin, Montevideo winning. However, it is understood that these teams will play another game should Montevideo win over Virginia, as Montevideo wishes to have an undisputed title.

PASTURE GRASS BEST STOCK FARM ASSET.

Pasture grass constitutes a balanced ration in itself for livestock, says Carl W. Gay of University Farm, and is therefore the foundation of the stock farm. The late Joe Wing declared that no land is too good or too high-priced to be used as temporary pasture at least. "Good pasture management," says Dr. Gay, "calls for the regular rolling, harrowing, reseeding and fertilizing that the other farm crops receive. It is only by this method that a good sod can be obtained; once secured, there are few crops on the stock farm that will justify its breaking up. Fully as important as the good pasture itself is the management of the stock placed upon it. Many pastures never have a chance on account of early and overstocking. The pastures should be permitted to get such a start that the stock will never catch up. By keeping the growth of grass ahead of the grazing the greatest total yield is secured and the pasture left in best shape for the winter."

GORTNER EXPLAINS RULES FOR ANALYZING.

It is announced by R. A. Gortner, chief of the division of agricultural biochemistry at University Farm, that the division limits its analyses to agricultural products and that it is necessary to make a charge to cover the cost. Persons who present mixtures for analysis should state definitely what they wish them analyzed for. "To analyze for all the materials," says Dr. Gortner, "would often cost a large sum of money, while to analyze for a particular one would be very much cheaper. It is impracticable to attempt the analysis of anything unless we know what it is intended to be analyzed for."

Extension Div. Letter

Joseph P. Hortsch of Cushing and Oscar Rydquist of Randall, in Morrison county, are expert buttermakers of Minnesota, who are becoming more expert by taking the advanced creamery buttermaking course at the college of agriculture at University Farm, St. Paul. The course provides for specialized instruction by means of lectures and practice work in dairy bacteriology and chemistry, pasteurization, testing dairy products, handling ice machines, creamery bookkeeping and creamery management. The course is one of a series of short courses projected at University Farm and is planned to meet the needs of experienced buttermakers who desire to brush up in particular lines. The other courses are for cheesemakers, which began November 17 and will run four weeks; a five-day school beginning December 1 for ice cream makers; a course for milk plant operators (beginners) from December 8 to 13 and another for creamery buttermakers (beginners) running from January 5 to February 15, 1920. A conference of creamery managers of the state will be held at University Farm January 1, Farmers' and Home-Makers' Week.

1920 Bulletin for Bread-Makers Out—In six years 15,000 boys and girls have been enrolled in Minnesota bread-making clubs. Five years ago Minnesota held fifth place with other states in respect to home-made bread. In 1918, largely as a result of the interest created by the bread-making clubs, the state was ranked as first by the United States Department of Agriculture. Bread-making will be continued as a club project in 1920. The work includes local and county contests and a bread-making contest at the state fair. A special new bulletin, which can be obtained on application at the Office of Publications, University Farm, explains condition and requirements of the project and gives rules governing the contests and makes suggestions for bread club programs.

Three Boys Win Trip to Chicago—The state junior livestock judging contest held at University Farm November 19 was won by W. Bredy of Morris, J. Davis of Redwood Falls and J. Winkley of Faribault. Norman, Fairmont; Wallace Bolan, Princeton; N. Gjerston, Madelia; Albert J. Hentges, Shakopee; A. Peters, Faribault; Gifford Haugland, Watson; Charles Watts, Pipestone; Joel Peterson, Dassel; John Landby, Swift. Nineteen counties sent 38 boys to take part in the contest. Queen Bees Are Following Fashion—Advancing costs of labor and material are responsible for an increase in the price of queen bees sent out by the division of bee culture at University Farm. For the season of 1920, says Francis Jager, chief of the division, the price for untested queens has been raised to $1 each, or five for $4. The price of tested queens will be $1.50 each. Five untested and one tested is the limit which will be furnished one beekeeper. Messrs. Jager and Matthews will be personally in charge of queen raising at University Farm.

HAVE YOU PRINTED STATIONERY?

If not, why not? The Herald office can supply your wants and do it practically as cheap as you can buy tablets and plain envelopes. Mr. Farmer you should have printed stationery for your farm and in this manner let other people know that you take pride in your place or business. If your farm is named so much the better, but it isn't exactly necessary to have that to have printed envelopes and letter heads. Come in and let us fix you up.
