

INSURE YOUR HAY CROP THIS YEAR

By installing The Louden Hay Tools in your barn.

Hay must be handled quickly. The crop is valuable and the weather uncertain. And a sudden storm when the hay is down may mean a loss greater than the price of two hay carrier outfits.

THE LOUDEN HAY TOOLS

are simple and they work perfectly, we can prove their satisfaction, by the many farmers that have used them for years in Morrison county.

Ask Your Neighbor.

We have everything for the Barn.

LIGHT NOW PLACED ON MAP

Uncle Sam Officially Recognizes Beacon Designed to Commemorate the Titanic Disaster.

After seven years the "tute" light in the lighthouse on the roof of the Seamen's church institute has obtained official recognition on the government charts of New York harbor. For years this green beacon was ignored. Later it was recorded as a "fixed point." Now it is marked with a star on maps.

The lighthouse was erected to commemorate the heroes of the greatest marine disaster in the modern world, the sinking of the steamship Titanic off Newfoundland April 15, 1912. The lighthouse was dedicated on the first anniversary of the disaster as a memorial erected by public subscription and the work of prominent women. The light called "tute" by seamen, soon was guiding pilots who, as they turned the Hook 15 miles or more away, might make out the green and brilliant star supplied by the 7,500 candle power of three Cooper Hewitt quartz electric lamps 211 feet above the city streets. This green light on the starboard especially provided an excellent range for vessels making their way to the East river.

The lighthouse also has carried since November 1, 1913, a time ball 4 feet in diameter which drops each day at "standard mean" noon, when, as "Larry remarks to Bill down in the slip," "she's jes 5 er'clock in Lunin'."

WERE BURIED IN PYRAMIDS

Astec Dignitaries Had Imposing Tombs in the Little Village of San Juan Teotihuacan.

The little village of San Juan Teotihuacan, which in the Aztec language meant "City of the Gods," was in the early days of Aztec history the scene of extraordinary religious ceremonies. The two pyramids, one dedicated to the sun, the other to the moon, are known to have been the tombs in which hundreds of tribal dignitaries were buried and excavators have exhumed wrought stone containing human bones, obsidian knives, terra cotta heads with broad faces and flat noses, fragments of rare pottery and great numbers of arrowheads. One of the most recent and most valuable discoveries was a jadeite mask of some past monarch, with the brow covered with the diadem known to early Mexican history. The pyramid to the sun and the one to the moon both contain chambers and their several stories are complete temples in themselves, but connected by winding stairs.

The inscriptions having Chinese characteristics were discovered through searching in the ruins of what has generally been known as La Ciudadela (The Citadel), but which, according to recent reports of investigators, are what is left of a pyramid larger and, perhaps, older than the two pyramids to the sun and the moon.

Whence Comes Turpentine. Most people know that turpentine is a product of the pine tree, but are not acquainted with the means by which it is obtained.

Beneath the bark of the tree are resin-secreting cells, whose output is meant by nature for healing wounds. If the skin of the tree be wounded severely, many more of these cells, much larger in size, develop and pour out great quantities of resin.

Hence, to procure the resin, the bark is well scarred with cuts (preferably made in a series of parallel V's), and a receptacle is placed beneath to catch the fluid as it exudes.

The fluid is then distilled and the volatile part of it, which passes over, is turpentine. The residue is what we call "rosin" and is used for many purposes, one of its employments being in the manufacture of explosives.—Kansas City Star.

America's Telephone Industry.

According to the report by the bureau of the census showing the results of the census of telephones covering the year 1917, there are 53,234 separate telephone systems and lines. These lines and systems operated 28,827,188 miles of wire in the United States—enough to girdle the earth at the equator 1,153 times—and connected 11,716,520 telephones and 21,175 public exchanges.

The messages or "talks" sent over these wires aggregated the stupendous total of nearly 22,000,000,000, or to be exact, 21,845,722,335. Figured on the estimated population of the country in 1917, this gives 211 messages per annum to every man, woman and child.

Heart Expels Bullets.

During the war surgeons did some extraordinary operations on the heart. An account of these and of the technique is given by Sir Charles Ballance, consulting surgeon of St. Thomas' hospital, London, in the Lancet. An interesting fact related by him is that bullets that penetrated the heart were often expelled through the aorta with the blood and were found at remote parts of the body where they had stuck in an artery.

"Bump the Bumps" for Electric Iron.

In one of the large electric manufacturing companies which is among other things engaged in the manufacture of electric irons, a specimen iron from each hundred or so is taken and subjected to a severe test by a series of bumps on a hard surface, reproducing as far as possible the shocks which it receives while in use on the ironing board. A well-built iron will stand this treatment from 16 to 24 hours before it fails.
